U.S. Begins Arms Lift To Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. has begun an airlift of military supplies to Israel to prevent a "massive airlift" by the Soviet Union from unsettling the military balance in the area.

The state department's chief spokesman on the Mideast crisis, Ambassador Robert J. McCloskey, said the U.S. learned a Soviet airlift resupplying Egypt and Syria had increased from the standpoint of both numbers of flights and tonnage delivered to replace Arab losses in the war so far.

McCloskey said some of the replacement military hardware for Israel had arrived in the Mideast. That indicated the U.S. airlift began soon after the administration became convinced that the Russians were not only continuing but greatly increasing their airlift to the Arabs.

Officials said privately the U.S. airlift began about 30 hours before the announcement came today.

In the fighting, Israel has succeeded in holding the Sinai against another Egyptian human-wave assault in what appears to be the decisive battle of the war now 10 days old.

But almost the entire Egyptian army has made it across the Suez Canal, where Israel is expected to give the next priority.

Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan reported to the nation that Syria had been pushed back far enough into its own territory behind the 1967 cease-fire line so Israel could give the highest priority to the Suez front. He said the war would be "long in days and heavy in bloodshed."

On the Syrian front, Israel said it had broken through the central sector of the 60-mile-long Golan Heights line, smashing Iraqi armored forces, destroying dozens of tanks and sending remnants of the Iraqi army fleeing in retreat. It was the second disastrous defeat of the war for Iraq.

Farther to the northeast, Israeli patrols struck within nine miles of Damascus, reaching the village of Vissya, and armored columns were

ARAB OIL NOT VITAL FOR U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government released figures today showing the nation could get along without Arab oil, at least for the time being, in the event of a cutoff because of the Arab-Israeli war.

The figures showed the U.S. imports about 1½ million barrels a day of oil direct from Arab countries, about 6 per cent of the total daily average U.S. consumption of 17 million barrels.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who supplies the bulk of Middle East oil imported by the U.S., holds the key to an Arab embargo on petroleum shipments to nations supporting Israel in the war. But Beirut sources said it would be too costly for his country to stop the flow.

Saudi Arabia and 10 other Arab oil nations meet Wednesday in Kuwait "to discuss the role of oil in the Arab-Israeli war," the government of the Persian Gulf state said.

William Simon, chairman of the president's oil policy committee, said the U.S. could reduce consumption by up to three million barrels a day through all-out conservation.

B.C. Rail Down Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Railway spokesman said today the government-owned line is shut down as its four shopcraft unions walked off the job after contract negotiations broke down.

About 400 employees, working out of Squamish are involved in the strike. The four unions are the machinists, electricians, plumbers and pipefitters, and carmen.

Negotiations between the company and the shopcraft unions broke down late Sunday.

A negotiating committee spokesman said wages and expiration date were the main issues. He said the length of contract management wanted would make it impossible to keep abreast of the cost of living.

The railway was closed by a strike in mid-September during negotiations with 12 unions.

On Saturday, a spokesman for the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees said an agreement had been reached between his union and B.C. Railway.

The base rate for shopcraft journeymen is $4.05 an hour with a 30-cent hourly trade differential. The railway's offer would raise the rate to $6.01 an hour over 31 months.

Thai Street Riots Flare

BANGKOK (UPI) — Anti-military students burned the police headquarters and took over public buildings, including hospitals, here today following the end of a decade of militaty rule Sunday.

The former military premier, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, resigned his post as supreme commander of the Thai armed forces today and left the country. He resigned as prime minister Sunday. The deputy supreme commander, Field Marshal Prapass Charusathira, also resigned and left Thailand, the radio said.

On Sunday, Thanom was replaced as premier by a civilian, Sanya Thammasak.

The radio said a 10 p.m. curfew had been moved up to 8 p.m. Military officials said the situation had become "gradually more tense due to audacious acts of rebellion" and threatened to take "decisive measure" against curfew violators.

The radio broadcast a personal appeal from Sanya asking citizens to stay at home. Sanya's appeal said: "The students and his majesty's government have come to an understanding." This was broadcast following a meeting between Sanya and representatives of the national students centre of Thailand."

The new violence was a spillover from "bloody Sunday" fighting between rioters and government forces that left as many as 400 persons dead by some estimates. King Bhumiplo Adulyadej told the nation "hundreds of Thai people have been killed."

At police headquarters a few blocks from the Rajdamnern area that was a major scene of Sunday's violence, a crowd estimated at about 10,000 persons — mostly students — pelted the four-storey building with stones and homemade Molotov cocktails.

Shouting "we have gotten rid of the oppressors," they set fire to the building and vehicles parked outside, forcing their way through the gates by using a commandeered bus as a battering ram. The fire burned unchecked and spread to nearby buildings.

2,000 FLEE BOSTON FIRE

CHELSEA, Mass. (UPI) — Fire fed by winds gusting to more than 40 mph swept "like a tornado" through a depressed area of scrapyards and tenements Sunday, destroying nearly a quarter of this Boston-area city and forcing more than 2,000 persons to evacuate their homes.

There were no deaths or serious injuries.

Mayor Philip Spelman and Sen. Edward Kennedy, (D — Mass.) urged the government to declare the densely-populated city of more than 30,000 a federal disaster area.

Some 500 national guardsmen were ordered into city streets today to help police guard against possible looting.

Spelman said many lives had been saved because the fire started at 4 p.m., in daylight.

"If this had started at 3 or 4 in the morning, God only knows what would have happened," he said.

"It swept through the city like a tornado . . . the winds were high — very high," the mayor said. The city "would have been in real trouble" if it had not been for railroad tracks dividing it which created a natural fire line, he said.

He estimated damage "in the millions," and said 400 to 600 persons would be thrown out of work and up to 1,000 persons lost their homes.

The fire is believed to have begun in an abandoned building and spread through a rundown industrial area containing many abandoned buildings, some scheduled for urban renewal, and warehouses containing scrap material, paper, rubber and metal. The area is predominantly White and Puerto Rican with a lingering Jewish population.

NEWS BRIEFS

Dollar Higher Despite Warning

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar opened marginally higher against most European currencies today despite warnings about possible adverse effects the Middle East war may have on U.S. currency, dealers said.

"It is still too early in the week to see which way the market will go," one London trader said. "But there is some feeling in banking quarters that the U.S. may get further involved in the Middle East war and weaken the dollar."

Geothermal Hope Called Forlorn

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

A statement last week by Resources Minister Robert Williams that geothermal power might soon be available for Vancouver Island seems like a forlorn hope.

Williams, commenting on a statement by B.C. Hydro chairman David Cass-Beggs that natural gas would be the main heating fuel on Vancouver Island within 10 years, said it was only one source of energy being considered.

Among the alternatives in 10 years time, Williams said, was giothermal power, tapping the earth's heat.

However, geologists indicate that Vancouver Island is not a good place to look.

There is a break in the earth's crust on the west coast of Vancouver Island, similar to the San Andreas Fault, that may be commercially useful — or maybe not.

"It may be promising but we just don't know. We are more optimistic about geothermal sources on the mainland, a geologist said.

"We hope to see geothermal power on the mainland in 10 to 15 years but it likely will be later than that on the Island."

The promising signs are hot springs and volcanic activity.

There is no volcanic activity on Vancouver Island and few hot springs.

On the mainland, however, gologists have been studying hot springs for about two years and are optimistic that commercial sources of steam will be located.

On the Island it could be many years before commercial quantities of steam are located along the lengthy west coast fault line.

Although geologists consider geothermal power to be more than a decade away in B.C., it is not a new idea.

Italy had a geothermal power plant in 1904 and has expanded its capacity to be the largest such electricity source at 600 megawatts.

However, California has developed hot springs north of San Francisco with a geothermal power plant in the 300 to 400 megawatt range. California plans to expand this into the world's largest in the near future.

At the same time, oil companies drilling in the western United States are also looking for underground steam.

They are optimistic about uncovering large amounts of underground steam in Phoenix and Nevada and lesser amounts in Oregon and Idaho.

PM Makes Deal On Acupuncture

By JOHN BURNS
Special to The Times

PEKING — Commitments by China to teach Canadian doctors the technique of acupuncture analgesia and to facilitate the reunion of divided Chinese-Canadian families are included in the agreements reached by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Premier Chou En-lai, who concluded nearly 11 hours of formal talks here at the weekend.

At the suggestion of the Canadian side, there was no official communique after the talks.

Instead, Trudeau issued a statement describing the talks as "extremely warm and indicative of a high order of mutual respect and regard," and outlining a series of agreements in the areas of medicine, consular affairs, trade, science and technology, education, culture and sport.

The highlights:

Medicine: Canada will send a nine-member team to China next April for a month's study of acupuncture analgesia, the technique of killing pain by agitating needles inserted at prescribed points on the body. China has claimed remarkable success with the technique, citing it as a means of relieving and even curing afflictions ranging from arthritis to epilepsy.

Consular affairs: Since 1949, when the Communists clamped down on emigration from China, Chinese-Canadians have faced the anguish of enforced separation from relatives left behind.

In recent years, the Peking government has issued a few hundred exit visas, but Canadian officials hope to see the flow substantially increased as a result of an agreement for the two countries to exchange consulates.

Next year, China will send delegates specializing in laser research, open cast coal mining, seismology, fisheries and forestry to Canada. Canada will reciprocate by sending delegates to China in the fields of coal mining by hydraulics, fisheries, forestry and pest control.

Trade: A trade agreement was signed to serve as a general framework for commerce over the next three years. A joint trade committee will meet annually, and both sides have committed themselves to promoting the interchange of traders, a pledge that the Canadians hope will lead to better access for Canadian businessmen to Chinese buyers.

Meanwhile, China opens the door to its strategic southwest to Trudeau as he flies today from this ancient city in central China to Kweiling in Kwangsi province bordering North Vietnam.

The Chinese gesture is considered as symbolic of China's friendship towards Canada as the border province is seldom open to visits by foreigners.

New Flu Strain Poised

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new influenza virus against which most persons have no natural immunity could cause a flu outbreak in North America this winter reminiscent of the Hong Kong flu epidemic of 1968-69.

Dr. Robert Rubin, an epidemiologist at the National Centre for Disease Control said the new flu virus, known as the B-Hong Kong-5-72 strain, has made widespread attacks in Japan.

The strain, or ones similar to it, also have been identified in Australia, England and Germany.

The new strain was first isolated from a patient in Hong Kong last year, like the old A-2 Hong Kong virus that struck the country five years ago. It also is similar to the earlier strain in that it represents an antigenic shift which makes the general population susceptible to it.

Unlike 1968 when a protective vaccine did not become available until late in the flu season, pharmaceutical houses do have a vaccine ready to combat the new Hong Kong flu. Rubin said six pharmaceutical houses are manufacturing the protective vaccine and the suppy appears sufficient.

"We have not received any reports of widespread shortages," he said.

In past years, only a single shot of bivalent vaccine was necessary to protect people against the current strains of A and B influenza. This flu season, however, two injections will be necessary with one of the shots containing specific antibodies to combat the new virus.

GUNMEN BEAT BOY

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen beat up a 17-year-old youth early today, tied him to a school fence and hung a sign reading "police informer" around his neck.

Police said the youth, who was not identified, was put in hospital.

In another incident, soldiers disarmed a 35-pound bomb found outside a beauty shop in east Belfast. Another bomb exploded on the steps of city hall in the County Down town of Crossgare, causing minor damage.

Three gunmen ambushed an eight-man army patrol in Londonderry late Sunday night, wounding one soldier.

CS Strike Privilege Assured

The B.C. government introduced legislation this afternoon which will give at least 36,000 civil servants their first collective bargaining rights.

The bill is substantially the same as Bill 182 introduced in the spring session but held over until fall to allow representations to be made.

Some modifications have been made in the area of what is exluded from collective bargaining and some points have been clarified, Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall told reporters.

The right to strike is continued. Hall said this right will go "a long way to eliminating illegal strikes such as the ferries."

Promotional policy, excluded in the first bill, is partly implemented in the new bill. Hall said the merits of promotional policy will be bargainable and seniority will be a consideration.

Pensions, however, remain excluded. The B.C. Government Employees Union had urged the government strongly to allow pensions to be bargainable, arguing that they are a form of deferred wages.

Procedures and methods of training and retraining, excluded in the first bill, are partly met in the new bill, Hall said. Specific training programs affecting one occupational group will be bargainable, he said.

Classification of positions will be bargainable as far as the dozen components of the three bargaining groups are concerned, he said.

The two-tier bargaining arrangement which Hall said has not been tried in other provinces will see three bargaining groups: nurses; all professional employees; all other employees.

A master contract will be negotiated covering those matters which are common to everyone in each group. Subsidiary agreements will be negotiated with employees of the components.

Hall said ferry employees have not been granted separate bargaining rights except as it applies to them being a component group of the main civil service bargaining unit.

The religious conscientious objection clause, modelled on the proposed new labor code, is included.

The new bill will apply to employees of the Workmen's Compensation Board, Manning Park Lodge, Lions Gate Tourist Court and B.C. Institute of Technology, but not to Crown corporations nor to Queen's Printer craftsmen, the Energy Commission, Insurance Corp. of B.C. and the B.C. Development Corp.

The Labor Relations Board being established under the labor code will be the board to administer the servants' bargaining legislation.

Hall also said bargaining will be possible on effects on employees of reductions in civil service establishments.

Specified court officials are excluded to permit courts to continue at all times, Hall said, rather than having the chief justice decide who is essential to the operations of the courts.

"The government is honoring its commitment to provide collective bargaining for the civil service," Hall said.

"It gives the employees a real voice in their wages and conditions."

CHEAPER MILK BUT . . .

Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich today confirmed the provincial government will adopt a milk subsidy program Nov. 1 which will roll back milk prices in the province by four cents a quart.

Stupich said that while he welcomes the assistance being granted to consumers, it must be understood that additional increases at the retail level may occur if the present costs of production for dairy products continue to increase.

"The public should also be warned that milk production is failing to meet requirements and supplies are seriously deficient," he said.

Liberals Oppose Ford

WASHINTON (UPI) — The first organized opposition to Gerald Ford's nomination as vice-president surfaced today. At the same time, Congress began a two-stage confirmation process which could take a month to complete.

The liberal group, Americans for Democratic Action, said its national board voted unanimously at a meeting here Sunday "to oppose confirmation of Congressman Gerald Ford as vice-president."

So far, the only question raised publicly about Ford's campaign finances concerns an $11,500 contribution to his 1970 campaign which he allegedly did not report to the clerk of the House.

Ford told reporters Saturday the incident could be "adequately explained."

He said the money exceeded the amount his personal campaign committee was allowed to receive, and that he signed it over to Republican national headquarters for use in behalf of other candidates.

He invited committees considering his confirmation to look "fully" into the incident.

Ammo Air-Drop Shot Up

Times News Services

PHNOM PENH — A Cambodian transport plane air dropping ammunition to government troops near Phnom Penh was hit by rebel ground fire today and crashed at the capital's Pochentong airport.

A farmer who witnessed the crash said he saw five men, their clothing and hair on fire, run from the burning plane just before it was wracked by a series of explosions.

However, a western diplomatic source said he was told by the pilot and crew there were no injuries.

Meanwhile South Vietnamese and Viet Cong spokesmen agreed today that the Communists captured the government's White Horse Mountain militia outpost Friday but disagreed on the reasons.

The outpost, midway between Hue and Da Nang, is about 385 miles north of Saigon.

The Viet Cong said that in seizing the outpost they were simply recovering what belonged to them in the first place.

Egyptians Thrown Back

within 14 miles of the Syrian capital. But the main Israeli forces were reported bogged down in heavy fighting at the important crossroads town of Saasa, 22 miles southwest of Damascus.

Israel said its pilots dominate the skies over the Middle East as they struck deep into Syria and Egypt. Air raid sirens wailed in Cairo again today but there was no indication Israeli planes had bombed near the capital. Israeli artillery hit the outskirts of Damascus.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said the main objective of the Egyptian offensive was to seize control of the three passes leading through a low range of mountains into the heart of the Sinai. They are the Mitla, in the centre, the Khatmia near the Mediterranean behind Qantara, and the El-Gedei in the south. All are about 20 miles east of the canal.

Each side claimed victories in the Sinai. Israel's claims of unopposed strikes constituted one of its strongest assertions of air superiority since the Arabs launched the fourth Arab-Israeli war in 25 years.

In the fast-moving action, Egypt reported it carried out a surprise dawn raid — either by helicopter or ship — behind Israeli lines in Sinai along the Mediterranean coast, inflicted heavy damage and withdrew.

President Idi Amin of Uganda arrived in the Jordanian capital of Amman Sunday night and met with King Hussein for talks on the Middle East war, official sources said.

TERRORISTS TRAINED HERE

TORONTO (UPI) — The CTV television network public affairs program W 5 reported Sunday Arab and Israeli terrorists were known to be living in Canada and travelling on forged Canadian passports.

A report by investigative reporter Robert Reguly said Arab terrorists cells apparently existe in Montreal, Toronto, Calgary and Vancouver.

Reguly also said Canada apparently was the staging area for an unsuccessful plot to kill Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir on a recent visit to New York.

Noting that one member of an alleged Israeli terrorist group uncovered in Norway was using a forged Canadian passport, the network said a ring of Israelis in Montreal was believed to be regularly copying passports for use by Israeli agents.

Reguly said both sides in the intergnational terror campaign were using forged Canadian passports, most likely including ones forged on 50 passport blanks recently stolen from the Canadian embassy in Vienna.

The report also suggested links between radical separatists in Quebec and Arab terrorists. It said the RCMP have a list of 62 Quebeckers who have been trained in Arab military camps.

Chabot in Race

Social Credit MLA James Chabot became the sixth candidate today for the leadership of the Social Credit Party, which will be decided at a Vancouver convention in late November.

Chabot, former labor minister in the Socred government, joins four other Social Credit MLAs in the leadership race, which is also being contested by Burnaby accountant James Mason. Chabot is the MLA for the Columbia River riding.

The MLAs in the contest are Bill Bennett, South Okanagan; Bob McClelland, Langley; Harvey Schroeder, Chilliwack, and Ed Smith, North Peace River.

Bugging 'Way Of Life'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Douglas said today that late president Lyndon Johnson's telephone was tapped during his term in the White House.

Douglas also said that the Supreme Court's conference room was bugged.

Douglas' assertions came in a dissent to what would normally have been a routine actions denying bail to a criminal defendant.

"We who live in the District of Columbia know that electronic surveillance is commonplace," wrote Douglas. "I am indeed morally certain that the conference room of this court has been 'bugged'; and President Johnson during his term in the White House asserted to me that even his phone was tapped."

Douglas offered no substantiation for either statement.

The application for bail pending appeal to the Supreme Court was filed by Margaret Anne Heutsche, who was found in contempt for failure to answer questions before a federal grand jury in Chicago that was investigating break-ins at draft boards in Evanston, Ill.

The defendant said the subpoena and the questions asked her before the grand jury were the product of illegal electronics surveillance and that the government had not properly affirmed or denied that claim as required by federal law.

CARACAS (AP) — Canada's Energy Minister Donald Macdonald began a three-day visit here today to discuss mutual petroleum interests with Venezuelan officials.

Consul Released

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The honorary British consul in Gadalajara was released by kidnappers who held him for four days, but an industrialist who also was kidnapped last Wednesday still is missing. The consul, Dr. Anthony Duncan Williams, returned home unharmed Sunday night.

Sea Law Parley Debated

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly's main political committee begins a week of debate today on whether the long-planned conference on the law of the sea should be held this winter and, if held, whether decisions must be unanimous.

Japan and the Soviet bloc want to postpone the conference. Others favor starting it in November as the 1972 General Assembly agreed.

The political committee also is to consider whether to limit the conference to members of the United Nations and related agencies or to invite North Vietnam.

The biggest fight is likely over whether the conference will take decisions by voting or by consensus, which would require unanimity. This would allow the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and other major powers to veto decisions unfavorable to their interests.

U.S. Report Urges Stop To New Jails

WASHINGTON (WP) — A 10-year moratorium on construction of almost all new prisons and jails in the U.S. is proposed by the national advisory commission on criminal justice standards and goals.

It called the American correctional system an unreformable failure in a 636-page report stating prisons fail in the most elementary task of protecting the public.

The study warned that states and localities are now on the brink of building a new generation of useless and obsolete prisons and jails which will perpetuate the failures of the past.

It said that no new major prisons or jails should be built for at least 10 years without a thorough attempt to find other alternatives and a decision that new construction is absolutely necessary. Under no conditions should a single new juvenile jail be built, it said.

The prison, the commission asserted, "is obsolete, cannot be reformed, should not be perpetuated through the false hope of forced "treatment" and should be repudiated as useless for any purpose other than locking away persons who are too dangerous to be allowed at large in free society."

"For that purpose," it added, "we already have more prison space than we need or will need in the foreseeable future."

The commission's criticism followed familiar lines in finding that prisons fail to rehabilitate criminals and it echoed other reform-minded groups in urging most offenders are better served by early release into the community at large.

But it went a step further than most by proposing a moratorium on building prisons and by suggesting that officials immediately start trying to release prisoners whose incarceration is unnecessary.

In another unusual recommendation, the commission urged lighter sentences for convicted criminals, with a five-year maximum sentence for all but the most serious felonies.

The commission study was sponsored by the justice department's law enforcement assistance administration and was directed at state and local correctional systems.

The recommendations were praised by Donald E. Santarelli, the administrator, who called standards "realistic and practical."

Santraelli said "our present correctional system too often calls upon society to pay a double price. In the first place, society pays to incarcerate an offender, then it pays when the man victimizes society again after his release."

Russell W. Peterson, former governor of Delaware, was chairman of the commission. Sheriff Peter Pitchess of Los Angeles County served as vice chairman, and the administration's counsel, Thomas J. Madden, was executive director.

In seeking to establish standards for the local systems to follow the commission. Said inmates should be guaranteed the fullest civil rights possible. They should be helped to gain access to courts in contesting their imprisonement and in seeking redress for punishments inflicted in prison. Lawyers should be provided. Prisoners should be guaranteed freedom of speech to the same extent as people at large.

It urged that as far as possible juveniles should be kept out of any kind of jail. Police should not have authority to determine whether a juvenile is detained; the decison should be made by court personnel who are on duty 24 hours a day.

WESTCOAST CUTS BACK

Westcoast Transmission Company today cut back natural gas supplies to its customers by 4 per cent but no regular contracts are affected by the order.

The two main purchasers, B.C. Hydro and Inland Natural Gas, both said today's supply will fulfill their regular contracts.

"What is being cut is the surplus natural gas we were buying," a spokesman for Inland Natural Gas said.

"This is not a problem right now but it could become a serious problem when it gets colder."

Edwin Phillips, president of Westcoast Transmission, said the company was 50 million cubic feet of natural gas short of what it could sell today, a reduction of about 4 per cent.

Amoco Canada Ltd., which has a water incursion in its wells, is delivering only 145 million cubic feet daily, instead of its contract amount of 290 million.

"Theoretically we are 145 million cubic feet short but this will not be felt until demand picks up with the cold weather," he said.

Phillips said he expected the demand — and the shortage — to increase week by week as winter approaches.

★

A B.C. Hydro spokesman said all customers were being supplied with natural gas today. The company expected some industrial users would have to use oil as an alternate source if supplies of natural gas diminish and demand grows.

Inland Natural Gas stressed that today's announcement by Westcoast did not affect Inland's deliveries to any customers.

"All our problems, if any, are in the future," a company spokesman said.

Westcoast Transmission has said it will have to ration its sales of natural gas as demand increases because the company does not have surplus supplies.

The shortage is entirely due to failure of Amoco Canada Ltd. to deliver its contracted amount of natural gas, Westcoast said.

NDP Manoeuvre Secures Skagit Recreation Area

The provincial government announced today the creation of a 92,000-acre recreation area in the Skagit Valley as a strategic manoeuvre in the battle to prevent flooding of the area.

"This should make it abundantly clear," Resources Minister Bob Williams said in a written announcement, "that we are going to keep the Skagit for recreation not for power development."

The announcement, which involves prime recreation land at the eastern end of the Lower Mainland, includes:

— expansion of the 3,700-acre Skagit River Park into an 81,000-acre Skagit Valley recreation area, extending from near the Hope-Princeton Highway to the U.S. border;

— designation of the mile-wide 11,000-acre special Forest Services recreation corridor along the 15-mile approach route from Silver Lake Park near Hope to the new recreation area.

At least 5,000 acres in the area is threatened with flooding in an agreement made by the former Social Credit administration with Seattle City Light Co.

That agreement would allow the company to raise the level of Ross Dam in Washington State by 125 feet which would raise the level of Ross Lake and subsequently flood part of the Skagit Valley in B.C.

The proposal still needs the approval of the U.S. Federal Power Commission. The provincial government has committed itself to preventing the move.

Recreation Minister Jack Radford said the Skagit, which has attracted 50,000 tourists this year, will be preserved as "an area with special environmental features and recreational potential."

The Skagit River boasts excellent trout fly fishing and immediate plans by the Forest Service include development of a swimming beach, picnic site and campgrounds.

Cadets Again Tops

For the fourth year in succession the No. 676 air cadet squadron at Sidney has been judged the most proficient of 38 British Columbia squadrons.

The D. R. MacLaren Trophy for proficiency was awarded squadron representatives at the annual meeting of the B.C. provincial committee, Air Cadet League of Canada, held in Vancouver on the weekend.

The squadron also received the award for the best air cadet band in the province.

The Sidney squadron, which has close to 90 cadets, parades at the industrial site of the Victoria International Airport.

Capt. David Price was commanding officer during the period the awards were won. He has now handed over command to Capt. Jarvis McLeod.

Battlefield Laboratories

Small wars are the testing grounds for weapons to be used in larger wars. A classic example was Hitler's use of the Spanish civil war to unveil and develop the art of dive bombing. Vietnam — a very costly small war — enabled the United States to study the technique of helicopter deployment and the use of napalm bombing. Today, Russia is taking advantage of the Middle East fighting to observe the merits of a number of types of electronic armament — an opportunity which the 1967 warfare did not afford because it ended too quickly.

There is a cold deliberation about such goings on which strikes a chill into the civilian. But armaments need practical use if their strengths and weaknesses are to be properly assessed. There is no better laboratory than a hot war between neighbors who are eager to provide the guineapig conditions.

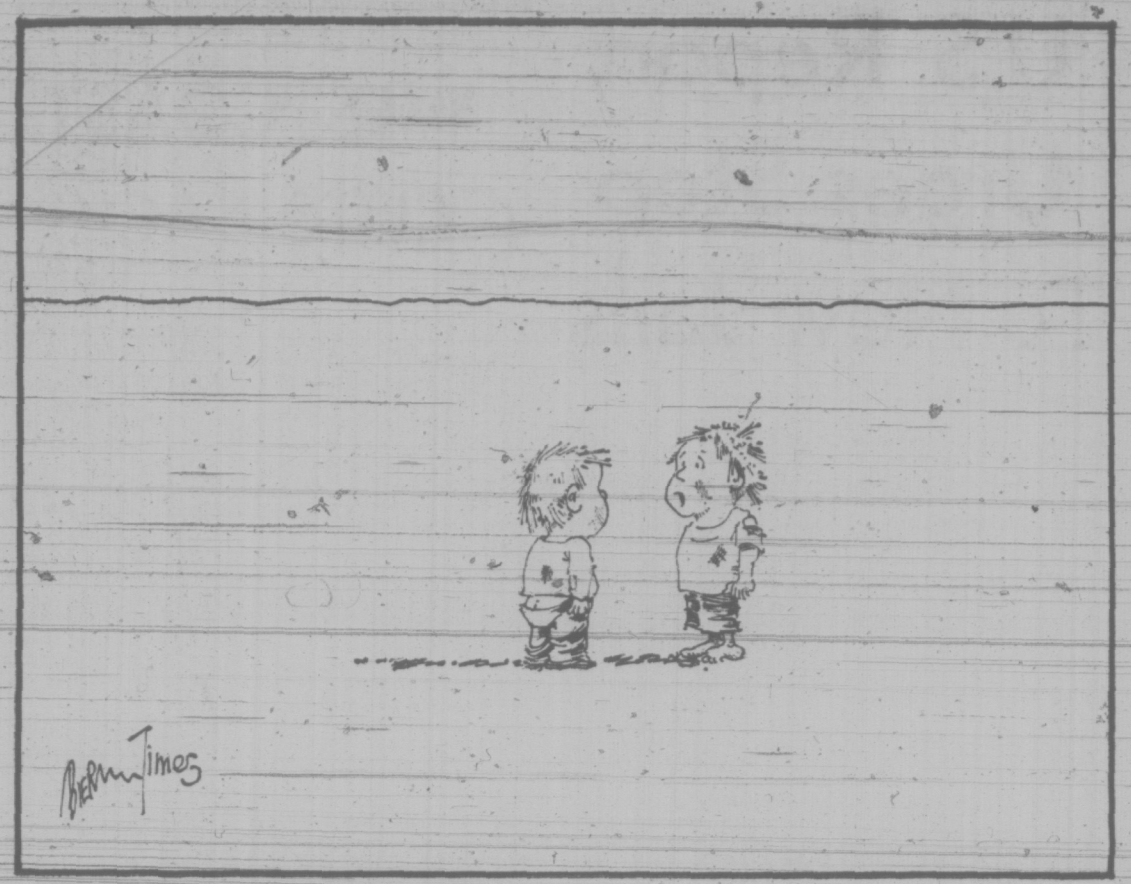
It is not an inexpensive program. Russia has poured millions of dollars worth of equipment into Arab hands, and much of it may never survive the war. While Israeli aircraft losses are difficult to assess from the conflicting reports by both sides, it is clear that many planes have been downed by fire from the ground. This comes from sophisticated weaponry known as SAM 2s, 3s, 4s or 6s, and military experts say they have been responsible for most of the Israeli casualties in the air. SAM 3s are used against low-flying planes, while SAM 6s have been effective against high-flying targets.

Anti-aircraft missiles may be heat-seekers, which means they are attracted to hot aircraft exhuasts; or they may be guided by various forms of radar to their targets. But aircraft can be equipped with electronic and other defences against these weapons. Hence the need for practical employment to test their capabilities.

On this basis, war loses whatever shreds of glamor it may have held this far into the twentieth century, and becomes the deadly push-button contest which was foreseen for the nuclear age. New tanks and tank guns, new electronic devices for detection and destruction, and other modern forms of armament are also on trial, adding to the process of carefully calculated, scientific killing which war now is.

Israel is fighting for its life. The Arabs are fighting for their property. But Russia is fighting — through its intermediaries — to perfect the weapons which it may someday need for its own brand of warfare.

In our modern concentration on preventing the horrors of nuclear warfare we have perhaps overlooked spectacular advances in what are called the conventional methods of warfare. We are far along the path to global destruction in one way or another. World disarmament is demonstrably a necessity before all humanity falls into the guineapig role.



"... well ... I don't have a home anymore ... because we didn't have a house to put it in ..."

Putting It All Together

Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer is taking a very rational approach to the amalgamation of unorganized areas on Southern Vancouver Island. After trading ideas Tuesday with representatives from the area he strongly hinted that some type of municipal government is in the wind for View Royal, Langford and Colwood in the next few months.

In recent years these areas have mushroomed, almost to the point of becoming municipalities by any other name. Yet as the areas developed so have the problems of sewage, water supply, roads and other functions that should come under the auspices of a municipal structure. But at present, residents of the unorganized areas can only turn to their representatives on the capital regional board. A case in point occurred when the unorganized territories lacked a local authority to organize construction of a centennial swimming pool. Without incorporation or other type of organization the areas will develop into a hodge-podge of unplanned satellites on the urban flanks.

At present the government appears to be considering the formation of one or more municipalities from the unorganized territories and perhaps join in part of the area to existing municipalities. But carved out of the large existing areas some future government may have to consider amalgamation all over again.

Not all local residents will be happy with any eventual realignment. But when sewage is surfacing in area ditches and water supplies are in doubt it is time to act for the good of the whole community. The provincial department of municipal affairs is proceeding cautiously, and no final decision has been made. It is clear, however, that some type of civic structure is now required in the unorganized areas to take on the functions which the greater density of population demands.

Dining On The Ferries

A minor tempest is brewing in the Legislature over the future of dining room facilities on British Columbia ferries. Transport Minister Robert Strachan, who has been less than candid on the issue, now admits that the new stretched ferry, Queen of Nanaimo, will have an enlarged cafeteria-style food facility rather than a dining room.

Is this the thin edge of the wedge in phasing out ferry dining rooms, as so many MLAs seem to think? If that is the case — so what? The dining rooms are often only half-full, the food is expensive and not always worth the price.

No B.C. ferry trip is longer than two hours. If people want a lavish dinner in luxurious surroundings they will do better ashore, with the added bonus of complementing the dinner with cocktails or wine. B.C. Ferries' basic job is transportation. If the public purse can save money by eliminating largely unwanted frills there is little reason to complain. The enlarged cafeterias which Mr. Strachan mentions would absorb the dining room staff. Considering that a fish sandwich is just as nutritious as a filet of sole, it is difficult to understand Mr. Strachan's defensiveness and the opposition's discord.

FRANK RUTTER

Hot War and Chilly Homes

WASHINGTON — The war in the Middle East will affect how warm and how mobile people are this winter in much of the rest of the world.

Oil is already an undercurrent in the battle between Israel and the Arabs and it could become a critical issue before hostilities are settled.

The first effects are being felt now. They are cutbacks in the output of oil from the Arab nations which produce much of the western world's supply, and curtailment of shipments from Mediterranean ports.

Oil tankers are avoiding the Mediterranean because of the danger in operating near the Middle East battlegrounds.

According to diplomatic sources here, the output of the Arab producers has been reduced by more than a million barrels of oil a day.

Bargaining Weapon

There are also signs that the Arabs will use their oil — 67 per cent of the world's known reserves — as a bargaining weapon in attempts to negotiate an eventual settlement of the hostilities.

So far as Canada is concerned, the immediate effects are minimal. Canada imports very little oil from the Middle East, getting most of its overseas supplies from Venezuela. But Europe, Japan and the U.S. now face an ever harder winter fuel crisis than anticipated.

And as supplies from the Middle East become increasingly unreliable, pressure is bound to increase on the other countries which do have oil of their own and which have traditionally exported some of it. In the case of the U.S., this means looking again to Canada despite Ottawa's recently-adopted policy of export restrictions. No official overture to Canada has been reported yet, but one may come in the near future.

Canada's new oil policy, which is described here as "nationalistic," has irritated relations with the U.S. But in the changing context of world conditions, that policy looks smart, if selfish, so far as Canadians are concerned.

At present, Canada can be virtually self-sufficient, but the situation is much more critical in the U.S.

This year it is estimated that the U.S. is importing about one-third of the oil it needs to keep home furnaces, industries and automobiles operating. By 1980, it is expected that the U.S. may have to import half its oil needs.

GOLDA MEIR
... Moses erred

Canada has been the major supplier of crude oil to the U.S., but the picture is changing. Already, North Africa and the Middle East between them are sending more oil than Canada to U.S., either directly, or in the form of products refined in Europe.

There is pressure in the Arab world, notably from Kuwait, for consideration of a concerted effort to use oil as a weapon in the conflict with Israel. Because of the traditional strong ties between Israel and the U.S., this amounts to a threat against the U.S. as well.

The situation was foreseen, less than a month ago, by Steven Wakefield, assistant secretary for energy in the U.S. interior department, in a speech to Maryland legislators.

"It is perfectly possible," Wakefield said "given the political and social climate of the North Africa-Middle East region, to have the classic case of confrontation and production slowdown involving one or more of the major producing nations.

"This would be dramatic and dangerous—so exceedingly dramatic and dangerous that an extraordinary effort would be mobilized by the parties of interest to achieve some settlement."

Such efforts are already under way. But the U.S. is in an exceedingly difficult position. It wants all the oil it can get. But it would also prefer to protect the state of Israel.

There are other negotiations going on. Representatives of the Arab oil-producing countries and U.S. oil executives have been meeting in Vienna to try and work out a new price structure and possibly a guarantee of supplies, even while the fighting continues. Friday they recessed their talks for two weeks for further study and consultation.

Allocation Agreement

It is also considered likely the oil-consuming countries of Europe and North America may be driven to draw up some form of international allocation agreement.

This may be a feature of a so-called "contingency plan" mentioned, but not spelled out, by U.S. officials shortly after the outbreak of fighting.

In the U.S., mandatory controls on fuel oil allocation are about to be implemented — in effect they mean rationing at the wholesale level. There is growing pressure for similar mandatory controls on allocation of crude oil, at present subject to voluntary guidelines. And now there is even a suggestion, from U.S. Transporation Secretary Claude Brinegar, that retail-level rationing may be necessary as a result of cutbacks in Middle East supplies.

Unfortunately, Israel has no oil to offer. As Prime Minister Golda Meir said recently, "Let me tell you something that we Israelis have against Moses—he took us 40 years through the desert in order to bring us to the one spot in the Middle East that has no oil."

It is a hard fact of life that, as winter approaches, and as the fighting drags on, the U.S. is going to have to make some crucial decisions about the conflict of its interests in the Middle East—oil and Israel.

WILLIAM R. FRYE

Not a Trivial Soviet Choice

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The Soviet Union has been facing an extraordinarily difficult choice this past week in the Middle East: to lose the Arabs, or to lose the East-West detente. Moscow seems, at this stage, to have chosen to lose the detente — that is, to dynamite its relations with the West.

If normally would have been automatic Soviet policy to support the Arabs in a Middle East crunch. But circumstances were not normal.

The American Congress was nearing a vote on legislation barring credits and trade concessions to much of the Soviet bloc. President Nixon, invoking agreements with Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, appealed directly to the Soviet boss for co-operation in damping the Mideast flame.

This put it up to Brezhnev. Backing the Arabs could be very damaging to Soviet interests. It would virtually guarantee passage of the hostile trade legislation. And it could set back the Soviet-American detente by at least five years — at a time when Soviet-Chinese tension has been intensifying.

Withdrew Resistance

So Brezhnev first set out to be cooperative. He withdrew his resistance to UN Security Council action. He toned down Soviet propaganda, taking what, for Moscow, was an almost even-handed approach to the war. He urged "a just and stable peace" with "guaranteed security for all."

This did not last long. Arab pressures became white hot; so did the scorn from Peking, which has no liking for Soviet-American co-operation. Importantly, the Arab armies proved surprisingly tenacious on the battlefronts.

Then Israel blundered. Its bombers, aiming at the Syrian Defence Ministry in Damascus, accidentally hit a Soviet cultural centre, causing extensive casualties. Soviet UN delegate Yakov Malik exploded in fury. Later, a Soviet ship was sunk in a Syrian port.

The Kremlin may have welcomed the pretext to reorient its policy. At any rate, it did shift gears.

Suddenly the Israelis became "aggressors" in a war which virtually everyone else — including in private, even some of the Arabs — acknowledged the Arabs had begun. Moscow's co-operation behind the UN scenes dried up. Soviet diplomacy began urging Algeria and other countries to enter the war.

There was great temptation for the United States to reply in kind, backing Israel, a step which the Israel lobby on Capitol Hill promptly urged. This, however, would further solidify Soviet influence in the Mideast, and virtually guarantee an oil crisis in American homes and factories this winter. It could be exactly the reaction Moscow hoped to produce.

YAKOV MALIK
... exploded in fury

In any case, Mideast peacemaking ground to a virtual halt. The fact that the UN was frustrated in calling for a cease-fire probably made little or no difference; words from UN headquarters, in the absence of a willingness to comply, are often futile.

But the frustration of long-range peace-making efforts was more serious. Western diplomats had earnestly hoped to find a formula which would turn the new psychological and military balance in the Mideast to advantage — the Israelis no longer being comfortable in the status quo, and the Arabs having lost some of their pervasive inferiority complex.

But if this opportunity was to be fully exploited, Soviet co-operation would be essential. Both the United States and the Soviet Union would have to twist arms to bring about acceptance of a compromise basis for long-range peace negotiations.

So it was a fatal handicap that the Kremlin, at least temporarily, was preferring cultivation of the Arabs to cultivation of East-West detente. American and other diplomats clung to the hope that, once the necessity for choice became wholly clear in the Kremlin, the balance would come down once again in favor of detente.

More Cold War

The alternative, if it did not, was a new era of East-West cold war. Even before the Mideast broke into flames, there had been doubts in the west about the genuineness and reliability of the detente. Self-serving exploitation of the president's crisis by Moscow would confirm those doubts, and jolt every aspect of Soviet-western relations.

Among the casualties could be the nuclear arms-limitation talks in Geneva and efforts to negotiate a new and stabler Europe. Prospects for expanded Soviet-American trade and technological co-operation could be dynamited. There could even be a Soviet-American confrontation in the Mideast.

It is not a question of deliberate western "linkage." It is simple logic. If the detente is too fragile and too tentative to survive its first big challenge, there will be overwhelming temptation to abandon it. A Mideast settlement has always been one of the principal benefits the West sought in cultivating Moscow.

It is not a trivial choice that the Soviet Union is making.

Day Care Centres

As one of the concerned parents, may I be permitted to expose the arbitrary and unfair ruling that the present government of British Columbia maintains against day care services for our children?

The previous government of this province had arbitrarily decreed that the day care centre service should not be made available to any children younger than three years of age. Thus, tender-age groups less than three years old have been condemned to the inferior services of "home care" in which practically anyone can look after up to five children of any age in his or her home.

The bureaucracy of the previous government somehow believed in the nonsense that the "home care" in which five small children are often crowded into one room under one over-worked person's supervision was superior to an accredited day care service. And the present government of this province has been remiss in changing this bureaucratic attitude.

In other provinces, most notably in Ontario, the day care centre is open to all age groups from a few weeks old to kindergarten ages. In such places, the two-year-old or even younger children interact wih their elders and with one another. Under the supervision of competent staff members and devoted volunteer parents, they do gymnastics and play joyfully. Readings and paintings are daily activities. And they often go out on trips to nearby farms, zoos and playgrounds. I wonder how many "home care units" in this province are equipped to provide these healthy programs for our children?

In this province, the day care centres of Simon Fraser University and University of Victoria have been experimenting wih day care programs for the two-year-olds. And both of them have been resounding successes. As one of the parents who have benefited from such a program at the UVic Day Care Centre, I can join my fellow-parents in attesting to the wisdom of not only keeping the two-year-olds together with three-and-four-year-old children under the same roof but also extending the services of the well-supervised day care services to those two years old or even younger.

Unfortunately, however, the bureaucracy of the Family and Children Service is now putting the pressure on our day care centre to phase out the program for the two-year-olds. The parents and staffs of the UVic Day Care Centre have unanimously voted to keep the sub-unit program for the two-year-olds. Parents and staffs see the value of their day care centre arising partly from our children's opportunities to learn from one another in the mixed association of the two-year-olds, the three-year-olds and four-year-olds under the same roof. But some bureaucrats have vested interest in perpetuating the myth that the two-year-olds are too young for a day care centre (but not for a sub-standard "home care" unit). — Yoshi Tsurumi, 1435 Richardson St.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of October 15, 1913

CALGARY—Twenty-four hours of feverish excitement over the oil situation is intensified by the admission of A. W. Dingman, manager of the Calgary Petroleum Products company, that the strike was of much more consequence than was first given out and that oil exists in commercial quantities. The oil is a very high quality, running as much as 75 per cent gasoline. The quality of oil was demonstrated when an automobile tank was filled at the well and the machine was driven to the city, a distance of 30 miles on the power furnished by the raw product. More than 100 men are awaiting to file claims today.

Fascism Waiting In Wings for Chile

By RICHARD GOTT
Manchester Guardian

With each day that passes it becomes increasingly clear that the military coup in Chile has unleashed forces that the military junta is unable to control. By destroying the organized Left — its political parties, its newspapers, and its trade union movement — the balance of forces has swung dramatically to the Right, further even than some senior members of the armed forces had contemplated, certainly further than the Christian Democrat Party desired.

The entire power of the State, which before has served to protect if not actually to assist the organizations of the extreme Left, has now fallen in behind the extremist groups on the Right which are now able to operate with impunity.

Boy Scout Image

While the military junta itself attempts to maintain a Boy Scout image of healthy clean-living generals who have rescued the country from bankruptcy, chaos, and civil war, the organized Rightwing is proceeding apace with its plans to liquidate its opponents and to ensure that the Left in Chile never has a chance to return to power.

In a country as open and democratic as Chile, no one hides their political feelings. Throughout the country, in every large town or small community, the political militants are known. Consequently, no one feels safe. Anyone who has ever opened his mouth to speak up in favor of socialism, whether on the factory floor, university lecture room, or peasants council, finds himself a possible target for denunciation.

For many people this means a visit from the police, a trip to the police station, and a subsequent journey to the cells of the National Stadium, the holds of the steamship Lebu, or a voyage to Dawson Island or Pisagua. Possibly they are the lucky ones. For in the shantytowns and out in the countryside there seems to be more summary justice.

As the prospect of civil war fades away, and the fact is that Chile has experienced a relatively tranquil change of government (5,000 dead in the first week still seems a large estimate), there is also the fact that people are still being killed. Quite apart from the half dozen reported cases of people being brought before military tribunals and then shot, there are the continuing raids by the military in the shanty towns which all seem to produce their sad little processions at the cemetery the next morning.

Little can be proved. One can only sift the rumors, observe the faces of the shanty town dwellers as they stonily deny that anything untoward has happened, talk to people released from detention, and draw one's conclusions. Chile, even after three years travel along the road to socialism, is still as desperately divided socially and economically as the countries of Southern Africa.

The visiting journalist, whatever his prejudices, inevitably falls among the middle class, and that class has no more contact with the life of the Chilean "roto" than the white burghers of Johannesburg have with the black inhabitants of the township of Soweto.

But even the most conservative Chilean seems to have a wayward child who has joined the Socialist Party, or whose daughter has married into the MIR. Perhaps most important of all, they all have a maid. She may live in a poky bedroom at the back of the house, but her sisters and her cousins and her aunts live in the shanty towns and have eyes to see. Consequently, almost everyone has an inkling of what is going on, and many people are desperately afraid. Nor is there any way of alleviating their fear.

The military is a law unto itself, and because of its very unfamiliarity with the techniques of open political intervention, it behaves more brusquely than other Latin American armies might do in comparable circumstances. With tens of thousands detained throughout the country, with permanent military raids, not just in the shanty towns but in the most respectable areas of the city, the Chileans find themselves in as novel a situation as would an Englishman if this routine had become the norm of life in London.

The Chilean soldiers, having no experience in these matters, can behave with conspicuous brutality. The junta's ambition is to impose order and to finish with chaos and anarchy, but in the process their soldiery inevitably sows fresh seeds of disorder. The tales of rape and robbery that accompany the searches for arms are legion. Secondly, in its enthusiasm for abolishing politics, the military have inevitably had recourse to that political group which represents the most conservative sector in Chilean society.

This sector, of course, thinks that it has no politics, and believes that it upholds the eternal interests of the Chilean nation, manifested in the institutions that it has inherited from a previous century. But this group, represented by the National Party, has no positive ideology. It harks back to a previous era, before that of Allende, before that of Eduardo Frei, back to an imagined golden age when students, peasants, and workers knew their place and took their orders from a class that was born to rule. The prospect in 1973 of reviving a particular view of Chile that existed ten or 20 years ago is exceedingly dim. The country has changed too much.

An interesting example of the rejection of conservatism is the case of the "Jornada Unica." In the old days, importing a Mediterranean habit, all Chile took a siesta in the afternoon. President Frei, with much enthusiasm for efficiency and modernity, abolished the siesta, and sensibly ordained an unbroken workday — the "Jornada Unica." One of the first acts of the junta was to reinstate the siesta, since its abolition had met with bitter resistance. But by now the shopkeepers have become used to their new work schedule and are reluctant to climb into a bus four times a day. They are now protesting against the junta's new regulations.

Into the ideological vacuum created by the collapse of the Left and the utopian conservatism of the junta neatly falls the Fascist movement "Fatherland and Freedom." When last heard of, this movement was supporting the failed military coup on June 29. Subsequently its leaders disappeared into clandestinity or into exile. Then shortly before the coup on September 11, its secretary, General Roberto Theiem, was captured in a suburban restaurant, and its founder, Pablo Rodriguez, appeared in Temuco. Last Friday both reappeared in a Santiago hotel.

Theiem is a crewcut Teuton and looks like an astronaut. Rodriguez is a Chilean lawyer, immensely articulate. Unlike the junta, who propose national renovation, Rodriguez wants a nationalist revolution. He claims that the institutions of Chilean society are out of date and collapsing. They need to be replaced rather than shored up.

In spite of his emphasis on Chilean nationalism, Rodriguez is recognisably a Fascist in a familiar European mould. He uses words like "integral" and "corporative" without batting an eyelid. "We realised that Marxism-Leninism could not be fought just with anti-Marxism," he said. "It had to be opposed with an idea — that of a nationalist revolution."

A Familiar Mould

The "Fatherland and Freedom" organization has now dissolved itself. It supports the junta, but believes that the task of the government is to undertake "the transformation of all the institutions in Chile." So far that is not the wish of the government, which wants to preserve not to transform.

But, as this becomes seen to be a hopeless task, the arguments of these Right wing extremists in favour of a Fascist revolution will surely grow. For more than a decade the vast majority of Chileans have voted for change — Christians and Marxists have been given their chance. Now, waiting in the wings — and undoubtedly strong within the armed forces — the Fascists may be about to be given their turn.

A DIME IN TIME

(A letter to the editor of Time magazine).

Sir:

So the U.S. knew of the impending Chilean coup some ten hours before it happened but did nothing. I marvel that we spent tens of billions to fight for "democracy" in Viet Nam, but wouldn't spend 10 cents for a warning phone call to the democratically elected President of Chile!

A Just Society Rejected

By HUGH O'SHAUGHNESSY
London Observer

SANTIAGO — The Chilean armed forces are now assiduously spreading the story that Salvador Allende's Socialist government, which they overthrew in a bloody coup last month, had plunged Chile into such chaos that its fall was inevitable. This doubtless makes them feel more comfortable at home and has served to mute some foreign criticism.

But the argument can have no validity given the objective facts of Allende's nearly three years in office. The Allende government succeeded the Christian Democrat, Eduardo Frei, in November, 1970. Frei presided over a regime of injustice and inefficiency. There was widespread unemployment, manifest or disguised, with its consequent human suffering and waste of resources, an inordinately high incidence of infant mortality, which betokened widespread malnutrition and bad health conditions, and an inefficient agricultural structure which was unable to realize more than about half the potential of the land and which was based on semi-feudalism in many parts of the country.

Santiago and other cities of Chile were surrounded by belts of stinking hovels whose wretched inhabitants sizzled in summer and froze in winter and which were provided with no municipal services apart from a standpipe every block or so. This was the reality of Chile in 1970 which underlay the respect for legal forms and for the Constitution in which the Chileans justifiably took so much pride.

Nor could the great disparities of wealth be justified on any economic argument since many of the wealthier classes in Chile squandered their money on conspicuous luxuries while their propensity to save and invest for future economic growth was very low. In 1970 the social situation was chaotic and intolerable.

When Allende took office after having his electoral victory confirmed in Congress with the help of the Christian Democrats he set about tackling hunger, malnutrition, bad public health and housing, unemployment and the rest.

The effect on the Chilean economy in 1971 of the Allende policies was very encouraging. The economy grew that year at a record rate of more than 8 per cent and growth continued last year though at a lower rate.

The Popular Unity coalition pushed through a sweeping agrarian reform which did more for the peasants in less than two years than the Frei government had done in six. Despite that, farm production was largely maintained, a virtual miracle given the circumstances.

The opposition to Allende was not happy with this generally satisfactory economic position and the "bosses strike" of October, 1972, the miners' strike of earlier this year and the hauliers' and professionals' strike of August created grave problems for the government. Crops rotted in the ground or in the warehouses, the production of copper, Chile's main export item, was hit, food ran short and industrial production suffered. The country's growth was cynically sabotaged, and production fell back for reasons which had nothing to do with socialist economics and everything to do with the hostility of the middle classes to the Allende government.

The lasting effects of the economic sabotage were seen less in the actual loss of production, which might have been recovered by harder work after the strikes were over, than in the encouraging of the inflationary pressures that the government had itself built up. Its policy of large wage increases for the poor and large expenditures by the state which were not always covered by revenue were certainly a spur to inflation but the opposition's policy of economic sabotage was equally as certainly the way to transform a dangerous inflationary situation into an uncontrollable one.

Despite the economic sabotage and the inflation the Chilean economy held up extremely well. It was monstrously dishonest for the Right to move against a Socialist government because of supposed economic failings when the Right itself was in great part responsible for any such failings.

In the political sphere, too, it was obvious from the very beginning of his term of office that Dr. Allende was not a man who was going to follow extreme policies. With the support of only a minority in the country and faced with an opposition majority in Congress he could hardly do so even if he wanted.

For more than a year before he fell, Allende and the Communists had been proposing some sort of deal with the opposition Christian Democrats, the largest single political party in the country, which would have stabilized the centre even at the cost of many of Dr. Allende's ideals.

But under the leadership of Eduardo Frei, the Christian Democrats from 1970 onward moved even further to the Right, adopting tactical positions which differed little from those of the right-wing National Party.

★ ★ ★

In the last few weeks before Allende's downfall the Left of the Christian Democratic Party tried to pull their party back towards the centre and avert a complete breakdown in Chilean politics. Their work was too late and in vain. Allende and the Christian Democrats did not get a consensus worked out and the armed forces struck.

Part of the responsibility was obviously Allende's. He made mistakes and economics was not his strong point. But the great burden of guilt must be borne by the economic and political saboteurs of the Right who, doubtless with the encouragement of Washington, were unwilling to give up any of their privileges so that a just society might emerge under socialism.

Wage Parity Has Drawbacks

THE TORONTO STAR
An Editorial

On the face of it, a Canadian union's winning pay parity with its American counterpart seems a significant accomplishment. Thus, the recent wage parity victory of the United Auto Workers (Canadian branch) over Chrysler Canada Ltd. should be an admirable landmark in Canadian labor-management affairs.

But the parity argument — based mainly on the thesis that if two similar companies, one here and one there, are equally productive, they should pay their workers equally — ignores several other important differences that the U.S.—Canada border delineates.

The first difference is that the Canadian and American economies are not equally productive. Measured in real purchasing power per person, the U.S. economy is bigger and more productive.

That means if some Canadian workers take a larger share out of Canada's economy, some other workers have to take less. Using a strong bargaining position to attain parity with an American is like putting your hand in the pocket of another Canadian worker and taking his pay.

Further, governments of the two countries have different priorities. In the last decade or more, while the U.S. was going about making the world safe for democracy and putting men on the moon, the Canadian government was able to direct much of its spending toward social welfare measures such as medicare, improved pensions, and better family allowances.

Canada's high level of social services is part of the total package available to Canadian workers. Therefore, a Canadian's reward for labor cannot be measured against that of an American in an identical job simply on the basis of the weekly pay cheque.

Apart from those systemic factors, there is a more powerful argument against parity as a principle. And it has very much to do with Canada's independence itself.

Taken to its extreme, wage parity in every industry in both countries would dictate that both should have precisely the same priorities—identical levels of government spending on identical programs, identical taxes, and identical currency values.

If the United Auto Workers' victory was to become the all-encompassing pattern, it could lead to absolute standardization of social, economic and — eventually — political institutions in North America; in fact, it scarcely could avoid doing so.

Surely the growing desire of Canadians everywhere for a more independent Canada — not least, it's to be hoped, within the union movement itself—dictates that the thrust should be in the opposite direction.

Limits to Growth Here Now

By ANTHONY LEWIS

The sharp rise in food prices over the last year, the world around, has profoundly disturbing implications. For it may reflect strains not only on present supplies but on the earth's agricultural capacity.

"There is an unmistakable and mounting sense of uneasiness and foreboding," the director-general of the Food and Agriculture Organization, A. H. Boerma, said last summer. He spoke of "dismaying" developments and said there were signs of "a radical process of change."

But it is not only food that has felt distortingly heavy pressures of world demand on limited supply. The London Economist's respected index of world commodity prices, in fact, shows that food is up less than other items: Only — just imagine that word — 50 per cent in the last year. The price of fibres has risen 93 per cent, of metals 76. The index as a whole is up 70 per cent in one year.

Quite apart from the symptom of prices, we all can sense what one economist has called "the gathering clouds of resource shortages." Legal and political conflict over control of the sea and its resources is sharpening. There is the energy crisis. Lumber and newsprint supplies are short.

The signals of strain make one think again of "The Limits to Growth," the book published just 19 months ago by a group of scientists at the Massachusett Institute of Technology. Based on a computer model, it argued that the mushrooming growth of world population and production would reach earthly limits in the next century, bringing a collapse of industrial society.

"The Limits of Growth" was intended to provoke, and it did. After all, it struck at a premise of our civilization: The beneficience of economic growth. Many economists denounced it. Some scientists criticized its computer model as over-ambitious or flawed.

A proposition as broad as the one made in that report is not affirmatively provable — or at least not until too late. But it is possible to see over time whether developments show its assumption to be false or tend to support the general thesis.

In this case the authors understandably find some grim vindication in events. The group has moved to Dartmouth College, and there Prof. Dennis Meadows said the other day:

"If I had stood up in March, 1972, and said that within two years we would see beef on the black market in this country, and retail food prices up 20 per cent or more, and families going cold for lack of heating oil, I'd have got very long odds. But those things have happened, and they will continue happening."

The real thrust of the Meadows report was political. It argued that accelerating growth posed a new kind of challenge to human society — to stablize population and production at sustainable levels that would permit a decent existence on a world basis. In terms of meeting that challenge, the record of the last two years is bleakly discouraging.

The Nixon Administration has reacted to the signs of resource pressure with an attitude of business as usual or more so. Is lumber short? Plunder the national forests. A threatened oil crisis? Build an Alaska pipeline and increase offshore drilling. Food prices rising? Put an embargo on exports.

It is all too frighteningly close to the danger that "The Limits to Growth" foresaw — growing destruction of the environment and national scrambling for scarce resources. Nor is the record encouraging elsewhere in the world. As the solution to their problems, politicians continue to give the same answer: More.

Consider, for example, the American energy problem. Anyone can see that the United States is profligate in its use of oil and eltctricity. Our first necessity is serious measures of conservation. How we can cry shortage while we build absurdly overpowered cars and encourage energy-intensive industry? But the government pays only lip-service to conservation, planning instead to develop new energy sources at enormous cost.

Or think about food. If the world is dependent on American exports, as it is, we shall have to limit our own consumption to meet the demand — or else let millions starve. How would we limit our consumption? Let domestic prices rise? But then our own poor suffer. Rationing? Subsidized distribution? And to which needy foreigners do we sell our grain? And how will they pay? The dilemmas are terrifying.

The scientific particulars of "the limits to growth" remain beyond the understanding of most of us. But even critics are beginning to recognize that the book poses valid and urgent questions. Can our world, with all its divisions of nation and interest, deal with the visible strains of physical growth? We await a political leader who will begin to make us face the problems.

B.C. Mining Industry Closing In on $800M

The British Columbia mining industry is well within reach of an $800 million production year, according to the mid-year report released today by the provincial department of industrial development, trade and commerce.

No dollar values were included in the report, but department officials noted that all sectors except oil production were higher than in the corresponding 1972 period.

An official said 1973 production at the present rate, would easily pass the target of $800 million announced earlier, up from $518 million in 1972.

Other sources said copper production in the first six months of 1973 was worth $252 million, compared with $89.5 million in the corresponding 1972 period. Production in the first six months had already passed in value the $209.4 million for all of 1972.

Production for the first six months was 350 million pounds, compared with 179 million in the first half of 1972.

Copper prices are sharply higher, averaging more than 70 cents in the first half, up from 49 cents in the corresponding 1972 period.

The five major copper producers, in order of importance, are Gibraltar, Lornex, Utah, Bethlehem and Granduc which are together responsible for 65 per cent of total B.C. copper production. Most of the copper concentrates produced are sold to Japan.

British Columbia has benefitted significantly from increased copper prices because that is the major mineral produced in the province.

Except for crude oil, production of other metals and fuels was up across the board, although dollar values were not computed.

In 1972, total coal production was worth $66 million. In the first six months of 1973, coal shipments have reached 3.8 million tons, equivalent to 64 per cent of the total 1972 shipments. The two major British Columbia producers, Kaiser and Fording, have both renegotiated higher prices with their Japanese customers. About 95 per cent of all B.C. coal goes to Japan.

Crude oil ranked third in B.C. mineral production in 1972 at $63.2 million. Production for the first six months of 1973 is 10.9 million barrels, down from 11.1 million barrels in the same period of 1972. The six-month total represents 46 per cent of the total production last year.

Although there has been a slight increase in price, the volume reduction indicates the 1973 value may be less than in 1972, the department said.

British Columbia oil production has been declining for the last 18 months. As of the end of July this year there have been 86 drilling licences approved, down from 117 in the first seven months of 1972. Footage drilled has declined from 770 thousand feet to 598 thousand feet.

Zinc shipments for the first six months totalled 164.6 million pounds, up from 138.3 million. The six-month total represents 61 per cent of the total 1972 shipments. Zinc prices are above 20 cents per pound, compared with 18 cents last December.

Last year molybdenum was the fifth most important mineral worth $43.3 million. First half production in 1973 was 14 million pounds, up one million over the same period in 1972 but exactly 50 per cent of 1972's total production.

The return to full production by Endako Mines and higher prices should increase both volume and value above 1972 levels. Major markets for B.C. molybdenum are the steel industries in western Europe and Japan.

Natural gas production in 1972 was worth $41.6 million. Production in the first six months of this year is up 5 per cent and prices are expected to be increased substantially before year's end. About 56 per cent of production is exported to the United States.

Lead was the seventh major mineral in 1972 with production worth $28.9 million. In the first half of 1973, volume of production is 111.8 million pounds which represents 58 per cent of the total 1972 production. First half results are 4.6 per cent higher in volume and much higher in value because of recent price increases.

In other mineral activity, Asbestos, which was valued at $20.9 million in 1972, had a slight increase in production to 56,386 tons shipped in the first six months, up from 55,578 tons in the corresponding 1972 period.

Other materials related to the construction industry were also up. Cement shipments at the end of June were up 14.3 per cent and sand and gravel production was also higher than in the corresponding 1972 period.

VSE Chairman Ticked Off For 'Premature' Statement

Provincial Superintendent of Brokers William Irwin said today Vancouver Stock Exchange chairman Michael Ryan is premature in saying no companies should be suspended or delisted as a result of current investigations by the RCMP.

"It is too early to judge whether any companies should be delisted," he said.

He repeated an earlier statement that the investigation into alleged irregularities involving 18 mining companies could take two months to resolve.

"Whether a company is delisted is up to the attorney-general and myself, not Mr. Ryan," Irwin said.

"I have no futher comment at this time."

A total of 36 salesmen in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver are alleged to have received secret commissions between 1970 and 1972 to promote 18 speculative mining companies.

Names of the companies are not announced because of restrictions imposed by the Securities Commission Act.

Ryan said his investigations have led him to believe that no delistings should be necessary because it has been a year since the alleged offences took place and present market action has not been affected.

The exchange chairman said:

"The suspected payment of direct and undisclosed commissions to certain individuals to promote some securities is believed to involve a number of stocks listed on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

"It appears that this alleged promotional activity took place during a two-year period ending about one year ago. Therefore, none of these securities are still trading at prices inflated by such activity, a conclusion supported by an analysis of the recent market action conducted by the exchange staff," Ryan said.

"Thus there is no risk to the public in permitting these stocks to continue to trade and delisting could represent a hardship to the present public shareholders."

Ryan said Attorney-General Alex Macdonald had said in the legislature he is considering whether to request Irwin to place a cease trading order on the securities under investigation.

But Macdonald indicated he had not come to a decision on the question.

Ryan said a cease trading order would result in delisting of the companies.

Ryan said the number of salesmen under investigation represents just over 1 per cent of the total employed by Vancouver Stock Exchange members.

"If subsequent investigation establishes that the alleged payments were in fact made and received, then the members who employed these individuals will be closely examined to determine if such unethical behavior was known by management or should have been known by management.

"If so, disciplinary action will be instituted by the Vancouver Stock Exchange."

Ryan said his conclusion that delisting of the companies was not warranted was based upon the exchange's investigation plus rumors about the nature of charges being contemplated.

"Since details of the search orders which have been issued are not legally available, we can only go on details in rumors which are circulating."

Syncrude Gears For Sands Project

EDMONTON (CP) — Syncrude Canada Ltd. is moving into the detailed engineering and construction phase of its $800-million Athabasca oil sands project even though the federal government has yet to offer the special incentives company officials claim are needed to make the extraction plant viable.

Syncrude, which is seeking exemption from export controls and taxes and an income-tax break, announced today that Atco Ltd. of Calgary has been awarded an $891,000 contract for construction of a mining equipment warehouse and a 500-man construction camp to be located on Syncrude's oil sands lease 25 miles north of Fort McMurray. The camp is to be in place before the end of the year.

Syncrude, in a prepared statement, said it will be involved in site preparation and muskeg drainage between now and next spring. Canadian Bechtel Ltd., Syncrude's managing contractor, then will begin hiring the estimated 500 construction workers who will be needed for foundation work in 1974.

Syncrude, which expects to award several major engineering design contracts within the next 60 days, said it is looking for engineering specialists, including chemical, process, civil and mechanical engineers and engineers experienced in construction management.

Syncrude, a foreign-owned consortium, said all detailed engineering carried out under the contracts must be done in Alberta.

Brokerage Fees Hiked

A 5 per cent surcharge on brokerage commissions went into effect today, after Canadian stock exchange members voted in favor of a fee increase.

The surcharge will be removed when the new rate schedule is computerized and comes into effect, probably early in December.

The new rates will have the effect of increasing revenue for brokerage houses by just over 5 per cent.

Under the incoming schedule, the commission rate will be 2.5 per cent for stocks priced from one cent to $14, and a sliding scale from 2.5 per cent at a share price of $14 to 1.64 per cent at $30 and above.

The minimum commission theoretically will be $5, although investment houses can charge a higher amount.

The new rates were approved by votes Friday in Toronto and Montreal.

Members of the Vancouver Stock Exchange had approved the increases in an earlier vote.

The 5 per cent surcharge is an interim measure only, designed to produce approximately the same revenue as the incoming fee schedule. The surcharge will be dropped on the day the new rates come in or in any case will be retained no longer than Dec. 31.

If implementation of the new rates takes until next year, the surcharge can not be collected. However, the computerization of the new schedules is expected to take less than eight weeks.

The new rates will come into effect simultaneously across Canada.

Under the 5 per cent surcharge, a regular brokerage commission of $20 becomes

Cheaper On Hoof —Not In Shop

HAMILTON (CP) — The number of cattle coming into Canada from the United States has increased dramatically in the last two weeks, but even though they are cheaper than Canadian beef there have been no significant price cuts for consumers, industry officials said here.

Charles Gracey, manager of the Canadian Cattlemen's Association, said in an interview that the flow of U.S. cattle has been increasing so fast that it is estimated that half the animals slaughtered in Ontario in the coming week will be from the U.S.

He said 14,000 head of such cattle arrived in the last week and estimated there be 20,000 in the coming week. The number of fed cattle slaughtered in Ontario each week averages about 40,000.

A federal agriculture department spokesman considered the association's estimate high, but said there had been a dramatic rise. He said 10,000 head cross the border in the last week.

Gracey said Canadian packers are ignoring Canadian cattle and buying U.S. beef at prices lower than current Canadian rates.

U.S. cattle came on the market in great numbers when President Nixon lifted the price freeze in the U.S. Sept. 11, he said.

"We are paying for the mistakes made by the U.S. government when they imposed the freeze, and that nonsense of the American cattlemen holding back their cattle since July.

"Because they held their cattle back they are now able to flood the market. It is affecting the whole Canadian market."

Local Tories Planning Split Organizations

Conservatives from Esquimalt-Saanich federal riding agreed Saturday to set up separate organizations to handle party affairs.

Creation of provincial associations should "make all the difference in the world," Oak Bay MLA Scott Wallace, who recommended the change, said today.

Decision to end handling of provincial matters in the federal riding association was taken at the annual meeting of the Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative Association held in the Sherwood Park Motor Hotel.

"During the general election of a year ago the provincial wing of the party realized that one of its weaknesses was the lack of organization," said Wallace.

The two provincial associations, for Esquimalt riding and Saanich and the Islands riding, will improve administrative efficiency and involve more people in the party as well, he said.

Wallace said federal Conservative leader Robert Stanfield had made no objection to the split into separate provincial associations when the two met Friday night.

The Oak Bay MLA had said earlier that he would give up any thought of running for provincial party leader if Stanfield objected to creation of an independent Conservative party in B.C.

Wallace said he will not announce whether he will run for party leader for "at least" several days.

"There's a lot of things up in the air that I'm undecided about," he said.

HAIDASZ DENIES 'POLITICS' IN GRANTS

OTTAWA (CP) — Charges that political partisanship is involved in allocation of multiculturalism grants were denied today by Dr. Stanley Haidasz, minister responsible for multiculturalism.

"We have no way of know nor do we care about the political affiliations of those who apply for grants," Mr. Haidasz said in an interview.

Public servants process applications for grants at local levels and their recommendations are forwarded to Ottawa, Mr. Haidasz told the more than 400 delegates attending the first national conference on multiculturalism.

Dr. Haidasz also disputed delegate charges that poor people could not afford to attend the conference, that funds could be put to better use and complaints from Senator Paul Yuzyk (PC—Manitoba) that conference delegates, "handpicked by the government," are not representative of the ethnic minorities.

"It is difficult to give expense money in advance when it is not known if they (the delegates) will attend. If we had been told of any case where advance money was needed, prepayment would have been made.

And as for grants being put to better use, feasibility studies were required and would be continued.

Senator Paul Yuzyk, chairman of the Canadian Cultural Rights Committee, who said his committee is being ignored by State Secretary Hugh Faulkner's staff, said a department of multiculturalism should be created to stop "multiculturalism from being bandied about between the ministers." The multiculturalism program comes under the citizenship branch of the secretary of state department.

Merivirta contacted RCMP at 6 p.m. and a search involving more than 30 ment from Alberni Valley Search and Rescue and RCMP began the following day. A tracking dog from Nanaimo was brought in, police said.

Lazorko was spotted from an RCMP helicopter at 6:20 p.m. Sunday, four miles from the rendezvous point.

In an interview today Lazorko said his waterproof clothing was torn by branches and he had no matches to light a fire.

After walking along a river for seven hours he "leaned up against a tree and tried to sleep."

Automatic Pension Wage Hikes Sought

Demands for automatic wage and pension increases tied to rises in the cost of living will be made at the 29th convention of the B.C. Government Employees Union opening Thursday in Richmond.

Resolutions from the union's highways council and the Terrace branch call for automatic pay adjustments every six months in line with increases in the cost of living.

Delegates will also be asked to support proposals for automatic cost-of-living adjustments in civil servants pensions.

Two resolutions criticize exclusion of pensions from collective bargaining under legislation introduced last spring but deferred until the fall session. A revised bill was to be presented to the legislature this afternoon.

Other resolutions call for improved vacations, extra pay for evening and graveyard shifts, paydays every second Friday instead of twice a month, a dental plan paid by the government and government payment for a plan paying half of prescribed drug costs over $25 a year.

Teacher Runs On Planning Platform

NORTH COWICHAN — Mrs. Judith Vardy, a 29-year-old teacher, will run for alderman in the Nov. 17 municipal election in North Cowichan.

Supported by the Cowichan Action Group, Mrs. Vardy said in a press release she is running because the municipality is in danger of becoming a "jumble of subdivisions, shopping centres and apartment blocks."

She said, "Unless we have real planning now, based on research by qualified professional staff, he Cowichan Valley is going to end up a planner's nightmare."

Mrs. Vardy called for "discussions between council, qualified planners and interested citizens to try to reach a plan agreeable to all."

Youths Die In Plunge Over Cliff

NANAIMO — Two 17-year-old Port Alberni youths were killed Sunday when their car plunged over a 30-foot cliff 10 miles north of here.

Dead are James Mathew Brown, and Donald G. Labonte. A third occupant in the car was treated for minor injuries and later released from Nanaimo General Hospital after the accident occurred. Police are withholding his name until next of kin are notified.

Nanaimo RCMP report the car was travelling north along Highway 19 near Saber Road when it went out of control, crossed the highway and dropped off the cliff.

Mets Get Zany Win Over Sun, Augie and A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Three elements gave New York Mets fits Sunday—the sun, umpire Augie Donatelli and Oakland Athletics.

But the National League champions pulled out a zany 10-7 victory in 12 innings to even the World Series at one game each. Oakland won 2-1 Saturday.

"I think we'll look better in New York," said Don Hahn, one of the Met outfielders who had to deal with the treacherous sun in the Oakland Coliseum during the weekend. "The Coliseum was an awfully tough park to field in . . . one of the toughest I've ever been in."

Cleon Jones verified Hahn's report. The Met left fielder lost a ball in the sun in the first inning, giving Joe Rudi a gift double in a two-run Oakland uprising.

"It was the worst," said Jones, "the absolute worst. I've never played in a major league ball park where the sun is that bad."

The Mets didn't think much of the umpiring either. They had a ripe opportunity to break a 6-6 tie in the 10th inning with runners at first and third and one out. Felix Millan lifted a fly ball to Rudi in short left and Bud Harrelson attempted to tag up and score from third.

But Donatelli called him out on a play at home. Harrelson complained that Oakland catcher Ray Fosse "never touched me."

Donatelli's decision brought several Mets storming from the dugout. Willie Mays, the on-deck batter, was literally down on his knees pleading with the umpire.

"There's no question in my mind that I was safe," Harrelson said after the storm had died down and the Mets had locked up the game, "but there was a question in Donatelli's mind."

The Mets scored four runs in a whacky 12th inning to break the deadlock. Then, relief pitcher George Stone came into the tense game and nailed it down for New York after Tug McGraw gave up Oakland's final run.

"We felt like we would never give up," said McGraw, who pitched six fine innings of relief before needing help himself.

Trailing 3-2, the Mets scored four times in the sixth inning before 49,151 fans after a walk to Cleon Jones, a single by John Milner and a hit batsman that loaded the bases. Hahn beat out an infield single for one run, Harrelson singled to right for another and then Jerry Grote and Hahn both scored on an infield error.

After the American League champs scored their fourth run on a double by Reggie Jackson in the seventh and tied the score at 6-6 with a two-run rally in the ninth, the Mets took command.

Denied earlier opportunities to score, they finally put it out of reach in the 12th as Mays singled home the go-ahead run and the Mets pushed across three more tallies on two errors by second baseman Mike Andrews. It was one of five errors made by Oakland.

"I honestly don't know what happened," Andrews said about the ball that shot through his legs in the decisive 12th. "I thought it was right in my glove."

Erratic fielding produced six errors in the game, which at times looked like a sandlot affair. It went four hours and 13 minutes, a record for the World Series. Also a total of 11 pitchers was used by both sides, and that tied a World Series record.

"It reminded me of an early exhibition game," said Oakland third baseman Sal Bando. "Things can get sloppy this time of year. Guys get tired, conditions are tough and it's a shame things like this have to happen in a World Series."

The series resumes Tuesday night in New York's Shea Stadium.

Tom Seaver will pitch for the Mets and Jim (Catfish) Hunter for Oakland in a battle of right-handed aces. The game will start at 5:30 p.m. PDT and be televised on CBC.

Saturday, Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman, who didn't have an official at-bat all season, because of the American League designated-hitter rule, socked a double and with the aid of Millan's error scored the Athletics' first run.

Holtzman pitched only five innings but earned the victory with shutout relief from Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles.

The Athletics scored both their unearned runs with two out in the third inning against Jon Matlack, who allowed only three hits, all of them in that inning.

Bert Campaneris scored Oakland's other run following a single by Joe Rudi. The Mets got one in the fourth when Jones doubled and came in on John Milner's single.

ANGRY WILLIE MAYS charges toward home plate to protest decision after umpire Augie Donatelli, who had dropped to ground for better view of tenth-inning play, ruled that Bud Harrelson (left) of New York Mets had been tagged out by Oakland catcher Ray Fosse (right) on throw from outfield. Willie lost argument, but Mets won second game in World Series 10-7 in 12 innings.

NO LONGER RACE DRIVER ... AND HAPPY ABOUT IT

LONDON (CP) — Three-time world auto racing champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, who has won more Grand Prix races than any other driver, announced Sunday that he will quit racing.

The jaunty 34-year-old king of Formula One racing announced his decision only eight days after his team-mate Francois Cevert of France, was killed while practising for the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

There had been speculation that Stewart might retire ever since he clinched his third world crown after the Italian Grand Prix last month.

Stewart has competed in 99 Grand Prix races, scoring an all-time record 27 victories —two more than his idol and fellow Scot, the late Jimmy Clark, who was killed on the track in 1968.

In the nine years he has been a Grand Prix driver, nine of Stewart's closest friends have died in motor racing.

Reported a millionaire through his motor racing earnings, Stewart lives with his wife, Helen, and their sons, Mark and Paul, in Switzerland.

His decision to quit, coupled with the Cevert tragedy, means that the crack Tyrrell-Ford team is left without an established driver for 1974.

Stewart, the most famous and probably the richest racing driver in the world, said he would be working in the future as a consultant for the Ford Motor Co. of Europe on special projects and production development.

"As from today, I am no longer a racing driver," he told a news conference at a London hotel.

"I have retired and I am very happy about it.

"I decided to retire way back in April 5 but I could not announce my decision before today.

"Since my decision there have been moments when I thought I might have been doing the wrong thing, but I can say in all honesty that I now feel a lighter man."

It was Ken Tyrrell, a wealthy British timber merchant, who discovered Stewart, signing him as a Formula Three driver in 1964. After winning 11 out of 13 races is the category that year, many Grand Prix teams were clamoring to sign him.

He decided to join BRM and won the 1965 Italian Grand Prix for them in his first season in Formula One.

After winning the Monaco Classic the following year, he crashed in the Belgian Grand Prix, ending his season.

Joining Tyrrell's first Grand Prix team in 1968, he finished second in the world championship that year and took his first title in 1969 in a Matra-Ford. He was champion again in 1971 in a Tyrrell-Ford, repeating his triumph in the same car this year.

Canucks' Road Record Taking On New Lustre

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Vancouver Canucks have had little success on the road since they entered the National Hockey League in 1970-71.

Going into this season, the Canucks' away record was 18 wins, 87 losses and 12 ties in 117 games.

The Canucks opened their 1973-74 schedule with a four-game trip to Boston, Montreal, Buffalo and Chicago, dropping its first two games.

Sunday night, the Canucks won their first game of the season and their first game in Buffalo in two seasons by defeating the Sabres 3-1.

In other action, Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars and Los Angeles Kings and New York Rangers battled to 1-1 ties, Boston Bruins nipped New York Islanders 3-2, and Philadelphia Flyers slammed Detroit Red Wings 5-2.

The Canucks dropped a 4-3 decision to the Canadiens in Montreal. Saturday, Toronto Maple Leafs dumped Los Angeles 6-3, Atlantta Flames nipped St. Louis Blues 1-0, the Rangers clubbed Pittsburgh Penguins 8-2, Boston trampled Detroit 9-4 and Philadelphia blanked the Islanders 6-0.

Defenceman Jocelyn Guevremont says the Canucks "have improved 50 per cent with Gary Smith as our No. 1 goaltender."

Smith stopped 27 of Buffalo's 28 shots in Sunday's game but the Vancouver hero was Orland Kurtenbach who scored twice in the third period to provide the margin of victory.

Ken Hodge slammed home Bobby Orr's rebound during a power play to give the Bruins their third straight win of the season and the lead in the NHL's East Division. It was the fourth goal for the Boston right winger, who also has seven assists.

At Philadelphia, the Flyers ran their record to 3-0 by handing Detroit their third straight loss. For the second night in a row, Philadelphia scored two short-handed goals, with the first, a backhand shot by Don Saleski, tying the game at 2-2 at 9:37 of the second period.

The Flyers, who trailed 2-0 in the first period, forged into the lead at 13:34 of the second when Dave Schultz batted in a rebound after a set up by Orest Kindrachuk.

Early in the third, Detroit's Larry Johnston was ejected from the game by referee Art Skov after he became involved in a verbal battle with the official following a fight between Schultz and Tom Mellor of the Wings.

At New York, ex-Ranger Bob Nevin scored on a breakaway at 15:10 to give the Kings their tie with the Rangers. Nevin took a pass from Butch Goring at the New York blueline and faked goaltender Ed Giacomin to the ice before slipping the puck in. Mike Murphy scored the Rangers' goal in the second.

The highlight of the North Stars-Chicago game was a save by Black Hawks' goalie Tony Esposito on a penalty shot in the second period.

Buster Harvey was awarded the free shot when he was hauled down from behind by rookie Dave Kryskow on a breakaway.

Blade Coach Cuts Sheehan

Times News Service

A tense confrontation between centre Bobby Sheehan and New York coach Camille Henry took place in the Golden Blades' dressing room Sunday after the World Hockey Association team dropped a 2-1 overtime decision to New England Whalers.

Sheehan, a last - minute scratch from the Golden Blades' lineup, said that "after the warm-up he (Henry) told me to take my stuff off. I don't know why.

Henry said after the game that Sheehan had been removed from the lineup for "disciplinary reasons."

But when asked about his deletion from the lineup, Sheehan said that he didn't know the reason, adding: "My pride has been hurt. I want to play, not sit out. If I can't play here, I can play some place else."

Then Henry appeared, an angry look on his face, and said to Sheehan, "Tell them what happened."

Sheehan replied, "I don't know . . . I was in for curfew last night."

"What about the times you missed practice?" Henry asked.

There was no reply.

In other games Sunday, Edmonton Oilers scored twice within 36 seconds after the opening faceoff and went on to defeat Houston Aeros 5-2; Bobby Hull's two goals helped Winnipeg Jets trip Vancouver Blazers 6-3; Cleveland Crusaders edged Chicago Cougars 3-2 in overtime and Minnesota Fighting Saints downed Toronto Toros 5-2.

Bombers Trail Stamps by One After Slipping Past Roughies

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg Blue Bombers quarterback Don Jonas directed a 60-yard march that led to the winning field goal by Walt McKee in an 18-17 triumph Sunday over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The two points moved the Bombers within range of third place and the final playoff berth in the Western Football Conference.

The Bombers, first-place finishers last season, jumped two points ahead of the cellar-dwelling British Columbia Lions and trail Calgary Stampeders by only one point.

The third-place Stampeders lost 32-8 to Ottawa Roughriders Sunday in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in Calgary.

B.C., injury-riddled most of the season, took a 27-13 whipping from Edmonton Eskimos in Vancouver Saturday night.

After the weekend struggles, Edmonton was in first place, one point ahead of Saskatchewan. Calgary was six points behind the second-place Roughriders.

Each western club has three games remaining.

McKee's winning field goal, an 18-yarder, followed four earlier misses. He collected three in seven attempts and got singles on two attempts that missed.

In addition, he converted the only Winnipeg touchdown, a one-yard charge by Jim Calip in the first quarter.

Calip's touchdown followed a fumbled punt by Saskatchewan's Terry Bulych.

Roughrider fullback George Reed, held to 46 yards rushing in the game, scored touchdowns on runs of five and two yards. Jack Abendschan contributed two converts and a single on a wide field goal attempt as the Roughriders led 17-15 with four minutes remaining, setting up the late Bomber march into playoff contention.

Dave Cutler produced two field goals, tying a CFL record, as Edmonton bounced the Lions. Cutler now has 30 three-pointers, equalling the record set by Ted Gerela of B.C. in 1968.

Roy Bell, the leading groundgainer in Canada, exploded for a 76-yard scoring run to put the Eskimos' victory in safekeeping. He gained 185 yards on 26 carries to become the first back to surpass 1,000 yards this season.

Flanker George McGowan took a four-yard pass and tight end Tyrone Walls a 13-yard pass for touchdowns from Bruce Lemmerman. Cutler converted two of the three scores and added a single.

Mike Wilson scored the only B.C. touchdown, rambling 28 yards with an interception of a Lemmerman pass. Ivan MacMillan kicked two of three field goals attempted and converted Wilson's major.

The Lions were without halfback Monroe Eley and fullback Johnny Musso was handicapped by stretched knee ligaments. B.C.'s offensive team has scored only one touchdown in the last three games.

Good Enough to Trip Argos

TORONTO (CP) — Centre Paul Desjardins of Toronto Argonauts summed it up: "We knew what we had to do, but don't ask me why we didn't do it."

Coach Jerry Williams of Hamilton Tiger-Cats said: "What the hell! We won, didn't we? Perhaps both teams have played better games."

Neither team was impressive, but the Ticats surprised their hosts 16-11 Sunday to tighten the Eastern Football Conference race. The fourth-place Tiger-Cats now have 12 points, one less than Montreal Alouettes, and two behind the Argos and Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Rough Riders moved into a share of first when they whipped Calgary Stampeders 32-8 Sunday in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in the western city.

Quarterback Chuck Ealey didn't throw for any touchdowns, but he moved the Ticats close enough for four field goals and a single by place kicker Ian Sunter and another single by punter Alec Lockington.

Hamilton got its other two points when Toronto kicker Zenon Andrusyshyn was tackled in his end zone for a safety.

Quarterback Joe Theismann of the Argos, outstanding in Toronto's 37-10 over Calgary last week, had one of his worst games against the Ticats, although he scored a touchdown.

He completed only six of 3 attempts and picked up only 27 yards on five scrambles. Andruyshyn converted the touchdown and added a field goal and single.

Hadl-to-Jackson Winning Ram Combo

By The Associated Press

Cornerback Charlie Walters of Dallas Cowboys spent much of Sunday's game in Los Angeles chasing speedy Ram receiver Harld Jackson. But he didn't catch up with him until after the game.

"You're not all-American, man," declared Waters, grasping Jackson's hand. "You're all-world."

Jackson caught touchdown passes of 63, 16, 67 and 36 yards from John Hadl as the Rams topped the Cowboys 37-31. Jackson hauled in seven passes for the afternoon for a whopping 238 yards.

The rejuvenated Rams now are 5-0, one of only two unbeaten National Football League teams. Minnesota Vikings, 17-13 winners over the San Francisco 49ers, are also 5-0.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh Steelers dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten, falling to Cincinnati Bentals 19-7; Buffalo Bills beat Baltimore Colts 31-13; Denver Broncos beat Houston Oilers 48-20; New York Jets edged New England Patriots 9-7; Oakland Raiders downed San Diego Chargers 27-17; Atlanta Falcons buried Chicago Bears 46-6; New Orleans Saints upset Detroit Lions 20-13; Philadelphia Eagles edged St. Louis Cardinals 27-24; Washington Redskins took New York Giants 21-3; and Kansas City Chiefs played to a 10-10 tie with Green Bay Packers.

Miami Dolphins play the Browns at Cleveland tonight.

Jackson, obtained from Philadelphia in the trade that sent quarterback Roman Gabriel to the Eagles, was delighted with his performance.

"This was my best game ever," said the 173-pound speedster. "And Hadl is the best man I've ever had throwing to me."

Hadl, another recent Ram acquisition, connected on nine of 14 tosses for 217 yards and four touchdowns before half time.

Minnesota withstood an aerial barrage from San Francisco's Steve Spurrier, who completed 31 of 48 passes for a club record 320 yards. Safety Paul Krause intercepted Spurrier twice in the fourth quarter, however, to kill 49er drives.

Rookie Charles Clark ran for 112 yards and one touchdown, and Horst Muhlmann kicked four field goals for Cincinnati against Pittsburgh.

The Baltimore defence held O. J. Simpson of Buffalo to just 26 yards rushing in the first half but the former Heisman Trophy winner ran wild the last two periods, winding up with 166 yards on 22 carries.

Simpson now has a remarkable 813 yards rushing to five games.

Simpson scored twice, once on a 78-yard jaunt, as the surprising Bills increased their record to 4-1 and remained tied for the American Conference East lead.

Oakland coach John Madden refused to change quarterbacks despite a poor showing by Ken Stabler against San Diego in the first half. Stabler responded by completing eight of 11 passes, two for touchdowns, in the second half to spark the Raiders.

Atlanta, which hadn't scored a touchdown in three games, scored three of them in a four-minute span of the third period to break the game open. Bob Lee apparently solved the club's quarterbacking problems by hitting on 11 of 13 tosses against the Bears for 181 yards and two touchdowns.

Fullback Bill Butler's one-yard plunge with 39 seconds left against the Lions gave the Saints a surprising second-straight victory.

Gabriel rallied the Eagles over the Cards with two touchdown passes in the final two minutes. The winning score came on a 24-yard toss to 17th-round draft choice Don Zimmerman on the final play of the game.

Cougars Flash Signs of Promise

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

It's much too early to decently assess Victoria Cougars' playoff chances this season, but the Western Canada Junior Hockey League team isn't hesitating.

The Cougars are giving it the pass-and-skate manouevre and they break out of their own zone well. Such technicalities, displayed in Saturday's 8-5 victory over Kamloops Chiefs at Memorial Arena, are among items that may be considered as evidence of promise.

The breakouts, tactics employed to work the puck out of the defensive zone, have been effective despite the fact Cougars have been tagged for 14 goals in their first two games of the 1973-74 season.

That's the irony of Cougars' early goals-against record. Don't fault the breakout because the majority of the 14 goals have been the result of rivals' offensive thrusts rather than clearing failures.

Saturday, as in the 9-2 loss to Calgary the previous weekend, Cougars also showed ability to play the pass-and-skate style. It's a ploy akin to the pick-and-roll in basketball and the bump-and-run in football.

The pass-and-skate style is highly effective when there is no hesitation on the part of the passer or the skater, can be downright embarrassing when there is a delay.

The Cougars worked it well against Kamloops. Victoria defencemen Cal Kitching and Rick Williams especially delighted in using the ploy and found response in forwards Mark Lomenda, Derek Haas, Brad Anderson and Ron Poole.

The pass-and-skate and the breakout, not always efficiently performed last season, helped Cougars control Saturday's game in the first and third periods.

Not as evident in the Cougar makeup is bodywork. Failure to take out the man and thus allow the Chiefs to skate freely contributed to a second-period letdown. That's when Kamloops came back from a 4-1 deficit to tie the game 4-4.

Poole and Anderson each enjoyed four-point performances to spark Victoria's attack. Anderson counted two goals and set up two while Poole connected once and passed for three.

Lomenda, Haas, Al McLaren, Brian Day and Mel Bridgeman also scored for Victoria while Tim Peck, Randy Andreachuk, Gordie Stewart, Don Murdoch and Terry McDonald shared Kamloops scoring.

Cougars showed greater depth than the Chiefs, as visible by coach Joe Tennant's decision to lean heavily on the efforts of two lines and three defencemen.

Cougars out-shot Kamloops 46-30 but Glen Bueckart in the Victoria goal made enough good stops to indicate he settled down from his opening-game embarrassment against Calgary.

Elsewhere in the league, Flin Flon Bombers and New Westminster split a pair of rough games in Flin Flon, while Medicine Hat Tigers, Regina Pats and Calgary Centennials carved out other weekend victories.

Goalie Roger Swanson rang up his first league shutout as the Bombers blanked Bruins 5-0 Saturday but New Westminster took Sunday's game, 7-5. Referees handed out two game misconducts and 18 majors in the two-game series.

Calgary rebounded from a 4-2 defeat in Medicine Hat by scoring four power-play goals in an 8-3 win over Swift Current Broncos on Sunday. The Pats, sparked by Rob Laird's three goals, trounced Winnipeg Clubs 9-2.

'Lomas to Tackle Rams

Times News Services

It will be Vancouver Meralomas against Regina Rams, with Edmonton Huskies waiting in the wings . . .

That's the Western Canada junior football picture after the three clubs emerged, impressively as champions of their leagues.

Meralomas, sparked by the passing of quarterback Dan Smith, came to life in the second half and trounced North Shore Cougars 40-17 Sunday in the B.C. Big Four final at Vancouver's Empire Stadium.

The powerful Rams, Western champs for the past two years, were equally awesome in drubbing Saskatoon Hilltops 54-14 behind the five-touchdown performance of halfback Ted Dolinski. Rams, who won 34-28 the previous weekend, thus took the two-game, total-point Manitoba-Saskatchewan League final 88-42.

Huskies advanced to the Western Final Oct. 28 by trouncing Calgary Colts 42-1 to win the best-of-three Alberta League final in two straight. Meralomas will play the Rams in Regina next Saturday with the winners advancing to the West final against Edmonton.

At Vancouver, Smith passed for 230 yards, including touchdown strikes to Tim Baker, Barry Hughes and Rick Price. 'Lomas rolled up 401 yards in total offence against the Cougars' 239.

Plagued by a rash of penalties, the bigger and stronger Meralomas trailed North Shore 17-14 at the half.

In a preliminary game at Empire Stadium, Surrey Rams edged Renfrew Trojans 9-6 to win the Big Four Juvenile championship.

Short-Handed Barons Belted by Castaways

Castaways trounced a below-strength Red Barons team 7-0 at Pemberton Park Sunday to storm into a first-place tie with Rebels Grey in the Vancouver Island Men's Field Hockey Association.

Barons, who had to play two men short and were without the services of their three top players, had no answer to the strong attacking game of Castaways who got three goals from Trevor Bagot and two from playing-coach Dave Auld. Mike Paget and Steve Murphy were the other scorers.

Castaways H and Fossils fought to a 2-2 tie later at the same park in Sunday's only other game. Gary Jones and Davy Hutchings got the Castaways' goals while Sam Lim and Mike Hobson were the Fossils' scorers.

University of Victoria Vikings moved into a three-way tie for fifth place in the eight-team league when they won by default from Tigers.

In the Vancouver Island Women's Association, Oak Bay increased its first-division lead to three points by edging Mariners 2-1 and Pirates moved into a second-place tie by downing Sandpipers 3-1.

And in the second division, Sanderlings crushed UVic Vagabonds 7-0 and snapped a first-place tie with idle Castaways. In the other second-division games, Sailors beat Rebels Red 9-1 for their first win of the season and Rebels Grey nipped Evergreens 2-1.

Ol' Reverse Play Has 'em Guessing

Will the real winner of last Wednesday's Vancouver Island Juvenile Football Association semi-final please stand up?

Last Thursday, both Victoria newspapers carried reports that James Bay Athletic Association Mustangs defeated Saanich Chew Excavating Hornets in the sudden-death game.

That was wrong. It was the other way around.

Both newspapers promptly corrected the result and reported that the Hornets were the winners and will play in next Wednesday's sudden-death final at Athletic Park.

That was wrong, too, thanks to an executive decision.

Hornets used two players who were not properly registered and Don Fuller, Island Juvenile League president, reported the matter to Ray Symonds of Vancouver. Symonds, president of the Canadian Amateur Football Association, ruled against the Hornets.

So the Mustangs will meet Oak Bay Farmer Construction Wednesday at 8 p.m. after all.

Unless, of course, the report has been twisted again, in which case you have one of football's rarest plays — the triple reverse.

Flyers Tie Saanich Gulls Defeat Lakers

Fuller Lake Flyers battled back to tie Saanich Block Brothers Braves 3-3 in a Vancouver Island Junior "B" Hockey League game Sunday at Pearkes Arena.

In another game, Juan de Fuca Gulls tripped Lake Cowichan Baird's Trucking 6-3 at Juan de Fuca Arena.

Single goals by Cam Kring, Ray Krueger and Dave Peet gave Braves a 3-2 advantage going into the second period. Lee Clackson, Ralph Fraser and Rob Boyd scored for Fuller Lake.

Greg Harrow was outstanding in the Flyers' net with 40 saves while Brian McKinnon blocked 20 shots on the Saanich goal.

Brian McLaughlan (2), Darryl Ball, Tim Clarkson, Brian Girling and Norm Baker scored for Gulls while Mike Forrest (2) and Dan Biczo replied for Lake Cowichan.

Rough play in the game at Juan de Fuca produced a total of 94 minutes in penalties for both clubs.

When Olympic Columbians win, they win!

Before Sunday, Columbians had been kept out of the win column of the B.C. Soccer League's first-division standings for four games.

Then, suddenly they exploded for a 10-0 victory over hapless Vancouver Greek Olympics Sunday, with Gordie Henderson scoring four of the goals. It was the seventh straight loss for the Greek team.

On Saturday, Tom Forrester scored two goals and set up two others as Victoria London Boxing Club trounced Simon Fraser Univeristy 5-1 before just over 300 fans at Royal Athletic Park.

George Pakos collected a pass from winger Dean Stokes and opened the scoring early and Forrester got his first goal at the 29-minute mark when he banged a corner kick by Jan Bentley past young goalkeeper Andy Salt.

Forrester then slipped the ball through for playing-coach Ron Thompson to score and assisted on a goal by Bentley before making it 5-0 with his second goal at the 65-minute mark.

Two minutes later, Kjeld Brodsgaard saw his hopes of a shutout shattered when Ken Whitehead scored his ninth goal of the season. He leads the league scoring.

Brian Robinson, just back from a tour of Europe with the Canadian national team, played well for the Boxers in mid-field.

Despite the slippery field, Boxing Club gave a confident display of sharp, short-passing soccer and would have scored even more goals but for a fine effort in goal by Salt.

The win lifted the Boxers into a second-place tie with Pegasus of Vancouver, one point behind league-leading Victoria Gorge Molsons.

The Molsons take on Pegasus at Royal Athletic Park next Saturday and the Boxing Club meets North Shore Pauls at Vancouver's Kinsmen Park.

The Pauls and Vancouver Sporting Club battled to a 2-2 tie in Saturday's other games.

Chris Bennet and Colin Atkinson scored for Pauls while Reg Newmark and Gordie Creamer got the Sporting Club goals.

Referee Calls Halt To Stormy Contest

University of Victoria Vikings blanked Metro Toyota 5-0 Sunday in a shortened Vancouver Island Soccer League match at Topaz Park.

The Premier Division game was called with seven minutes remaining when fans flooded onto the field.

Tempers began to flare on the field and in the stands when a Metro player was sent off for swearing. A few minutes later, Vikings were awarded a penalty kick. Another Metro player booted the ball away and then tried to get at the referee and was also ordered off the field.

He was restrained by clubmates but some members of the crowd decided to get into the fray and the referee had to call the match.

"It will be my job, if necessary, to discipline the team," said league president Bill Merison.

Players concerned will be judged at the regular disciplinary committee meeting on Wednesday but Merison expects to act as soon as he received the referee's report.

"The league is going to step on this rather heavily," he added.

In other matches of the Premier Division, Nanaimo topped Cosmoplitan Royals 4-2 at Centennial Stadium and London Boxing club edged Duncan Powell's Men's Wear 3-2 at Duncan.

On Saturday, Oak Bay blanked Victoria West 4-0 at Heywood Avenue Park to take over sole possession of the divisional lead.

Bays, James and Oak, Show Rugby Strength

James Bay Athletic Association and Oak Bay Wanderers remained the only unbeaten clubs in the Victoria Rugby Union's first division when both carved out impressive wins Saturday.

James Bay, league and playoff champions last year, crushed University of Victoria Vikings 23-6 at Macdonald Park. Oak Bay scored its third straight victory with a 21-11 decision over Cowichan at Windsor Park.

Winger Tom Lippa raced over for two trys to lead James Bay and Barry Robins booted two conversions and a penalty goal.

Fullback Mike Elcock scored 13 of Oak Bay's points, kicking three penalty goals and converting both trys scored.

Peter Reinholdt, who scored a try and then kicked two penalty goals and a conversion, provided all but four points as UVic Norsemen downed Nanaimo 16-12 in a second-division game Sunday at Gordon Head.

In the second-division Saturday, CFB Esquimalt trounced Saanich Agrarians 24-0 and James Bay nipped Oak Bay 8-6.

UVic Saxons defeated Oak Bay 17-9 and Titans blanked Cowichan 8-0 Sunday in third-division games. Two other matches didn't get played. Castaways defaulted to James Bay and Saanich Velox won by default over Nanaimo.

And in an exhibition match at Royal Roads Military College, Royal Roads, which dropped out of the league last season, hammered Camosun College, which plays in the third division, 35-0.

Match-Play Marathon To Player

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Gary Player of South Africa won the Piccadilly World match-play golf crown for the fifth time Saturday with a dramatic victory at the 40th hole over Australian Graham Marsh.

It was the longest final of the 10-year-old tournament, which carried prize money of $75,000.

Player teetered on the brink of defeat and appeared exhausted as the drama neared its climax. At the last scheduled hole, the 36th, he stayed alive with a putt which hung on the lip of the cup before dropping in.

He finally cracked his ponent after more than eight hours on Wentworth's formidable 6997-yard, par-74, out.

Player, 36, was two holes down after the first three holes of the afternoon round and Marsh was putting steadily.

But Player, who underwent major surgery on his stomach earlier this year, birdied the 24th and 25th with putts of five and seven feet. He reached the last turn tied with the relatively inexperienced Aussie.

The 36-year-old Player had won the tourney every other previous time he reached the final—in 1955, 1966, 1968 and 1971. This time, he won first prize of $25,000.

Undefeated Chemainus Clips Gulls

CHEMAINUS — Chemainus Blues extended an unbeaten string to three games Saturday night by squeezing out a narrow victory in an intermediate "A" interlocking hockey game at Fuller Lake Arena.

Blues of the Vancouver Island League nipped James Bay Athletic Association Gulls of the Victoria League 5-4 in a game that counts in standings of both leagues.

Vern Lambourne, Rick Adams, Daryl Hickson, Bill Harwood and Jim Bjork scored for Blues, who had period leads of 3-2 and 5-2.

Blake Lawson, Dale McLauchlan, Russ Joyal and Kelly Christiansen replied for Gulls.

Ron Toffey made 35 saves, including 17 in the first period, in the Gulls' net while Spence Simmons stopped 22 shots for Blues.

Donohue Wins Series

MONTEREY, Calif. — David Saville-Peck of Victoria didn't last long but he got a share of the prize money Sunday when Mark Donohue ran away from the field to win the $75,000 Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix and the 1973 Canadian-American Challenge Cup series.

Saville-Peck completed only two laps of the twisting 1.9-mile road course at Laguna Seca Raceway but earned $667.

John Cordts of Huntsville, Ont., completed 26 laps and picked up $800.

Donohue of Reading, Pa., had to use a backup engine which was bolted into his turbo-charged Porsche minutes before the race began but he quickly worked his way through the field after starting from 16th place in the 24-car lineup.

Donohue won the last five races in the eight-race, million-dollar series for unlimited cars.

Jackie Oliver of England was a distant second and Hurley Haywood of Jacksonville, Fla. was third.

Vampires, Cowichan Still Tied

Cowichan Chiefs and Saanich Vampires remained deadlocked for first place in the Vancouver Island Bantam Football League by recording decisive victories Sunday.

Chiefs blanked North Island Warriors 30-0 at Duncan while Vampires hammered Saanich Hornets 35-6 in Royal Athletic Park.

Ron Bellis and Ross McCauley each scored 12 points for Chiefs. Bellis had two touchdowns while McCauley had one TD and booted a field goal as well as three converts. Mike Gergel scored the other Cowichan major.

Randy Smith (2), Kevin Kirzinger, Gavin Smart and Steve Shorts scored majors for Vampires. Brad Leason kicked three converts and Short booted two singles.

Terry Hare went over for the lone Hornet touchdown.

UBC, Alberta Share Field Hockey Honors

British Columbia and Alberta battled through three days' play, remained tied at the end of each day, and finally had to share the Canada West University Athletic Association women's field hockey title.

But for a few seconds at the University of Victoria Sunday, it looked as though UBC would again win outright the crown it has worn for the last two years.

After a scoreless first half, Shelley Winter netted to give UBC a 1-0 lead in the last and deciding game of the three-day, double-knockout championship tournament.

That was midway through the second period but the Vancouver players had less than a minute in which to enjoy their lead. From the ensuing bully, Alberta charged back upfield and Wendy Martin got the equalizer.

UBC and Alberta both finished with three wins and three ties and host University of Victoria was third with four ties and two losses. University of Calgary, which finished with two ties and four defeats, was fourth.

After finishing Friday's games on equal terms, UBC and Alberta both had one win and one tie Saturday.

UBC blanked Calgary 4-0 and tied 2-2 with UVic Saturday and Alberta crushed Calgary 4-1 and played to a scoreless draw with Victoria.

Then, the tied leaders both scored victories Sunday morning — UBC shut out Victoria 3-0 and Alberta edged Calgary 2-1 — to enter the final game still level.

In Sunday afternoon's other game, Janet Williams scored for UVic in a 1-1 tie with Calgary.

Chills Around the Corner Gave a Little Extra Zest To a Balmy Sunday

Call it Indian summer, a lucky weather break or just a sunny Sunday.

After the deluge which launched the weekend, it all ended on a brilliant note and Victorians piled outdoors to enjoy it, perhaps to bid a fond farewell to the sun before the rains arrive in earnest.

Bob Bennett spent his time landing red snappers from the dock at Ogden Point.

Elsewhere, fishermen added canoeing to their outing as they paddled across a calm Ross Bay.

Along the seawall promenade of the same bay, photographer John McKay came upon a relaxed stroller and his Scottie, walking where southeasters will soon be pushing big storm waves.

And on the breakwater at Ogden Point there was plenty of people traffic because it's always a place to bring sea and sun together.

SECOND SECTION

Few Enter Race For Civic Vote

Nominations for the Nov. 17 municipal elections close two weeks from today, and unless there's a last-minute spurt from all directions the line-up of candidates in the capital region municipalities will be one of the thinnest in years.

Mayoralty terms in six of the seven municipalities expire this year, and to date only three of those — Oak Bay, Sidney and North Saanich — have thrown up challengers to the incumbents.

Although they have until noon on Oct. 29 to file their nomination papers, indications are that new contestants for aldermanic seats in most cases will be significant by their absence.

For the first time this year, directors on the Capital Region Board will be elected directly from municipalities — in what Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer has termed an experiment to try to make voters better acquainted with their regional representatives.

In Victoria, Mayor Peter Pollen looks set for re-election by acclamation, despite earlier hints by Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis that he might consider running for the city's mayoralty.

No other candidate has appeared as even a faint possibility to bid for Pollen's seat, although Pollen himself has repeatedly invited such opposition in recent weeks.

Of the four aldermanic incumbents, three have said they will offer themselves for re-election and the fourth, Ald. Mike Young, said today he is still undecided and will not commit himself until later this week.

Young, who handles a major portfolio as zoning committee chairman, said he had intended to run again but the pressure on his time caused by the busy schedule of City Hall meetings over the past six weeks has made him reconsider his position.

Running again are Ald. Clyde Savage, Ald. Bill Tindall and Ald. Malcolm Anderson. Anderson will be seeking his first full two-year term, having been successful in a byelection last March.

Only two "outsiders," both women, have announced their election aspirations in Victoria.

First to enter the race was Kay Lines, a founder and leading figure in the James Bay Community Association. She has been joined by Margaret Richards, a member of the Advisory Planning Commission, who is making her fourth bid for an aldermanic seat.

A mayoralty race may be shaping up in Saanich.

Veteran alderman Frank Waring has resigned his second year of office to run for the mayoralty seat.

Today, former alderman Ed Lum said he will announce Tuesday whether he will run for office. His decision, he said depends on whether he can find somebody to manage his business.

Of the incumbent aldermen in Saanich, whose two-year terms are up in December, only Ald. Edith Gunning has said she will not be running. The others, William Campbell, William Noel and Fred Severson, have not declared their intentions.

In Oak Bay, Mayor Frances Elford, seeking her third term, will be challenged by Ald. Brian Smith.

Smith, a Victoria lawyer, has served two terms as alderman.

Aldermen Norman Pimlott and Douglas McLelland, whose terms end this year, both intend to run again.

Retired engineer Harry Graham, of 633 Radcliffe Lane, said he will decide within the next two or three days if he will seek a seat on Oak Bay council. He was beaten by 919 votes last year.

In Esquimalt, Mayor Art Young has formally declared his candidacy for mayor.

Young, 49, has served two terms as mayor and one as alderman, and won the 1971 mayoralty election by acclamation.

Ald. George McCreadie, 35, was elected last March in a byelection to fill the seat of the late Art Cuthbert, and says he will run again this year, barring unforeseen circumstances.

Ald. Art Mebs, 54, an eight-year veteran of the council, is running again, but Ald. Ken Hill has not decided.

In Sidney, Ald. Fred Robinson has resigned midway through his second term to seek Mayor Stan Dear's seat. Dear is running a third time.

A one-year vacancy has been left by Robinson and a two-year vacancy has been left by former Ald. John Hamilton, who resigned last August.

Aldermen Chris Anderson and Peter Malcolm have indicated they both intend to seek re-election.

North Saanich Mayor Trevor Davis said he has not decided if he will seek another term.

Ald. Douglas Boon is running for Davis' position.

Aldermen Harry Taylor, Nel Horth and Paul Grieve will run again.

Three Central Saanich aldermen, whose terms end this year, will run again — Jean Butler, Percy Lazarz, and Ray Lamont.

Mayor Archie Galbraith has one year to complete his term.

The seven Capital Regional District directorships from outside the municipalities are up for election but so far nomination papers have been filed by only one person — newcomer George Heinekey of Vesuvius Bay on Salt Spring Island.

In Sooke, businessman Evan Haldane, 6762 Grant, announced his candidacy last month.

Hospital Merger Backed

A two-day seminar to examine the case for merging hospital administrations in Victoria opened today and about 100 delegates heard a Hamilton doctor on videotape strongly support such a reorganization.

Dr. Jack Twelves, chief of general practice at two Hamilton general hospitals, was unable to attend the seminar so recorded his views on videotape.

He and his colleagues were scheduled to be on one end of a long-distance conference call so those attending the meeting at the Eric Martin Institute auditorium could question him.

District doctors, hospital administrators, provincial government officials and members of the regional hospital board have gathered to consider the pros and cons of merging administration of Royal Jubilee and Victoria General and perhaps other region hospitals.

Each hospital in the Capital district now has its own board of directors and medical staff although most doctors on the active staff of one hospital also have privileges at the other.

The advisory committee of the regional hospital board, studying ways of increasing efficiency, proposed the seminar so those involved locally could hear of the experiences with merging elsewhere.

In Hamilton, the two general hospitals with which Dr. Twelves is concerned, have merged administration and the Hamilton district has implemented a plan to develop its hospitals with differing and complementary roles.

In outlining the purpose of the seminar, Robert Wallace, chairman of the advisory committee, says in the program:

"One of the major problems faced by the (regional hospital) board is to avoid and eliminate unnecessary duplication in our hospital facilities so that the community can obtain the most for its health dollar."

Mergers are worth considering if they offer a possible solution, he says.

Also scheduled to speak today are Dr. Richard Foulkes, the provincial government's consultant on health care delivery; Dr. E. C. Shortliffe, a consultant in health services who was involved in the merger of three hospitals in Delaware and Fred Lamb, executive director of the Metro-Calgary and Rural General Hospital District, operating two hospitals and a school of nursing.

Murder Attempt, Rape Charged After Girl Found

A 23-year-old Victoria man was charged in provincial court today with rape and attempted murder of a 19-year-old Edmonton girl found Thursday lying beside West Coast Rd.

Robert W. Thibeau, 306—3800 Quadra, was charged with attempted murder "by strangulation and beating about the head."

He was remanded to Nov. 13 for psychiatric examination.

Thibeau was arrested by Sooke RCMP Saturday, two days after Judy Lynn Kennedy was spotted by a passing motorist lying beside the road and waving feebly for help about 11 miles west of Sooke.

Police said she was badly beaten about the face and in a state of shock.

She told police she had been hitch-hiking from Ladysmith on the Trans-Canada Highway that evening and the man had picked her up.

Miss Kennedy was taken to Victoria General Hospital where her condition today is fair.

HEART SURGERY'S FIRST FATALITY

The open heart surgery program which began at Royal Jubilee Hospital last July has had its first fatality, a hospital spokesman said today.

The patient, described as a man in his mid-fifties from Greater Victoria, died on the operating room table last Tuesday when his heart could not be re-started after use of a heart-lung machine during the surgery. The heart-lung machine enables surgeons to operate on the heart at rest.

The open heart team successfully completed an operation Thursday, leaving the record at 20 successful operation since July against the single unsuccessful one last week.

'Queer' Mishap Injures Woman

A woman was injured Sunday in a boating incident at Pedder Bay which a Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman describes as "kind of a queer case."

There are conflicting reports on events which led to the admittance of Anna Sperberg, address unknown, to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A Pedder Bay marina official said she was one of a party of four aboard a cabin cruiser that came into the marina about 3 p.m. to take on fuel and supplies.

Heading out of the bay, the boat hit a rock and the woman fell in the boat, according to the marina spokesman. The Langford ambulance took her to hospital. But hospital records say she was run down by a boat.

She is in good condition today and undergoing tests.

After the injured woman left the marina in an ambulance the boat and the unidentified people aboard headed out to sea.

The PRCC was notified shortly afterwards that flares were being fired from the vessel near Race Rocks.

A rescue boat from the marina went to the scene and found the cabin cruiser had engine trouble. But the skipper refused to be towed back to Pedder Bay, saying he preferred to go to Victoria.

The PRCC spokesman said the marina boat, heading back to the marina, sighted other flares from the cruiser as they returned to shore.

He said the cruiser operator refused commercial assistance.

"He said he wanted the coast guard to come out. He didn't want to pay the (commercial) bill," the spokesman said.

The cruiser finally made her own way to Victoria.

"It was a kind of a queer case," the spokesman reported.

Ask The Times

Q: Could you tell me if the journalist Charles Mair and the author Emily Carr are buried in Victoria? D.L.

A: Emily Carr, who died in 1945, was buried in Ross Bay Cemetery. The remains of Charles Mair, who died in 1927, were forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

Q. Could you tell me what a tree toad is? Does it live and travel all year or does it hibernate? F.S.

A. There are several hundred kinds of tree frog or tree toad, distinguished by sticky pads on their feet enabling them to climb trees and leap through the tree tops.

They measure from less than one inch to four or five inches and feed on insects. Most are able to change color to camouflage themselves. They do hibernate, the World Book Encyclopedia says.

Q. Could you please tell me what sort of haircuts are allowed in the armed forces, especially boot camp? J.V.

A. A services spokesman says hair short and neatly trimmed, cut to terminate above the collar of the uniform, taper-trimmed on sides and back, with sideburns not below the middle of the ear, tapered and squared.

The rules are the same during basic training — only more strictly enforced.

People power turns the first sods with John Warren and Dorothy Jeffries, 4, giving a guiding hand

PIONEERS PLOW FIRST SOD

The first sod of the Pioneer Co-op Housing project in Vic West was turned with a "people plow" at ceremonies Sunday.

The event marked beginning of construction of 74 units which will provide housing for members of the newly-formed co-operative.

Estimated cost of the project is $1,611,800 with mortgage money coming from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The site at Langford and McCaskill is owned by the provincial government which leases it to the organization.

Co-op president John Warren said Saturday membership in the organization now stands at 15 but he expects "it will be going up much faster now that we are starting construction."

Provincial Housing Minister Lorne Nicholson was among officials attending Sunday's ceremony. Noting this is the first co-operative housing project to be started since the creation of the new housing department, he said the government would continue to encourage co-operative ownership in housing.

Immigrant Flow Slow Near Last Deadline

A heavy flow of immigrants to the immigration office Saturday reduced to a trickle today — the last day of the department's 60-day relaxed rule period.

Immigration officer John Smith said the flow could increase this evening until midnight when the office will close.

After midnight any immigrant who has not reported to the immigration office may be deported without appeal.

By Sunday, 521 persons had applied at the Victoria office at 816 Government to become landed immigrants.

The office has approved 229 applications, and 70 have been granted landed status.

A total of 45,180 persons has applied throughout Canada.

Landed status has been granted 4,824.

Manpower offices in centres not served by an immigration office will remain open until midnight to receive applications.

School Trustee Hopefuls Grow

Saanich school board chairman Rubymay Parrott announced today she will run for re-election.

Mrs. Parrott has been on the board six years, three of them as chairman.

Saanich Trustee Ann Foerster, completing her first term on the board, is also planning to run again.

Trustee Jack Armstrong, six-year veteran of the board, says he hasn't decided whether to run again, though he says "I feel that person with my experience in education, and my philosophy, which is conservative, can be of some use."

In Greater Victoria School District, board chairman Peter Bunn and trustees Daphne Temple and Harry Graham have all announced they will run for re-election.

Still undecided is Dr. Harold Knight, trustee for the past four years.

Sooke school board chairman Fred Willway will not run again, for health reasons.

Trustees Bill Stephenson and Ron Fitton, both up for re-election, have not yet announced their candidacy.

Howard Drummond, who quit Sooke school board two weeks ago in a dispute over proposed introduction of a French-language program for armed forces children at John Stubbs school, said today he hasn't decided whether to run again.

Yesteryear Revived for Metchosin Church Centenary

elizabeth forbes

History will come to life next weekend in Metchosin when the little church of St. Mary's the Virgin, celebrates a centenary.

There will be a parish bazaar in the community hall on Saturday afternoon, a church gathering Sunday morning at which the original form of service for dedication of the church, a hundred years ago, will be followed, and a parish supper on the Monday night, again in the community hall.

Old-time costumes will be worn at the bazaar on Saturday, and there will be a display of "treasures" loaned by descendants of pioneer families in the district.

Of special interest will be a large map of Metchosin, as it was when the church was built a century ago, showing trails and paths and pinpointing where the first families lived.

This was researched and prepared as a project of Grade 5 pupils in the Metchosin school.

Ready for distribution will be a short history of the church from its beginning to the present day, compiled and written by Mrs. Gavin Weir.

Mrs. Weir, the former Alice Evelyn Hodges of Chorleywood, near London, Eng., came to Metchosin in 1911 as a young teacher in the first school (now dedicated and preserved as a museum).

Religious services were held occasionally in the district by Anglican visitors, as far back as 1862. But it wasn't until 1871 that regular services were instituted in the school house, with Rev. F. B. Gribbell travelling on horseback from Victoria once a month and, later, every other Sunday.

In 1872, John Witty gave two acres of land for a church building next to the school — land he had also donated).

Canvassing for funds was started and by April, 1873, plans were called for and submitted by Edward Malladaine of Victoria and a contract awarded (in June that year) to George Simpson and W. J. Tippins for — hold your breath — the sum of $1,321.

Materials were brought by water from Victoria to Albert Head at a freight charge of a mere $25. From there they were hauled to the church site, free of charge, by the settlers.

Settlers also supplied girders under the joists and took them to the grounds, hewed out and ready for the carpenters.

Interior furnishings — pews, font, reading desk and pulpit — still in use today — were made of selected and seasoned timber.

A bell, used for the first time at a Thanksgiving festival in 1876, is also still in use.

On July 24, 1873, the church corner stone was laid by Mrs. Hills, wife of Rt. Rev. George Hills, first Bishop of Columbia. Actual work on the building started in August and the first service was held in October.

Church wardens were Thomas Gleed and Hans Larse Helgeson, on the church committee was W. B. Pearce, Robert Weir, John Parker, Edmond Ropman, John Witty, George Pears, Arthur Peatt and John Lawrence.

First baptism recorded was Hans Helgeson's infant son, Charles Alexander. (A descendant of that long-ago baby will be baptized at a first ceremony in the new century, Sunday afternoon). First wedding was that of Fanny Lethbridge and John Lawrence on July 27, 1876 and the first burial in the little churchyard, a young Helgeson daughter, who died during a measles epidemic.

From 1873 until 1911 the church was served through Christ Church Cathedral in Victoria and St. Paul's in Esquimalt. Then, in 1911, resident vicar, Rev. H. B. Hadlow, was named by Bishop Perrin.

In the 62 years since there have been 11 resident vicars, including such well-known names as A. E. De L. Nunns, (later an archdeacon) who brought his bride from the old country, and Cecil Swanson who was to become a bishop.

There was F. V. Venables too, whose son F. E. Venables was a recent incumbent; also L. A. Todd, Fred Comley, H. M. Bolton, John MacDonald, A. W. R. Ashley and H. Sibley.

The present vicar is Henry Silvester.

In the hundred years, there have been three rectories, the first on Rocky Point Road, the second on Happy Valley Road and the present one on Wotton Road, quite near the church.

When a surplus army building was acquired in 1947 from Fort Mary Hill, a parish hall was erected beside the church in memory of Metchosin residents who served in the two world wars. When the old vestry collapsed of dry rot some years back a new one was quickly planned and built.

At present a modern furnace is being installed which hopefully will be ready for next Sunday's service.

Back in 1937 a young oak tree from England's Windsor Great Park was planted in the churchyard to commemorate the coronation of George VI and Elizabeth, now the Queen Mother. Today it is a sturdy tree with wide-spread branches.

It's in the churchyard too, that at the Eastertide, wild lilies interspersed with shooting stars (peacocks), create a carpet that draws hundreds to the scene.

In recent years small clumps of white and pink cyclamen — offshoots of plants placed on a few graves — have also appeared. These flowers, spreading slowly at the back of the church, bloom during the summer and autumn.

If you are out there next weekend, look closely and you'll find them half hidden now among the fallen oak leaves.

Alvarez-Welch Medical Report

By WALTER ALVAREZ

Dr. Abraham B. Bergman, of Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical Centre in Seattle, has been studying the "sudden infant death syndrome," or "crib death," since 1965, and his studies show that these tragic deaths, (in which a child goes to bed apparently well and is found dead in the morning) may be the result of a complete upper airway obstruction due to a minor viral inflammation of the upper respiratory tract.

Oftentimes in these cases, the parents feel terribly distressed, wondering if something they did or failed to do caused their dear child's death. Also, if police come to investigate, their questioning may distress the parents still more.

Dr. Bergman, who has been president of the National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death since 1971, urges the physician to stand behind the parents during the police investigation, and in every case an autopsy should immediately be ordered, so that the doctor can show the parents that it was not their fault that the infant died.

This strange and tragic disease strikes 7,500 to 10,000 infants each year, and it can be very helpful for the parents to join the National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death. There are now some 40 chapters in many cities throughout the United States.

IS VEGETARIANISM WISE?

I know that most vegetarians can get by pretty well, especially if they will eat several types of vegetables that contain essential proteins. However, the strictest vegetarians, who avoid even milk and milk products, are in danger of suffering from nutritional deficiency. It helps greatly if vegetarians will drink milk, eat cheese, and especially eggs.

Some experts advise that the vegetarian take a dose of vitamin B-12 at least once a month, because it is not supplied by vegetables, and it is essential in the building of normal blood.

The important fact that a vegetarian must know is that proteins are essential to health, and the proteins in vegetables are not quite as good as are the proteins in meat, milk and eggs. Also, vegetables alone cannot supply vitamin B-12. Vegetarians should eat adequate amounts of several different types of vegetables, since a diet limited to one or two cannot furnish all the essential protein. There are some Zen diets that consist entirely of cereals, and these are dangerous; several deaths have resulted from the too strict following of this type of diet.

Milk and eggs can greatly protect the health of the vegetarian, and I see no reason for not partaking of these very valuable foods. I remember so well a classmate of mine, the very able daughter of a college president, who was a strict vegetarian in college until she ran up against a difficult course in chemistry.

Then her health broke down, and she had to stop work. A few days after she started eating meat, she was all right again; she finished her college course and went on to hold an important government post for some 40 years.

In a release from "The Medical Letter," which is published in New Rochelle, N.Y., I read that vegetarians must be careful not to take too much iron and vitamins, because an excess of iron, especially when proteins are deficient, can damage the heart and liver. I read also that there is no convincing evidence to prove that even the strictest vegetarians have less heart and blood-vessel disease than do people who eat meat.

BLINDNESS IN DIABETICS

Recently, the American Academy of Ophthalmology has reported that in persons who are losing their sight because of diabetes, treatment with powerful small bursts of blue-green light from a laser can prevent the eye disease which can sometimes blind a diabetic. The disease blinds the diabetic by causing tiny hemorrhages in the blood vessels at the back of the eye.

If such bleeding is not stopped, the inside of the eye becomes cloudy and scar tissue forms. With the laser, the bleeding of these little spots is stopped.

This laser technic was first used in 1968 by Dr. Francis A. L'Esperance of the Edward S. Harkness Eye Institute at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Centre in New York City. Dr. L'Esperance has used the treatment on more than 2,000 eyes, and has had success in 75 per cent of cases.

A good eye specialist will know about this new treatment.

Reconstruction of Breast Needs Individual Check

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old married woman who fortunately survived breast cancer three years ago. My right breast was removed, and although I wear a padded bra and look normal in clothes, I haven't totally adjusted to my loss, even though my husband has been very kind and understanding.

I suppose I will sound vain and silly (that's why I haven't spoken to my doctor about this) but I would like to know if it is possible for a plastic surgeon to reconstruct an artificial breast and successfully make it part of me? — MRS. J.

DEAR MRS. J.: I have discussed your problem with my plastic surgery advisor, Dr. Eugene Worton, who advises me that every case must be evaluated individually. Whether it would be possible to do a reconstructive operation on you would depend upon the type of surgery you had (the size and location of the removed tumor.) He suggests you contact a qualified plastic and reconstructive surgeon, and discuss it with him.

DEAR ABBY: How does a woman let her friends know she is available? I am being divorced, and a woman my age can't afford to waste much time, so I'd like to have it known that I am in the market for a new husband.

What do you think of having some cards printed saying: "I AM AVAILABLE!" and with out going into detail I could add: "My divorce was final March 10th" and then something cute, like: "The line forms on the left." Then my new phone number.

I suppose this would seem rather forward a few years ago, but Abby, times have changed. What do you think? — AVAILABLE.

DEAR AVAILABLE: Times may have changed, but men haven't. When they play for keeps they avoid aggressive women. I recommend a more subtle way to get the word of your availability around.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "The Other Kids" who thought grown, educated, working children should live at home for free prompted this letter.

It's up to the parents to finish the job they started by insisting their grown children support themselves.

A feeling of self-worth is one of the greatest treasures one can possess. But it must be earned. Well-meaning parents who continue to support their adult children long after they are able to support themselves do them no favors. They are depriving them of one of life's most valuable assets.—MRS. C. R., SHELTON, WASH.

DEAR MRS. R.: To which I say: "Amen!"

DEAR ABBY: About two months ago I bought a package of rice. I noticed small brown bits but thought they were just darker kernels of rice. Upon closer examination, I saw them move! When I returned the rice to the market, they looked at me as though they thought I had placed the bugs there.

Last week, when I opened a five-pound box of flour, I found more bugs!

This morning I started to make pancakes. In measuring the pancake flour, yes, more bugs! Really Abby, I am afraid to make anything made with wheat, flour, or even cereals. I wonder how long I may have been eating these bug-infested foods. I never was a finicky person who examined things under a microscope, but I am getting a phobia from all this. What kind of bugs are they? How can I find out? And how do I get rid of them? BUGGED IN NEVADA.

DEAR BUGGED: I wrote to the University of Nevada Entomology Department; College of Agriculture, Reno, and heard nothing from them. Then I phoned the University of Minnesota's Entomology Department where I was graciously told: "Have the lady send a sample of the bug to us. We'll identify it and remedy her bug situation." Minnesota, hats off to thee!

Well maintained hardwood floors are a pleasure to look at! With the proper finish, their beauty can be accentuated and preserved.

Wooden floors in the home usually consist of red or white oak. In places which are exposed to heavy wear, such as work shops, assembly halls, etcetera, hard maple is most often used.

The four-page folder "Finishing Hardwood Floors" explains the procedure in great detail and offers more practical hints than manufacturers can usually put on their labels.

The leaflet tells you that to start, your floor should be made smooth. This is easiest done with a power sander. As soon as all the wood dust has been removed, the first coat of finish should be applied without delay.

You will also learn how staining enhances the wood.

Since oak has pores which show up in the wood, these pores should be filled.

The leaflet then discusses sealers. These are widely used as a protective finish. After the second coat of sealer has dried, the floor is ready for use. If desired, a varnish or wax can be applied on top of the sealer. High gloss varnishes are the most wear-resistant.

With your request please enclose a long (No. 10) self-addressed, stamped envelope and send it to: Public Relations Department, Canadian Paint Manufacturers Association, 1080 Beaver Hall Hill, Montreal, Quebec.

Surface Action at the Y Deserves a Second Look family

Times Staff

First looks often can be quite deceiving.

Take the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association of Victoria, for example.

There's that impressive-looking building standing on the corner of Courtenay and Quadra Streets. And there are all those adult members whose fees bring the cash flowing in.

At first glance, the YM-YWCA seems one of the least needy or deserving of the 23 agencies who stand to benefit from this year's United Way appeal.

But look again.

"Young" is the key word in the name YM-YWCA and in Victoria, as in cities all round the world, it is the youth of the community which reaps the profits.

The business sector has been canvassed and the residential section of the United Way appeal starts today.

The appeal objective is $680,000 and of this $95,000 will go to the YM-YWCA. This is $2,500 down from what the Y received last year and is only 18 per cent of the youth organization's total annual budget of more than half-a-million dollars.

"All our adult programs are self-supporting and the money we receive from the appeal fund goes toward partly subsidizing programs for young people," executive director Bill Skinner said Wednesday.

Skinner is a cross-the-country man, having been on the national YMCA staff in Toronto and in branches in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Newfoundland. He's been here in Victoria just over a year.

And he had a few facts and figures to hand out.

"The total number of members changes considerably during the year," Skinner explained. "But we have about 4,500 involved at present. And, in the last two years, a total of about 8,000 have been dealt with each year, half of these children."

A full-time staff of 32—George Alliston is the director of physical education—aided by 140 volunteer leaders handles the various YM-YWCA programs.

"The Y wouldn't operate without its volunteer leaders," Skinner said earnestly. "Their contribution is in time rather than in dollars."

For young men and women between the ages of 18 and 24, membership at the Y costs $50 a year. For women over 24 it's $65 and for men it's $75.

"And it costs $140 a year for men to join the Y's health club and this, said Skinner, is where a lot of the extra revenue comes from.

People often wonder, said Skinner, why the YM-YWCA as a youth organization "has all those adults there." But it is the money raised by the adult memberships, plus the Y's share of the appeal fund, that enables programs to be offered to young people at low fees and sometimes without a fee at all, he pointed out.

For young people under the age of 18, annual membership at the Y, providing involvement in usually two or three programs a week, is only $24. And it's less if you're hard up. Just over five per cent of the junior members, in fact, don't pay anything at all.

"If you put out a program for what it costs, you could eliminate many who really need it," Skinner explained. "And so we try to put out a program at a fee that is fair, or drop that fee altogether where necessary."

"We hope our programs can continue to be available to anyone who wants to take part in them, regardless of their ability to pay, and the money we get from the appeal fund helps to ensure this," Skinner said.

"You know, people see this building and they think this represents the Y, but it's really much more than that," Skinner said with feeling. "We are dealing with half as many youngsters again outside the building."

The Y provides physical education and recreation programs for children and young adults within the building and an extensive outdoor program at Camp Thunderbird.

But there is more.

Not quite so well publicized, for obvious reasons, is the Y's involvement with municipal organizations and police in community work, handling street gangs and problem youngsters.

And then there is the valuable teen-age training program where, as Skinner says, youths are learning to be aware of community leadership.

There are 40 teenagers at present in the leaders' corps and 30 of these will form one of the Y teams helping to collect for the Community Chest appeal.

There are those who have often suggested that the government could take over organizations like the YM-YWCA. This, however, would not only place an extra burden on taxpayers but would do away with volunteers.

And this, after all, is the key to the Y.

"It's this chance to do volunteer work that is so valuable," Skinner said, ". . . this is part of the process of learning to act responsibly in your community."

We Often Don't Understand The Language of Cooking

By HILDA BEASTALL

The art of cooking takes on the meaning of words and phrases met in cookbooks and recipes. We may be passing up a really healthful and delicious meal just because a word does not convey its exact meaning to us.

So here are a few "do you know's" thought of at random while cooking and preparing various meals.

Do you know that allspice is not a mixture of several spices but the berry of just one tree? It is supposed to have flavors resembling several familiar spices.

On the other hand, curry powder is made from 15 to 20 different spices; or as many as 50 depending on the part of India where the curry originates.

Do you know there are two distinct kinds of artichokes? One is the young green scaly flower bud of a certain plant before it opens; the other is the tubereous root of a different plant, easily grown here. The latter is usually referred to as Jerusalem artichoke.

Do you know the meaning of "to bake blind?" This really was a puzzler to me for a while. It means to bake a lower pie shell without a filling, such as for a cream or gelatine fruit pie.

Do you know the difference between fold in, beat and stir? Fold in is the method of combining a beaten mixture (such as egg whites or whipped cream) with other ingredients so that it retains its lightness. The action is that of passing the spoon across the bottom of the bowl and folding in the mixture over the top. Repeat as few times as possible until partially combined with other ingredients yet still having the whole thing light.

To beat is to thoroughly mix or blend together. To stir is to mix enough to combine but not to blend.

Do you know what is meant by a girdle in some English cookbooks? It is what we call a griddle—a thick round iron plate with handle over top, for baking scones or bannocks, or meat patties. Girdle is just a variation, used in northern England, of the regular spelling.

Have you wondered what is meant by a rasher? Nobody could even make a guess at that one, for it suggests nothing edible. It is supposed to have come from an obsolete word meaning to slice: hence a rasher is — a slice of bacon to an Englishman. No other food has rashers except bacon!

Do you know what the word Julienne implies? When referring to vegetables it means their being cut into thin strips resembling matchsticks for quick cooking.

Do you know that puree is a French word for porridge. It is applied chiefly to foods when they are cooked and rubbed through a sieve, thus making a thick smooth porridge.

Do you know that most Italian-sounding dishes starting with ris- are savory rice dishes? Ris and riz are continental European words for rice. Thus we have risottos of many flavors, each with a rice base.

Do you know about bubble and squeak? The phrase was first used in 1785 in England for meat and cabbage fried together.

The sounds it made were likened to a bubbling and squeaking. Today the phrase is still used for a dish of chopped cooked potatoes and cooked cabbage fried together in a pan.

And do you know what is corny about corned beef? The granules or "corns" of coarse salt used in pickling or brining the beef—first used as a phrase in 1565.

The Oxford International Dictionary (Unabridged) and various other dictionaries are responsible for some of this goulash, hotch potch, hash or what's it.

Bus Conversion Bonus Studied

EDMONTON (CP) — The provincial government may make it attractive financially for municipalities to convert their tranist buses to burn propane or natural gas, the legislature has been told.

Bill Yurko, environment minister, said the possibility of the province removing the tax on the two gases—to make them cheaper than gasoline or diesel fuel—probably will be considered by the cabinet within the next two months, depending on the results of an investigation by his department.

Smithers Hotel Razed, One Dead, 30 Escape

SMITHERS (CP) — One man was killed Sunday when fire destroyed the Hudson Hotel in this central British Columbia community.

RCMP said all residents of the 50-year-old hotel were accounted for. There were about 30 persons in the 20-room hotel when the blaze broke out in the early morning.

RCMP said they had recovered the body of a man from out of town who had been a resident of the hotel. His name was not available.

Smithers Fire Chief Harry Haywood said several persons were injured when they jumped from the second storey of the burning hotel.

Firemen fought the blaze for 10 hours before putting it out but kept it from spreading to adjacent buildings.

Chief Haywood said the fire broke out in a second-storey hotel room where a party was being held. The cause of the fire was not known.

The owner of the Hudson Hotel estimated damage at up to $300,000.

RICHMOND (CP) — Ted Adlem, a New Westminster businessman, was elected president of the British Columbia branch of the national Social Credit party at a party convention here Saturday.

Real Caouette, national leader of the Social Credit party, addressed the convention Sunday.

★ ★ ★

QUESNEL (CP) — The provincial education commissioner told a weekend school trustees meeting here that the current method of teaching in British Columbia is not localized enough.

John Bremer said there is a strong reason to want to use locally-generated teaching materials relevant to local situations.

"We ask of our education system that it prepare our students to live in the world which they know and the first part of that world is their own neighborhood locality, and then British Columbia, and then Canada.

★ ★ ★

"However, if you look at the material in use in schools in B.C. you find that a lot of it is related to other geographical locations and other countries," Bremer said.

★ ★ ★

SHEARWATER (CP) — Three boys were injured in a shower of bricks and debris Saturday when 1,000 cases of dynamite, being deliberately destroyed by fire at this small coastal community, exploded. Most seriously injured was Stephen Metcalfe, 14, flown to Vancouver Sunday with head injuries. David Archibald, 14, and his brother Russell, 15, were recovering from cuts and bruises.

The boys were about 500 yards away from the brick powder shed owned by Shearwater Marine where the blast occurred. Dr. Bob Henderson of Bella Bella said residents had been warned to stay away from the blast area.

★ ★ ★

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four persons escaped uninjured Sunday when their light plane crashed at Vancouver International Airport and burst into flames. One observer said it appeared the accident was caused by a faulty landing gear.

"The crash is being investigated by the Ministry of Transport and we cannot release any details," an RCMP spokesman said. Three men and one woman aboard got out of the plane before it burst into flames.

RDs Need Beefing

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia government must feed more money into the regional districts to beef up their technical capability, Resources Minister Bob Williams said Saturday.

"Many of the things done by the regional districts are not thought through. There is a tremendous variation around the province—some do a good job but they are in the minority by far." Williams told a B.C. Planning Institute seminar.

He said the government has a long term plan to give tree farms to municipalities for resource development. He said the farms would be wooded areas owner by the provincial government and could be used for recreational or forestry study purposes.

Burns Lake and Hazelton are two possibilities for tree farms, Williams said, "however this is a fairly long-term political project—two elections away at least."

Two Women In Street Accident

Two women required hospital treatment after being hit by a car in the intersection of Douglas and Courtney shortly after 8 p.m. Friday.

Victoria police said Janice Bond, 21, and Susan Beacock, 20, both of Suite 310 866 Craigflower, were walking across Douglas when hit by a car driven by Anthony S. Anslow of 751 Cameo Street.

They were taken to Victoria General Hospital with neck, back and leg injuries. Miss Beacock was treated and then released; Miss Bond was admitted and released to home care this morning.

We sell good quality sound to anyone who wants it

This MARANTZ Model 500 could be all the amplifier you'll ever want!

WHO CHECKS THE CHECKER?

Or better, what is Quality Control? QC is one of the main reasons Marantz is a cut above other stereo component lines. Inspecting, checking, testing, re-testing . . . and "re-testing" every element of each unit assembled is the Marantz way of doing things. And here's how it works. For an example, we'll take a look at what a Marantz Model 500 Power Amplifier goes through. When all individual transistors and other components arrive at the Marantz factory they are checked both visually and electronically. Upon passing inspection, they are assembled on a circuit board and again checked visually and electronically. Once approved each circuit is matched to another circuit board and electronically adjusted for maximum performance. This final version of the circuit board combination is then hand-assembled into a finished product. The assembled product is then sent to the Quality Control Assurance Station where some of the pickiest professionals in the business try their hardest to find something wrong with it. If they can't, and this unit meets all final specifications, then it's ready for you. Nothing less than this finished unit will ever get that far. And to you, this simply means . . . the true cost of a Marantz is more than paid back in years of trouble-free performance.

At CAV we're selling service. Sure you can buy an item for less, but—are they going to install it, show you how to use it and service it?

PM's Pledge 'Fraud, Sham'

By PAUL JACKSON
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Defence Minister James Richardson, MP for Winnipeg South, has said it.

So has Doug Roche (PC—Edmonton Strathcona), who took one look at the amount of money the federal government is pouring into the Ottawa-Hull capital region and immediately claimed that Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's government's pledge of decentralization was a fraud and a sham.

Now, three urban planners have won the ear of no less men than Treasury Board President Charles Drury and Ottawa Liberal MP Hugh Poulin, and declared that the Liberal government should halt expansion in the national capital and decentralize its growth to the Maritimes and Western Canada to stop the deterioration of life in the national capital and help promote national unity.

The three planners, one employed by the federal government, another by the provincial government, and the third in private practice, told Poulin to submit their brief to Ottawa for them because their positions dictate their names should be secret.

No Ties

Even Drury, a dedicated member of the Liberal establishment and a man with no ties or allegiance to Western Canada, was sufficiently impressed with the report, entitled The Case for Federal Decentralization, to have the three planners meet with a government committee.

Outcome of the meetings is not being discussed publicly by either side.

More than a year ago when he was minister of supply and services, Richardson shocked the Ottawa establishment by saying the $1 billion a year federal spending bonanza should be split up more or less equally by regions rather than being pumped into buying in the Ottawa-Toronto-Montreal triangle.

There has been nothing to suggest that the new Supply and Services Minister Jean-Pierre Goyer, a Quebec MP, has continued to act on Richardson's demands, but the Western Canadian Liberal who now holds the defence portfolio — as recently — as Wednesday declared defence spending must be divided up on a regional basis.

Roche was furious earlier this year when he found that the federal government's two major spending departments — public works and transport — intended to pump more money into the individual provinces of Ontario and Quebec this year than into the four Western provinces two northern territories combined.

Inequities

In fact, he found after checking official government documents, the public works department would spend more money in the city of Ottawa alone than in the combined West and North.

Roche has brought up the inequities of this matter often. The prime minister appears to have put the Western Canadian MP on his list of enemies and once in the Commons told Roche to stop asking foolish questions.

Now, though, the confidential report in the government's hands shows that even Ottawa natives are getting concerned about the federal government turning Ottawa-Hull into a company town.

The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
PSALM 23.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BARRETT—In loving memory of our granddaughter, Bonnie Louise Barrett, who passed away October 15, 1960.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well;
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Sadly missed and loved always by Granny and Grandpa Heaslip.

BARRETT—In loving memory of our daughter, Bonnie Louise Barrett, who passed away October 15, 1960.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss her,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say.
God alone knows how we miss her
In a home that is lonesome today.
—Sadly missed and loved always by Mom, Dad and Sister Sharon.

NORBURY—In loving memory of a dear mother, Sarah Ann, who passed away October 14, 1970.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,

STAMP ISSUES IN '74 TO HIT MANY BASES

OTTAWA (CP) — The Olympics, Pacific Coast Indians, muticulturalism and a variety of centenaries will be subjects of forty-five new stamps to be issued in 1974, the post office has announced.

The stamp schedule will include two issues of Olympic values that depict outdoor activities, and are scheduled for spring and fall.

They will be issued in values of eight, 10 and 15 cents with surcharges of two cents on the eight-cent issues and five cents on the 10 and 15-cent values.

Centennials of the letter carrier service, the City of Winnipeg, the founding of Ontario Agricultural College, the invention of the telephone and the Universal Postal Union will be marked by special issues.

Other issues will mark the world cycling championships to be held in Montreal and August and multiculturalism. There also will be a special issue of four Christmas stamps.

P.Q.'s Proposed Budget Focal Point of Campaign

MONTREAL (CP) — The Parti Quebecois' proposed budget for an independent Quebec remains the main object of debate in campaigning for the Oct. 29 provincial election. Liberal Finance Minister Raymond Garneau and Jacques Parizeau, the Parti Quebecois economist and candidate in Montreal Cremazie, were the main combatants on the issue in weekend campaigning.

Meanwhile, Creditiste Leader Yvon Dupuis and Gabriel Loubier, Union Nationale leader, both attacked the press.

Mr. Parizeau said only a "violent inflation" caused by a government which cut taxes by 50 per cent while increasing spending by 50 per cent would cause devaluation of an independent Quebec currency. The prototype budget he released last week had included no measures so imprudent.

Mr. Parizeau, accompanied by Parti Quebecois Leader Rene Levesque at a meeting at Joliette, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, said Premier Robert Bourassa has not really criticized the budget.

"All he's been able to do is trot out the two old battle horses he defended in the 1970 election campaign, that is, devaluation of a Quebec currency and the flight of capital."

Mr. Garneau repeated his charge of last week that the Parti Quebecois budget blows up estimated revenues by $1 billion when it calculates 1075-76 government revenues at $11.675 billion.

In a statement, the finance minister charged that the budget would increase personal income taxes by $300 million and drive industry to Ontario and New Brunswick by increasing corporation taxes by $130 million.

In St. Joseph de Beauce, about 40 miles south of Quebec City, Mr. Loubier told about 220 persons that reporters covering the Oct. 29 election campaign have shown a "lack of intellectual honesty."

Mr. Dupuis stopped a television news cameraman's walk in Sherbrooke as the man swung his film camera from the Creditiste leader to a group of Parti Quebecois supporters who were booing him from the audience of about 800.

"Hold on," Mr. Dupuis said to the camerman. "Don't get nervous. We're not going to forget the magnificent crowd we have here this evening for about 50 Pequistes."

Mr. Loubier complained reporters were not truly describing what goes on in meeting, and are in particular underestimating the size of crowds.

Mr. Bourassa told a Chicoutimi news conference he has never promised that he would not alter controversial 1969 legislation giving all Quebecers the right to choose English or French schools for their children.

Nationalists say the law will eventually lead to French becoming a minority in Quebec, because almost all immigrants choose English.

The Parti Quebecois and Union Nationale would require immigrants to send their children to French schools, although the PQ would exempt those from Anglophone countries. The Creditistes say immigrants should send their children to French schools until they become Canadian citizens.

UNITED KNOCK TONIGHT

United Way canvassers this week will bring the total amount of money raised through the Greater Victoria Community Chest in its 36-year history over the $10 million mark.

The mark will be reached sometime during this week of door-to-door cavassing by about 1,000 volunteers.

This year's United Way goal is $680,000 and campaign organizers are optimistic about reaching it. But they point out, the key to the success of the campaign is the door-to-door canvass which begins tonight.

This year the work of 23 local health and welfare agencies is being supported by the Community Chest through its United Way campaign.

Every home in Greater Victoria will be visited by a volunteer canvasser during the campaign. But if anyone is missed or is away when the canvasser calls, contributions may be sent directly to the United Way office at 737 Fort Street.

Ed Chynoweth Cleans House

SASKATOON (CP) — Ed Chynoweth, president of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League, Sunday issued more suspensions and fines in attempts to eliminate what he terms "petty nonsense."

Dave Williams of Swift Current Broncos has been suspended for two games as a result of being the first player to leave the bench in Friday's game in Regina which was marred by a third-period brawl.

Swift Current coach Stan Dunn was fined $250 for "lack of control" over his players.

The subject of police protection in Regina's Exhibition Stadium, as well as other buildings in the league, will be studied at the board of governors' meeting today in Regina as a result of Friday's game.

Chynoweth said the league will consider taking further steps if adequate protection is not provided by the home club in future games.

Jerry Rollins of Flin Flon also received a two-game suspension as a result of leaving the penalty box in Saturday's game in Flin Flon which the Bombers won 5-0.

Cam Connors of Flin Flon has been suspended indefinitely for his actions in the same game. Connors received his suspension for "unsportsmanship manner and continuous abuse" after receiving two minor penalties, a major, misconduct and a game misconduct.

"If the players and coaches in our league thought the suspensions and fines levied during the exhibition series were just for show, they will find out we mean business," said Chynoweth.

"The continuous petty actions by some of our players and coaches has got to stop."

Swimmers' Suspensions Removed

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States has lifted its suspension against a group of American swimmers and divers who gave swimming demonstrations in China last summer.

The swimmers, including Olympic champion Maxine King, were suspended from future amateur competition over the protests of the U.S. state department. The suspensions were, the AAU said at the time, in compliance with a rule governing international swimming events.

The rule says swimmers of the Federation Internationale de Natacione de Amateur may not participate in swimming events with athletes from non-member countries.

VICTORIA CHOSEN BY SINGERS

Special to The Times

EDMONTON — Victoria has been chosen as the site of the 1975 spring preliminary competition among the top barber shop quartets in the Evergreen district.

The district Saturday accepted a bid from the Village Squires, the Victoria chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The Evergreen district includes Alberta, British Columbia, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Dates of the competition are March 21 and 22, a month earlier than normal. Approval of the date change by the Society's international executive is expected to be only a formality.

The top three quartets in the Victoria competition will advance to the international finals in the summer of 1975 in Washington, D.C.

The Village Squires, meanwhile, finished eighth out of 11 leading barbershop harmony choruses competing here Saturday for the Evergreen title. The winners were the Lake Washington Skippers from Seattle, who also produced the top quartet in the weekend competition, New Found Sound.

The Lake Washington chorus advances to the 1974 international finals next July in Kansas City.

BURNING SUCCESS

The View Royal volunteer fire brigade marked its 25th anniversary in style Sunday with smoke and flames.

While a crowd of several hundred looked on, firemen showed their skills, quickly smothering a small oil pan fire on property alongside the firehall.

A few smoke bombs and dummies added to the realism at the open house demonstration.

The 30-man force is headed by Chief Frank Bell.

Top Coaches Join Viking Hoop Clinic

University of Victoria Vikings' second annual basketball reunion, clinic and intersquad game takes place Nov. 2 and 3.

The reunion, open to all former players from Victoria Normal School, Victoria College and UVic, is scheduled for the Faculty Lounge at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 2, a Friday.

It will follow an inter-squad game at UVic Gym starting at 7.

Jack Donohue, Canada's national coach, will be the guest speaker at the reunion, will coach the Blue team in the inter-squad game and will conduct clinic sessions Saturday on man-to-man defence and building an offence.

Saturday's clinic begins at 9 a.m. at UVic Gym. John Olsen, B.C. coach who will guide the White squad in Friday night's game, will discuss shooting skills while Viking coach Gary Taylor will deal with the fast break and Oak Bay High coach Don Horwood will discuss coaching philosophy.

Clinic registration is $10 and includes admission to the reunion and intersquad game and a Viking season's pass.

FINN SETS TWO MARKS

JYVASKYLA, Finland (Reuter) — Finnish runner Seppo Nikkari set world records for 15 miles and 25 kilometres Sunday.

Nikkari, 25, clocked one hour 12 minutes 22.6 seconds at the 15-mile mark — beating the previous record of 1:12:48.2 set by Britain's Ron Hill eight years ago — and went on to clock 1:14:55.6 for 25 kilometres, eclipsing the previous record of 1:15:22.6, also set by Hill in 1965.

Hookway Appointed

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League announced the appointment Saturday of Tom Hookway of Victoria to their scouting staff. Hookway is a former New York Ranger scout.

Evans Takes Point Title

TRENTON (AP) — Richie Evans of Rome, N.Y., won the first 300-mile Race of Champions on the Trenton Speedway Sunday, taking the lead 15 miles from the finish when defending champion Geoff Bodine of Chemung, N.Y., ran out of gas.

In addition to the $11,250 top prize, Evans picked up the NASCAR modified stock car seasonal point championship.

French Horse Earns $120,000

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Accacio D'Aguilar, a French four-year-old, won the $210,000 Grand Prize of Europe — West Germany's richest horse race — Sunday at Weidenpescher Park.

Accacio D'Aguilar received $120,000 for the victory over 13 rivals in the 1½-mile event. Another French horse, Ben Trovato, finished second and earned about $43,000.

Lily-of-the-Valley Needs Compost Often

Lily-of-the-Valley is a lovely flower, a favorite of gardeners for its penetrating fragrance best enjoyed outdoors.

The plant is botanically Convallaria majalis meaning literally the May flowering valley plant. It is not of the true lilies. Native to cool mountainous valleys of Germany and even to some regions of England, present day varieties are improvements on the wild types.

Flowering time here on the coast is from May 15 until early June, while the smooth pleasant leaves make a fine groundcover until the end of October.

It is at this time when they take on a bright yellow tint almost overnight that you remember that your Valley plants did not bloom so well last May as in previous years.

With plants that have become thickly matted with several years growth, this is quite normal and a sign that lifting for division and replanting is necessary.

Also, Lily of the Valley likes to be given a constantly renewed supply of leafy compost as it would get in its native valleys from shrubs and trees overhead.

Its native home also provides the clues for successful growing in our more or less sea-level gardening zone — rich soil, shade from hot sun, and cool moisture at the roots from time of flowering to leaf ripening. This coincides with the period of melting snows from higher levels seeping downwards in underground streams and then the moisture being drawn upwards to the roots by companion trees and the warm summer temperatures.

To get back to the lifting of the roots for division. Lily of the Valley roots look more like those of couch grass than anything else. There are white runners with sharply pointed growth tips, rather bluish than white. Two or three sections of root (these are really rhizomes) are joined together, each section with a point.

The true roots are fibrous and short, feeding in the top two or three inches of soil. The rhizomes run horizontally beneath the surface.

Noting these things gives us the method of replanting the pieces when remaking the bed. The job can be done any time from now to about the end of November, but unless you have a sandy sloping site don't leave it later or fall rooting will not take place. This leaves the possibility of the rhizomes rotting in winter-wet soil.

Don't expect full flowering next May. To be fairly sure of a few flowers, leave part of the present bed intact.

Lift the rhizomes of the section to be remade. Set into wooden boxes outdoors under a shrub while you fork the bed, add old manure, compost and leafmould. Then let it settle a few days while you select the rhizomes with the largest growth points (known as pips). You need a strong will to discard the poorer pieces but this you must do unless you have another shaded garden area which would benefit from a groundcovering of 'Valley.

With the soil settled by rain or by watering, you take the selected rhizomes and lay them on the surface. Ideally, each piece should have three inches of space to the next piece.

Cover with an inch and a half of sifted humus mixture the same as you used for the bed. Rain will wash away a little.

Cut off the yellow leaves. Next year you remake the untouched section and again enjoy three to four years of unparalleled perfume from your bed of Lily of the Valley.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

The Bridge Expert

At all echelons of play, including even the very highest, one of the most difficult things to determine is whether to make a safe, passive lead against some given contract, or whether to make a dangerous, aggressive lead. At times, the passive lead will be the winning one; and, at times, it will be the losing one.

In today's deal, which came up in a National Team-of-Four Championship, we have a classic example of the issue of a safe versus a dangerous lead.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

♠ 10 3
♡ A K J 10 3 2
◇ 3 2
♣ 10 9 4

WEST
♠ K J 7 5
♡ Q 9 7 4
◇ 10 9 8
♣ J 3

EAST
♠ A 6 4 2
♡ 8
◇ Q 6 5 4

SOUTH
♠ Q 9 8
♡ 6 5
◇ A K J 7
♣ A K Q 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

North's bid of four notrump was not the initiation of the Blackwood Convention. It was, rather, a raise of South's two notrump rebid, and asked South to bid a slam if the latter had a maximum jump to two notrump (20 or 21 points). South, having only 19 points, declined the invitation.

West, trying to beat the contract, made the aggressive opening lead away from his king of spades. East won the trick with his ace, and returned a spade. At the completion of trick four, South had suffered a one-trick set.

When the deal was replayed, the bidding sequence was the same, except that South went on to bid six notrump.

South's justification for accepting North's slam invitation was that South felt that his team was behind in the match; and that a gamble had to be taken if victory were to be attained.

West, on lead, of course didn't know that South was gambling. He assumed that South was bidding on solid values. And if such were the case, then the aggressive lead of a low spade, away from the king, might give South a present of a trick (if, for example, South had possessed the A-Q of spades). So, against the slam West elected to make the "safe" lead of the diamond ten.

With East playing low, South's jack won the trick. A heart was then led, and the board's jack finessed successfully. Now came a club to South's king, after which the ace of clubs was cashed, felling West's jack. Dummy's ten of hearts was finessed next, and South was home with an overtrick: six heart tricks, three diamonds, and four clubs.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"A complete deck. No jokers," said Mike, putting the cards down on the table. "Take as many as you like, but leave me some."

Ted did just that. "What next?" he asked. "If you draw a card from what I have the odds against it being black would be exactly 3 to 1."

Mike handed him four blacks from the cards left on the table. "I'll tell you the game in a moment," he replied. "But if you drew a card from what's on the table now the odds would be just 3 to 1 against it being red."

How many cards did Ted take?

SEWAGE SECRET TAPPED

TORONTO (CP) — The discovery by a Toronto engineer of a method of treating human wastes has been described by a Science Council of Canada member as "an invention more important to humanity than space research of modern medical discoveries."

Johanns Sollinger, 44, spent seven years perfecting his system, which treats sewage in such a way that the end products can light cities and perhaps feed the world's starving populations.

The system produces methane gas and a residue that can be used as fertilizer.

A dozen American states and scores of cities across the continent have offered millions of dollars to obtain the system, but Sollinger said "Toronto comes first."

Prof. Fred Knelman of Sir George Williams University in Montreal, a science council member, said the significance of the discovery "cannot be over-emphasized."

Sollinger has kept his invention process a secret. All he will say is that he has, he believes for the first time, found a way to heat sewage to 2,000 degrees fahrenheit without the released methane gas exploding and destroying the entire process.

HUNTING NOT ANGER

KELOWNA (CP) — The chairman of the British Columbia Fruit Board say that rumors of farmers carrying guns is "utter nonsense."

Chairman Nigel Taylor said farmers always carry rifles in their vehicles during hunting season, not because they are frustrated at the board as Don Phillips (SC—South Peace River) suggested in the legislature.

Phillips said the growers are frustrated by the actions of the board in preventing them from selling their products to markets they know are available in B.C.'s lower mainland.

'DO AS I SAY, NOT...'

SEATTLE (AP) — The president of a local "support your police" organization has been charged with attempting to bribe two vice-squad officers to overlook Chinatown gambling.

Donald Gok Louie, 37, president of the Seattle chapter of the International Footprint Association, was one of two men charged in the case.

Owen and Queen Chat in Richmond

VANCOUVER (CP) — Queen Elizabeth chatted with Lt.-Gov. Walter Owen of British Columbia and gazed out a window of her Boeing 707 during a refuelling stop at Vancouver International Airport this morning.

The Queen remained on the plane, which landed in suburban Richmond at 1.09 a.m. and departed at 2:24 a.m. for Honolulu.

About 20 royal attendants went to the airport's VIP lounge while their section of the plane was cleaned. Maintenance crews did not enter the section of the plane occupied by Queen Elizabeth.

The plane refuels again at Honolulu before landing at Fiji, where the royal party will spend Tuesday night.

The Queen is due to arrive in Canberra Wednesday and will be greeted there by Prince Philip, who has been carrying out royal engagements in Bulgaria and New Zealand.

The Queen will formally open a new opera house at Sydney, Australia, next Saturday. She will return to Britain by way of Iran and is due to meet with the shah at Tehran airport Oct. 23.

Prince Philip will remain in Australia for some days after the Queen's departure. He is scheduled to visit all the Australian states in connection with an award scheme for young people. The prince will return to London Nov. 8.

PRAY NOW, PAY LATER

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A Roman Catholic church here has started accepting credit cards in lieu of cash donations.

The Coronation of the Blessed Virgin Mary Church launched the plan Sunday as a means of boosting income.

Paul Totaro, a member of the church's finance committee, said credit cards aid parishioners in budgeting fixed amounts for church contributions.

"A church can't survive on 50-cent donations and that's often all that's left in people's pockets on a Sunday after a week of paying bills," he said.

With credit cards, many church members have begun making gifts of $15 to $30, Totaro said.

Barnett, 64, was first elected to the Commons in 1953, and in the last election defeated his nearest competitor by about 8,000 votes.

He said he expects to serve the riding until the current parliament is dissolved.

PRUNE-MEN SEEM REAL: EXPERTS

UFO mania struck Sunday night in west central Ohio where 80 sightings were reported and two cows were said to be victims of a blinking oblong that landed in a field.

Reports came on the heels of a dramatic account by two Mississippi shipyard workers who said they were dragooned aboard a spacecraft Thursday and released shaken but unharmed.

Two scientists reported Saturday, after hypnotic examination of the men, they were telling the truth.

In a third development, thousands of South Carolina residents who reported seeing a UFO Saturday learned Sunday it was an experimental balloon.

Dr. James Harder, professor at the University of California, and Dr. Allen Hynek, chairman of the department of astronomy at Northwestern University in Chicago, subjected two Guatier, Miss., men to four hours of hynosis Saturday.

"These are not imbalanced people," said Dr. Hynek. "They're not crackpots. There was definitely something here that was not terrestial."

Charles Hickson, 45, and Calvin Parker, 19, said they were taken aboord the UFO by reddish-colored men for observation.

Hynek and Harder said they were convinced Hickson and Parker "did see strange wrinkled creatures with pointed ears, slits for eyes, a sharp nose and a hole below the nose."

A woman "hysterically" told police an oblong object with blinking lights killed the cows.

However, the sheriff's office said a three-hour search in the area where the UFO supposedly landed uncovered nothing.

Along Interstate 75 in a three-county area, UFOs were described as "greyish discs with red and bluish-green lights." Others were described as "orange-colored objects" and "blimp-shaped objects." Some had "red lights around the rims with a blue flame or flare coming out the bottom."

'Bargain To Die'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Despite the high cost of living, it's still a bargain to die.

Raoul Pinette, president of the National Funeral Directors, said Sunday the over-all cost of living rose 41.3 per cent in the past 10 years, while the "cost of dying" increased only 32.1 per cent.

"Funeral costs did go up," he continued, "but we are proud of the fact that (comparatively) we were able to hold funeral costs down."

Gold 'Essential'—Expert

MONTREAL (UPI) — "Illiterate and devious politicians" waging a "continuous conspiracy" to downgrade gold are responsible for the present condition of the U.S. dollar, gold expert Ira Cobleigh told the fifth international monetary seminar Sunday.

"The clear message of history is that gold is essential to sound money and to the survival of nations," he said. "No other commodity has been so widely and so willingly accepted . . .

"So where are we now? In a limbo in which no nation has a convertible currency . . .

"Everything that has happened to the U.S. dollar since 1933 has been the result of a deliberate, iniquitous and continuous conspiracy to downgrade gold, and ultimately demonetize it, and to pave the way for monetarily illiterate and devious politicians to perpetuate the errors of Keynes, through progressive inflation, escalating debts and printings of paper dollars without limits," he said.

In contrast, he cited "the cumulative financial wisdom of intelligent men for 2,600 years" that set gold as the ideal monetary metal.

Flowery Parade

The color and fun of curling shouldn't be confined to the rink, some of the girls in the Victoria rinks decided recently.

So they decided to brighten up the landscape behind the Memorial Arena.

And what better way — when they're helped by Victoria's climate — than to have flowers covering what is now a rather bleak, rocky mound.

Saturday, a number of the women involved in the Canadian Ladies' Curling Championships held a crocus planting ceremony on the mound, and — as with all curling ceremonies — started things off with a little celebration consisting of a stirrup cup all round and a piping-in ceremony.

When the games start at the arena in Febrary, the crocuses should be blooming on all sides of the mound.

U.S. Begins Arms Lift To Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. has begun an airlift of military supplies to Israel to prevent a "massive airlift" by the Soviet Union from unsettling the military balance in the area.

The state department's chief spokesman on the Mideast crisis, Ambassador Robert J. McCloskey, said the U.S. learned a Soviet airlift resupplying Egypt and Syria had increased from the standpoint of both numbers of flights and tonnage delivered to replace Arab losses in the war so far.

McCloskey said some of the replacement military hardware for Israel had arrived in the Mideast. That indicated the U.S. airlift began soon after the administration became convinced that the Russians were not only continuing but greatly increasing their airlift to the Arabs.

Officials said privately the U.S. airlift began about 30 hours before the announcement came today.

In the fighting, Israel has succeeded in holding the Sinai against another Egyptian human-wave assault in what appears to be the decisive battle of the war now 10 days old.

But almost the entire Egyptian army has made it across the Suez Canal, where Israel is expected to give the next priority.

Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan reported to the nation that Syria had been pushed back far enough into its own territory behind the 1967 cease-fire line so Israel could give the highest priority to the Suez front. He said the war would be "long in days and heavy in bloodshed."

On the Syrian front, Israel said it had broken through the central sector of the 60-mile-long Golan Heights line, smashing Iraqi armored forces, destroying dozens of tanks and sending remnants of the Iraqi army fleeing in retreat. It was the second disastrous defeat of the war for Iraq.

Farther to the northeast, Israeli patrols struck within nine miles of Damascus, reaching the village of Vissya, and armored columns were

ARAB OIL NOT VITAL FOR U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government released figures today showing the nation could get along without Arab oil, at least for the time being, in the event of a cutoff because of the Arab-Israeli war.

The figures showed the U.S. imports about 1.1 million barrels a day of oil direct from Arab countries, about 6 per cent of the total daily average U.S. consumption of 17 million barrels.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who supplies the bulk of Middle East oil imported by the U.S., holds the key to an Arab embargo on petroleum shipments to nations supporting Israel in the war. But Beirut sources said it would be too costly for his country to stop the flow.

Saudi Arabia and 10 other Arab oil nations meet Wednesday in Kuwait "to discuss the role of oil in the Arab-Israeli war," the government of the Persian Gulf state said.

William Simon, chairman of the president's oil policy committee, said the U.S. could reduce consumption by up to three million barrels a day through all-out conservation.

B.C. Rail Down Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Railway spokesman said today the government-owned line is shut down as its four shopcraft unions walked off the job after contract negotiations broke down.

About 400 employees, working out of Squamish are involved in the strike. The four unions are the machinists, electricians, plumbers and pipefitters, and carmen.

Negotiations between the company and the shopcraft unions broke down late Sunday.

A negotiating committee spokesman said wages and expiration date were the main issues. He said the length of contract management wanted would make it impossible to keep abreast of the cost of living.

The railway was closed by a strike in mid-September during negotiations with 12 unions.

On Saturday, a spokesman for the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees said an agreement had been reached between his union and B.C. Railway.

The base rate for shopcraft journeymen is $4.05 an hour with a 30-cent hourly trade differential. The railway's offer would raise the rate to $6.01 an hour over 31 months.

GUNMEN BEAT BOY

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen beat up a 17-year-old youth early today, tied him to a school fence and hung a sign reading "police informer" around his neck.

Police said the youth, who was not identified, was put in hospital.

In another incident, soldiers disarmed a 35-pound bomb found outside a beauty shop in east Belfast. Another bomb exploded on the steps of city hall in the County Down town of Crossgare, causing minor damage.

Three gunmen ambushed an eight-man army patrol in Londonderry late Sunday night, wounding one soldier.

Thai Street Riots Flare

BANGKOK (UPI) — Anti-military students burned the police headquarters and took over public buildings, including hospitals, here today following the end of a decade of militaty rule Sunday.

The former military premier, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, resigned his post as supreme commander of the Thai armed forces today and left the country. He resigned as prime minister Sunday. The deputy supreme commander, Field Marshal Prapass Charusathira, also resigned and left Thailand, the radio said.

On Sunday, Thanom was replaced as premier by a civilian, Sanya Thammasak.

The radio said a 10 p.m. curfew had been moved up to 8 p.m. Military officials said the situation had become "gradually more tense due to audacious acts of rebellion" and threatened to take "decisive measure" against curfew violators.

The radio broadcast a personal appeal from Sanya asking citizens to stay at home. Sanya's appeal said: "The students and his majesty's government have come to an understanding." This was broadcast following a meeting between Sanya and representatives of the national students centre of Thailand."

The new violence was a spillover from "bloody Sunday", fighting between rioters and government forces that left as many as 400 persons dead by some estimates. King Bhumipio Adulyadej told the nation "hundreds of Thai people have been killed."

At police headquarters a few blocks from the Rajdamnern area that was a major scene of Sunday's violence, a crowd estimated at about 10,000 persons — mostly students — pelted the four-storey building with stones and homemade Molotov cocktails.

Shouting "we have gotten rid of the oppressors," they set fire to the building and vehicles parked outside, forcing their way through the gates by using a commandeered bus as a battering ram. The fire burned unchecked and spread to nearby buildings.

Geothermal Hope Called Forlorn

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

A statement last week by Resources Minister Robert Williams that geothermal power might soon be available for Vancouver Island seems like a forlorn hope.

Williams, commenting on a statement by B.C. Hydro chairman David Cass-Beggs that natural gas would be the main heating fuel on Vancouver Island within 10 years, said it was only one source of energy being considered.

Among the alternatives, he said, was geothermal power, tapping the earth's heat.

However, geologists indicate that Vancouver Island is not a good place to look.

There is a break in the earth's crust on the west coast of Vancouver Island, similar to the San Andreas Fault, that may be commercially useful — or maybe not.

"It may be promising but we just don't know. We are more optimistic about geothermal sources on the mainland, a geologist said.

"We hope to see geothermal power on the mainland in 10 to 15 years but it likely will be later than that on the Island."

The promising signs are hot springs and volcanic activity.

There is no volcanic activity on Vancouver Island and few hot springs.

On the mainland, however, gologists have been studying hot springs for about two years and are optimistic that commercial sources of steam will be located.

On the Island it could be many years before commercial quantities of steam are located along the lengthy west coast fault line.

Although geologists consider geothermal power to be more than a decade away in B.C., it is not a new idea.

Italy had a geothermal power plant in 1904 and has expanded its capacity to be the largest such electricity source at 600 megawatts.

However, California has developed hot springs north of San Francisco with a geothermal power plant in the 300 to 400 megawatt range. California plans to expand this into the world's largest in the near future.

At the same time, oil companies drilling in the western United States are also looking for underground steam.

They are optimistic about uncovering large amounts of underground steam in Phoenix and Nevada and lesser amounts in Oregon and Idaho.

New Flu Strain Poised

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new influenza virus against which most persons have no natural immunity could cause a flu outbreak in North America this winter reminiscent of the Hong Kong flu epidemic of 1968-69.

Dr. Robert Rubin, an epidemiologist at the National Centre for Disease Control said the new flue virus, known as the B-Hong Kong-5-72 strain, has made widespread attacks in Japan.

The strain, or ones similar to it, also have been identified in Australia, England and Germany.

The new strain was first isolated from a patient in Hong Kong last year, like the old A-2 Hong Kong virus that struck the country five years ago. It also is similar to the earlier strain in that it represents an antigenic shift which makes the general population susceptible to it.

Unlike 1968 when a protective vaccine did not become available until late in the flue season, pharmaceutical houses do have a vaccine ready to combat the new Hong Kong flu. Rubin said six pharmaceutical houses are manufacturing the protective vaccine and the suppy appears sufficient.

"We have not received any reports of widespread shortages," he said.

In past years, only a single shot of bivalent vaccine was necessary to protect people against the current strains of A and B influenza. This flu season, however, two injections will be necessary with one of the shots containing specific antibodies to combat the new virus.

Winds feed tenement blaze

2,000 FLEE BOSTON FIRE

CHELSEA, Mass. (UPI) — Fire fed by winds gusting to more than 40 mph swept "like a tornado" through a depressed area of scrapyards and tenements Sunday, destroying nearly a quarter of this Boston-area city and forcing more than 2,000 persons to evacuate their homes.

There were no deaths or serious injuries.

Mayor Philip Spelman and Sen. Edward Kennedy, (D Mass.) urged the government to declare the densely-populated city of more than 30,000 a federal disaster area.

Some 500 national guardsmen were ordered into city streets today to help police guard against possible looting.

Spelman said many lives had been saved because the fire started at 4 p.m., in daylight.

"If this had started at 3 or 4 in the morning, God only knows what would have happened," he said.

"It swept through the city like a tornado . . . the winds were high — very high," the mayor said. The city "would have been in real trouble" if it had not been for railroad tracks dividing it which created a natural fire line, he said.

He estimated damage "in the millions," and said 400 to 600 persons would be thrown out of work and up to 1,000 persons lost their homes.

The fire is believed to have begun in an abandoned building and spread through a rundown industrial area containing many abandoned buildings, some scheduled for urban renewal, and warehouses containing scrap material, paper, rubber and metal. The area is predominantly White and Puerto Rican with a lingering Jewish population.

NEWS BRIEFS

Dollar Higher Despite Warning

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar opened marginally higher against most European currencies today despite warnings about possible adverse effects the Middle East war may have on U.S. currency, dealers said.

"It is still too early in the week to see which way the market will go," one London trader said. "But there is some feeling in banking quarters that the U.S. may get further involved in the Middle East war and weaken the dollar."

28 Die in Crash

MOSCOW (Reuter) — A Soviet airliner on an internal flight crashed at an airport here Saturday, killing 28 people, officials were reported as saying today.

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Smallwood said today he would consider a draft to return to politics, but only to go back as the premier of Newfoundland for a two-year period.

Turkey Votes

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — The Justice Party of former premier Suleyman Demirel regained some lost ground today in early returns from Turkey's first parliamentary elections in two years, but was still locked in a tight race with the left-of-centre Republican Peoples Party.

Cod War Accord

LONDON (AP) — Premier Olafur Johannesson of Iceland and Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain agreed today to work toward an interim agreement in the 14-month fishing dispute between their two countries, a British spokesman said.

Hydro Strike Fades

VANCOUVER (CP) — A tentative contract settlement was reached Saturday between B.C. Hydro and Local 258 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

A spokesman said it would delay if not eliminate the possibility of a strike against the government-owned utility.

PEKING (CP) — CP Air and the Civic Aviation Aministration of China today signed a commercial agreement for CP Air to operate air service to China.

Tories Confident As House Opens

OTTAWA (CP) — The faces behind the Conservative benches in the Commons are beaming with new-found confidence as Parliament returns from an abbreviated summer recess.

The House spent much of September discussing inflation, particularly rising food prices, and the Conservatives are pointing to a recent poll as evidence that the people support their call for economic restraints.

The poll they quote shows the Conservatives and Liberals tied for support, indicating substantial Conservative popularity gains.

This is expected to spur Conservative demands for a 90-degree freeze on wages and prices. There was a good chance that today's sitting would see the inflation debate picked up where it left off just before the House recessed Sept. 21.

There were indications the government would begin the resumed session by seeking second reading approval of its new family allowance program. Debate on this would be an ideal springboard for opposition attacks on government anti-inflation efforts.

The government wants the allowance bill approved soon because it has scheduled the new payments to start Jan. 1. Average monthly allowance per child would be $20 compared with the present flat rate of $12 a month, raised last month from an average $7.21.

The summer recess originally started July 27, four weeks later than normal, and was interrupted when Parliament was called Aug. 30 to settle the national rail strike.

In July, party leaders agreed that the capital punishment issue would receive top priority when the House opened today. But that debate, on final reading of the new bill to renew the five-year ban on hanging except for killers of on-duty policemen and prison guards, likely will not begin before Wednesday.

That would leave the opposition only today and Tuesday to get some licks in at the government over its handling of the economy.

The capital punishment debate is expected to take about 1½ weeks during which no other business, except the daily question period and routine proceedings, will be presented.

The family allowance plan and capital punishment bills are two of 16 bills still before the House. Some are considered important by all parties, especially the bill to control election spending and the proposed privacy legislation to ban electronic eavesdropping.

Also ahead lies the proposed Foreign Investment Review Act to screen foreign investment, a bill to increase the supply of residential mortgage funds and amendments to the Canada Pension Plan.

Teaching Deal Made By PM

By JOHN BURNS
Special to The Times

PEKING — Commitments by China to teach Canadian doctors the technique of acupuncture analgesia and to facilitate the reunion of divided Chinese-Canadian families are included in the agreements reached by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Premier Chou En-lai, who concluded nearly 11 hours of formal talks here at the weekend.

At the suggestion of the Canadian side, there was no official communique after the talks.

Instead, Trudeau issued a statement describing the talks as "extremely warm and indicative of a high order of mutual respect and regard," and outlining a series of agreements in the areas of medicine, consular affairs, trade, science and technology, education, culture and sport.

The highlights:

Medicine: Canada will send a nine-member team to China next April for a month's study of acupuncture analgesia, the technique of killing pain by agitating needles inserted at prescribed points on the body. China has claimed remarkable success with the technique, citing it as a means of relieving and even curing afflictions ranging from arthritis to epilepsy.

Consular affairs: Since 1949, when the Communists clamped down on emigration from China, Chinese-Canadians have faced the anguish of enforced separation from relatives left behind.

In recent years, the Peking government has issued a few hundred exit visas, but Canadian officials hope to see the flow substantially increased as a result of an agreement for the two countries to exchange consulates.

Next year, China will send delegates specializing in laser research, open cast coal mining, seismology, fisheries and forestry to Canada. Canada will reciprocate by sending delegates to China in the fields of coal mining by hydraulics, fisheries, forestry and pest control.

Trade: A trade agreement was signed to serve as a general framework for commerce over the next three years. A joint trade committee will meet annually, and both sides have committed themselves to promoting the interchange of traders, a pledge that the Canadians hope will lead to better access for Canadian businessmen to Chinese buyers.

Meanwhile, China opens the door to its strategic southwest to Trudeau as he flies today from this ancient city in central China to Kweiling in Kwangsi province bordering North Vietnam.

The Chinese gesture is considered as symbolic of China's friendship towards Canada as the border province is seldom open to visits by foreigners.

CHEAPER MILK BUT . . .

Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich today confirmed the provincial government will adopt a milk subsidy program Nov. 1 which will roll back milk prices in the province by four cents a quart.

Stupich said that while he welcomes the assistance being granted to consumers, it must be understood that additional increases at the retail level may occur if the present costs of production for dairy products continue to increase.

"The public should also be warned that milk production is failing to meet requirements and supplies are seriously deficient," he said.

Liberals Oppose Ford

WASHINTON (UPI) — The first organized opposition to Gerald Ford's nomination as vice-president surfaced today. At the same time, Congress began a two-stage confirmation process which could take a month to complete.

The liberal group, Americans for Democratic Action, said its national board voted unanimously at a meeting here Sunday "to oppose confirmation of Congressman Gerald Ford as vice-president."

So far, the only question raised publicly about Ford's campaign finances concerns an $11,500 contribution to his 1970 campaign which he allegedly did not report to the clerk of the House.

Ford told reporters Saturday the incident could be "adequately explained."

He said the money exceeded the amount his personal campaign committee was allowed to receive, and that he signed it over to Republican national headquarters for use in behalf of other candidates.

He invited committees considering his confirmation to look "fully" into the incident.

Ammo Air-Drop Shot Up

Times News Services

PHNOM PENH — A Cambodian transport plane air dropping ammunition to government troops near Phnom Penh was hit by rebel ground fire today and crashed at the capital's Pochentong airport.

A farmer who witnessed the crash said he saw five men, their clothing and hair on fire, run from the burning plane just before it was wracked by a series of explosions.

However, a western diplomatic source said he was told by the pilot and crew there were no injuries.

Meanwhile South Vietnamese and Viet Cong spokesmen agreed today that the Communists captured the government's White Horse Mountain militia outpost Friday but disagreed on the reasons.

The outpost, midway between Hue and Da Nang, is about 385 miles north of Saigon.

The Viet Cong said that in seizing the outpost they were simply recovering what belonged to them in the first place.

Chills Around the Corner Gave a Little Extra Zest To a Balmy Sunday

Call it Indian summer, a lucky weather break or just a sunny Sunday.

After the deluge which launched the weekend, it all ended on a brilliant note and Victorians piled outdoors to enjoy it, perhaps to bid a fond farewell to the sun before the rains arrive in earnest.

Bob Bennett spent his time landing red snappers from the dock at Ogden Point.

Elsewhere, fishermen added canoeing to their outing as they paddled across a calm Ross Bay.

Along the seawall promenade of the same bay, photographer John McKay came upon a relaxed stroller and his Scottie, walking where southeasters will soon be pushing big storm waves.

And on the breakwater at Ogden Point there was plenty of people traffic because it's always a place to bring sea and sun together.

Few Enter Race For Civic Vote

Nominations for the Nov. 17 municipal elections close two weeks from today, and unless there's a last-minute spurt from all directions the line-up of candidates in the capital region municipalities will be one of the thinnest in years.

Mayoralty terms in six of the seven municipalities expire this year, and to date only three of those — Oak Bay, Sidney and North Saanich — have thrown up challengers to the incumbents.

Although they have until noon on Oct. 29 to file their nomination papers, indications are that new contestants for aldermanic seats in most cases will be significant by their absence.

For the first time this year, directors on the Capital Region Board will be elected directly from municipalities — in what Municipal Affairs Minister James Lorimer has termed an experiment to try try to make voters better act> make voters better acrepresentatives.

In Victoria, Mayor Peter Pollen looks set for re-election by acclamation, despite earlier hints by Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis that he might consider running for the city's mayoralty.

No other candidate has appeared as even a faint possibility to bid for Pollen's seat, although Pollen himself has repeatedly invited such opposition in recent weeks.

Of the four aldermanic incumbents, three have said they will offer themselves for re-election and the fourth, Ald. Mike Young, said today he is still undecided and will not commit himself until later this week.

Young, who handles a major portfolio as zoning committee chairman, said he had intended to run again but the pressure on his time caused by the busy schedule of City Hall meetings over the past six weeks has made him reconsider his position.

Running again are Ald. Clyde Savage, Ald. Bill Tindall and Ald. Malcolm Anderson. Anderson will be seeking his first full two-year term, having been successful in a byelection last March.

Only two "outsiders," both women, have announced their election aspirations in Victoria.

First to enter the race was Kay Lines, a founder and leading figure in the James Bay Community Association. She has been joined by Margaret Richards, a member of the Advisory Planning Commission, who is making her fourth bid for a aldermanic seat.

A mayoralty race may be shaping up in Saanich.

Veteran alderman Frank Waring has resigned his second year of office to run for the mayoralty seat.

Today, former alderman Ed Lum said he will announce Tuesday whether he will run for office. His decision, he said depends on whether he can find somebody to manage his business.

Of the incumbent aldermen in Saanich, whose two-year terms are up in December, only Ald. Edith Gunning has said she will not be running. The others, William Campbell, William Noel and Fred Severson, have not declared their intentions.

In Oak Bay, Mayor Frances Elford, seeking her third term, will be challenged by Ald. Brian Smith.

Smith, a Victoria lawyer, has served two terms as alderman.

Aldermen Norman Pimlott and Douglas McLelland, whose terms end this year, both intend to run again.

Retired engineer Harry Graham, of 633 Radcliffe Lane, said he will decide within the next two or three days if he will seek a seat on Oak Bay council. He was beaten by 919 votes last year.

In Esquimalt, Mayor Art Young has formally declared his candidacy for mayor.

Young, 49, has served two terms as mayor and one as alderman, and won the 1971 mayoralty election by acclamation.

Ald. George McCreadie, 35, was elected last March in a by-election to fill the seat of the late Art Cuthbert, and says he will run again this year, barring unforeseen circumstances.

Ald. Art Mebs, 54, an eight-year veteran of the council, is running again, but Ald. Ken Hill has not decided.

In Sidney, Ald. Fred Robinson has resigned midway through his second term to seek Mayor Stan Dear's seat. Dear is running a third time.

A one-year vacancy has been left by Robinson and a two-year vacancy has been left by former Ald. John Hamilton, who resigned last August.

Aldermen Chris Anderson and Peter Malcolm have indicated they both intend to seek re-election.

North Saanich Mayor Trevor Davis said he has not decided if he will seek another term.

Ald. Douglas Boon is running for Davis' position.

Aldermen Harry Taylor, Nel Horth and Paul Grieve will run again.

Three Central Saanich aldermen, whose terms end this year, will run again — Jean Butler, Percy Lazarz, and Ray Lamont.

Mayor Archie Galbraith has one year to complete his term.

The seven Capital Regional District directorships from outside the municipalities are up for election but so far nomination papers have been filed by only one person — newcomer George Hoinekey of Vesuvius Bay on Salt Spring Island.

In Sooke, businessman Evan Haldane, 6762 Grant, announced his candidacy last month.

Hospital Merger Backed

A two-day seminar to examine the case for merging hospital administrations in Victoria opened today and about 100 delegates heard a Hamilton doctor on videotape strongly support such a reorganization.

Dr. Jack Twelves, chief of general practice at two Hamilton general hospitals, was unable to attend the seminar so recorded his views on videotape.

He and his colleagues were scheduled to be on one end of a long-distance conference call so those attending the meeting at the Eric Martin Institute auditorium could question him.

District doctors, hospital administrators, provincial government officials and members of the regional hospital board have gathered to consider the pros and cons of molding administration of Royal Jubilee and Victoria General and perhaps other region hospitals.

Each hospital in the Capital district now has its own board of directors and medical staff although most doctors on the active staff of one hospital also have privileges at the other.

The advisory committee of the regional hospital board, studying ways of increasing efficiency, proposed the seminar so those involved locally could hear of the experiences with merging elsewhere.

In Hamilton, the two general hospitals with which Dr. Twelves is concerned, have merged administration and the Hamilton district has implemented a plan to develop its hospitals with differing and complementary roles.

In outlining the purpose of the seminar, Robert Wallace, chairman of the advisory committee, says in the program:

"One of the major problems faced by the (regional hospital) board is to avoid and eliminate unnecessary duplication in our hospital facilities so that the community can obtain the most for its health dollar."

Mergers are worth considering if they offer a possible solution, he says.

Also scheduled to speak today are Dr. Richard Foulkes, the provincial government's consultant on health care delivery; Dr. E. C. Shortliffe, a consultant in health services who was involved in the merger of three hospitals in Delaware and Fred Lamb, executive director of the Metro-Calgary and Rural General Hospital District, operating two hospitals and a school of nursing.

Murder Attempt, Rape Charged After Girl Found

A 23-year-old Victoria man was charged in provincial court today with rape and attempted murder of a 19-year-old Edmonton girl found Thursday lying beside West Coast Rd.

Robert W. Thibeau, 306—3800 Quadra, was charged with attempted murder "by strangulation and beating about the head."

He was remanded to Nov. 13 for psychiatric examination.

Thibeau was arrested by Sooke RCMP Saturday, two days after Judy Lynn Kennedy was spotted by a passing motorist lying beside the road and waving feebly for help about 11 miles west of Sooke.

Police said she was badly beaten about the face and in a state of shock.

She told police she had been hitch-hiking from Ladysmith on the Trans-Canada Highway that evening and the man had picked her up.

Miss Kennedy was taken to Victoria General Hospital where her condition today is fair.

HEART SURGERY'S FIRST FATALITY

The open heart surgery program which began at Royal Jubilee Hospital last July has had its first fatality, a hospital spokesman said today.

The patient, described as a man in his mid-fifties from Greater Victoria, died on the operating room table last Tuesday when his heart could not be re-started after use of a heart-lung machine during the surgery. The heart-lung machine enables surgeons to operate on the heart at rest.

The open heart team successfully completed an operation Thursday, leaving the record at 20 successful operation since July against the single unsuccessful one last week.

'Queer' Mishap Injures Woman

A woman was injured Sunday in a boating incident at Pedder Bay which a Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman describes as "kind of a queer case."

There are conflicting reports on events which led to the admittance of Anna Sperberg, address unknown, to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A Pedder Bay marina official said she was one of a party of four aboard a cabin cruiser that came into the marina about 3 p.m. to take on fuel and supplies.

Heading out of the bay, the boat hit a rock and the woman fell in the boat, according to the marina spokesman. The Langford ambulance took her to hospital. But hospital records say she was run down by a boat.

She is in good condition today and undergoing tests.

After the injured woman left the marina in an ambulance the boat and the unidentified people aboard headed out to sea.

The PRC was notified shortly afterwards that flares were being fired from the vessel near Race Rocks.

A rescue boat from the marina went to the scene and found the cabin cruiser had engine trouble. But the skipper refused to be towed back to Pedder Bay, saying he preferred to go to Victoria.

The PRCC spokesman said the marina boat, heading back to the marina, sighted other flares from the cruiser as they returned to shore.

He said the cruiser operator refused commercial assistance.

"He said he wanted the coast guard to come out. He didn't want to pay the (commercial) bill," the spokesman said.

The cruiser finally made her own way to Victoria.

"It was a kind of a queer case," the spokesman reported.

Ask The Times

Q: Could you tell me if the journalist Charles Mair and the author Emily Carr are buried in Victoria? D.L.

A: Emily Carr, who died in 1945, was buriel in Ross Bay Cemetery. The remains of Charles Mair, who died in 1927, were forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

They measure from less than one inch to four or five inches and feed on insects. Most are able to change color to camouflage themselves. They do hibernate, the World Book Encyclopedia says.

Q. Could you please tell me what sort of haircuts are allowed in the armed forces, especially boot camp? J.V.

A. A services spokesman says hair short and neatly trimmed, cut to terminate above the collar of the uniform, taper-trimmed on sides and back, with sideburns not below the middle of the ear, tapered and squared.

The rules are the same during basic training — only more strictly enforced.

Q. Could you tell me what a tree toad is? Does it live and travel all year or does it hibernate? F.S.

A. There are several hundred kinds of tree frog or tree toad; distinguished by sticky pads on their feet enabling them to climb trees and leap through the tree tops.

People power turns the first sods with John Warren and Dorothy Jeffries, 4, giving a guiding hand

PIONEERS PLOW FIRST SOD

The first sod of the Pioneer Co-op Housing project in Vic West was turned with a "people plow" at ceremonies Sunday.

The event marked beginning of construction of 74 units which will provide housing for members of the newly-formed co-operative.

Estimated cost of the project is $1,611,800 with mortgage money coming from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The site at Langford and McCaskill is owned by the provincial government who lease it to the organization.

Co-op president John Warren said Saturday membership in the organization now stands at 15 but he expects "it will be going up much faster now that we are starting construction."

Provincial Housing Minister Lorne Nicholson was among officials attending Sunday's ceremony. Noting this is the first co-operative housing project to be started since the creation of the new housing department, he said the government would continue to encourage co-operative ownership in housing.

Immigrant Flow Slow Near Last Deadline

A heavy flow of immigrants to the immigration office Saturday reduced to a trickle today — the last day of the department's 60-day relaxed rule period.

Immigration officer John Smith said the flow could increase this evening until midnight when the office will close.

After midnight any immigrant who has not reported to the immigration office may be deported without appeal.

By Sunday, 521 persons had applied at the Victoria office at 816 Government to become landed immigrants.

The office has approved 229 applications, and 70 have been granted landed status.

A total of 45,180 persons has applied throughout Canada.

Landed status has been granted 4,824.

Manpower offices in centres not served by an immigration office will remain open until midnight to receive applications.

School Trustee Hopefuls Grow

Saanich school board chairman Rubymay Parrott announced today she will run for re-election.

Mrs. Parrott has been on the board six years, three of them as chairman.

Saanich Trustee Ann Foerster, completing her first term on the board, is also planning to run again.

Trustee Jack Armstrong, six-year veteran of the board, says he hasn't decided whether to run again, although he says "I feel that a person with my experience in education, and my philosophy, which is conservative, can be of some use."

In Greater Victoria School District, board chairman Peter Bunn and trustees Daphne Temple and Harry Graham have all announced they will run for re-election.

Still undecided is Dr. Harold Knight, trustee for the past four years.

Sooke school board chairman Fred Williway will not run again, for health reasons.

Trustees Bill Stephenson and Ron Fitton, both up for re-election, have not yet announced their candidacy.

Howard Drummond, who quit Sooke school board two weeks ago in a dispute over proposed introduction of a French-language program for armed forces children at John Stubbs school, said today he hasn't decided whether to run again.

U.S. Begins Arms Lift To Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. has begun an airlift of military supplies to Israel to prevent a "massive airlift" by the Soviet Union from unsettling the military balance in the area.

The state department's chief spokesman on the Mideast crisis, Ambassador Robert J. McCloskey, said the U.S. learned a Soviet airlift resupplying Egypt and Syria had increased from the standpoint of both numbers of flights and tonnage delivered to replace Arab losses in the war so far.

McCloskey said some of the replacement military hardware for Israel had arrived in the Mideast. That indicated the U.S. airlift began soon after the administration became convinced that the Russians were not only continuing but greatly increasing their airlift to the Arabs.

Officials said privately the U.S. airlift began about 30 hours before the announcement came today.

In the fighting, Israel has succeeded in holding the Sinai against another Egyptian human-wave assault in what appears to be the decisive battle of the war now 10 days old.

But almost the entire Egyptian army has made it across the Suez Canal, where Israel is expected to give the next priority.

Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan reported to the nation that Syria had been pushed back far enough into its own territory behind the 1967 cease-fire line so Israel could give the highest priority to the Suez front. He said the war would be "long in days and heavy in bloodshed."

On the Syrian front, Israel said it had broken through the central sector of the 60-mile-long Golan Heights line, smashing Iraqi armored forces, destroying dozens of tanks and sending remnants of the Iraqi army fleeing in retreat. It was the second disastrous defeat of the war for Iraq.

Farther to the northeast, Israeli patrols struck within nine miles of Damascus, reaching the village of Vissya, and armored columns were

ARAB OIL NOT VITAL FOR U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government released figures today showing the nation could get along without Arab oil, at least for the time being, in the event of a cutoff because of the Arab-Israeli war.

The figures showed the U.S. imports about 1.1 million barrels a day of oil direct from Arab countries, about 6 per cent of the total daily average U.S. consumption of 17 million barrels.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who supplies the bulk of Middle East oil imported by the U.S., holds the key to an Arab embargo on petroleum shipments to nations supporting Israel in the war. But Beirut sources said it would be too costly for his country to stop the flow.

Saudi Arabia and 10 other Arab oil nations meet Wednesday in Kuwait "to discuss the role of oil in the Arab-Israeli war," the government of the Persian Gulf state said.

William Simon, chairman of the president's oil policy committee, said the U.S. could reduce consumption by up to three million barrels a day through all-out conservation.

B.C. Rail Down Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Railway spokesman said today the government-owned line is shut down as its four shopcraft unions walked off the job after contract negotiations broke down.

About 400 employees, working out of Squamish are involved in the strike. The four unions are the machinists, electricians, plumbers and pipefitters, and carmen.

Negotiations between the company and the shopcraft unions broke down late Sunday.

A negotiating committee spokesman said wages and expiration date were the main issues. He said the length of contract management wanted would make it impossible to keep abreast of the cost of living.

The railway was closed by a strike in mid-September during negotiations with 12 unions.

On Saturday, a spokesman for the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees said an agreement had been reached between his union and B.C. Railway.

The base rate for shopcraft journeymen is $4.05 an hour with a 30-cent hourly trade differential. The railway's offer would raise the rate to $6.01 an hour over 31 months.

GUNMEN BEAT BOY

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen beat up a 17-year-old youth early today, tied him to a school fence and hung a sign reading "police informer" around his neck.

Police said the youth, who was not identified, was put in hospital.

In another incident, soldiers disarmed a 35-pound bomb found outside a beauty shop in east Belfast. Another bomb exploded on the steps of city hall in the County Down town of Crossgare, causing minor damage.

Three gunmen ambushed an eight-man army patrol in Londonderry late Sunday night, wounding one soldier.

Geothermal Hope Called Forlorn

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

A statement last week by Resources Minister Robert Williams that geothermal power might soon be available for Vancouver Island seems like a forlorn hope.

Williams, commenting on a statement by B.C. Hydro chairman David Cass-Beggs that natural gas would be the main heating fuel on Vancouver Island within 10 years, said it was only one source of energy being considered.

Among the alternatives in 10 years time, Williams said, was giothermal power, tapping the earth's heat.

However, geologists indicate that Vancouver Island is not a good place to look.

There is a break in the earth's crust on the west coast of Vancouver Island, similar to the San Andreas Fault, that may be commercially useful — or maybe not.

"It may be promising but we just don't know. We are more optimistic about geothermal sources on the mainland, a geologist said.

"We hope to see geothermal power on the mainland in 10 to 15 years but it likely will be later than that on the Island."

The promising signs are hot springs and volcanic activity.

There is no volcanic activity on Vancouver Island and few hot springs.

On the mainland, however, gologists have been studying hot springs for about two years and are optimistic that commercial sources of steam will be located.

On the Island it could be many years before commercial quantities of steam are located along the lengthy west coast fault line.

Although geologists consider geothermal power to be more than a decade away in B.C., it is not a new idea.

Italy had a geothermal power plant in 1904 and has expanded its capacity to be the largest such electricity source at 600 megawatts.

However, California has developed hot springs north of San Francisco with a geothermal power plant in the 300 to 400 megawatt range. California plans to expand this into the world's largest in the near future.

At the same time, oil companies drilling in the western United States are also looking for underground steam.

They are optimistic about uncovering large amounts of underground steam in Phoenix and Nevada and lesser amounts in Oregon and Idaho.

Thai Street Riots Flare

BANGKOK (UPI) — Anti-military students burned the police headquarters and took over public buildings, including hospitals, here today following the end of a decade of militaty rule Sunday.

The former military premier, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, resigned his post as supreme commander of the Thai armed forces today and left the country. He resigned as prime minister Sunday. The deputy supreme commander, Field Marshal Prapass Charusathira, also resigned and left Thailand, the radio said.

On Sunday, Thanom was replaced as premier by a civilian, Sanya Thammasak.

The radio said a 10 p.m. curfew had been moved up to 8 p.m. Military officials said the situation had become "gradually more tense due to audacious acts of rebellion" and threatened to take "decisive measure" against curfew violators.

The radio broadcast a personal appeal from Sanya asking citizens to stay at home. Sanya's appeal said: "The students and his majesty's government have come to an understanding." This was broadcast following a meeting between Sanya and representatives of the national students centre of Thailand."

The new violence was a spillover from "bloody Sunday" fighting between rioters and government forces that left as many as 400 persons dead by some estimates. King Bhumiplo Adulyadej told the nation "hundreds of Thai people have been killed."

At police headquarters a few blocks from the Rajdamnern area that was a major scene of Sunday's violence, a crowd estimated at about 10,000 persons — mostly students — pelted the four-storey building with stones and homemade Molotov cocktails.

Shouting "we have gotten rid of the oppressors," they set fire to the building and vehicles parked outside, forcing their way through the gates by using a commandeered bus as a battering ram. The fire burned unchecked and spread to nearby buildings.

2,000 FLEE BOSTON FIRE

CHELSEA, Mass. (UPI) — Fire fed by winds gusting to more than 40 mph swept "like a tornado" through a depressed area of scrapyards and tenements Sunday, destroying nearly a quarter of this Boston-area city and forcing more than 2,000 persons to evacuate their homes.

There were no deaths or serious injuries.

Mayor Philip Spelman and Sen. Edward Kennedy, (D — Mass.) urged the government to declare the densely-populated city of more than 30,000 a federal disaster area.

Some 500 national guardsmen were ordered into city streets today to help police guard against possible looting.

Spelman said many lives had been saved because the fire started at 4 p.m., in daylight.

"If this had started at 3 or 4 in the morning, God only knows what would have happened," he said.

"It swept through the city like a tornado . . . the winds were high — very high," the mayor said. The city "would have been in real trouble" if it had not been for railroad tracks dividing it which created a natural fire line, he said.

He estimated damage "in the millions," and said 400 to 600 persons would be thrown out of work and up to 1,000 persons lost their homes.

The fire is believed to have begun in an abandoned building and spread through a rundown industrial area containing many abandoned buildings, some scheduled for urban renewal, and warehouses containing scrap material, paper, rubber and metal. The area is predominantly White and Puerto Rican with a lingering Jewish population.

PM Makes Deal On Acupuncture

By JOHN BURNS
Special to The Times

PEKING — Commitments by China to teach Canadian doctors the technique of acupuncture analgesia and to facilitate the reunion of divided Chinese-Canadian families are included in the agreements reached by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Premier Chou En-lai, who concluded nearly 11 hours of formal talks here at the weekend.

At the suggestion of the Canadian side, there was no official communique after the talks.

Instead, Trudeau issued a statement describing the talks as "extremely warm and indicative of a high order of mutual respect and regard," and outlining a series of agreements in the areas of medicine, consular affairs, trade, science and technology, education, culture and sport.

The highlights:

Medicine: Canada will send a nine-member team to China next April for a month's study of acupuncture analgesia, the technique of killing pain by agitating needles inserted at prescribed points on the body. China has claimed remarkable success with the technique, citing it as a means of relieving and even curing afflictions ranging from arthritis to epilepsy.

Consular affairs: Since 1949, when the Communists clamped down on emigration from China, Chinese-Canadians have faced the anguish of enforced separation from relatives left behind.

In recent years, the Peking government has issued a few hundred exit visas, but Canadian officials hope to see the flow substantially increased as a result of an agreement for the two countries to exchange consulates.

Next year, China will send delegates specializing in laser research, open cast coal mining, seismology, fisheries and forestry to Canada. Canada will reciprocate by sending delegates to China in the fields of coal mining by hydraulics, fisheries, forestry and pest control.

Trade: A trade agreement was signed to serve as a general framework for commerce over the next three years. A joint trade committee will meet annually, and both sides have committed themselves to promoting the interchange of traders, a pledge that the Canadians hope will lead to better access for Canadian businessmen to Chinese buyers.

Meanwhile, China opens the door to its strategic southwest to Trudeau as he flies today from this ancient city in central China to Kweiling in Kwangsi province bordering North Vietnam.

The Chinese gesture is considered as symbolic of China's friendship towards Canada as the border province is seldom open to visits by foreigners.

New Flu Strain Poised

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new influenza virus against which most persons have no natural immunity could cause a flu outbreak in North America this winter reminiscent of the Hong Kong flu epidemic of 1968-69.

Dr. Robert Rubin, an epidemiologist at the National Centre for Disease Control said the new flu virus, known as the B-Hong Kong-5-72 strain, has made widespread attacks in Japan.

The strain, or ones similar to it, also have been identified in Australia, England and Germany.

The new strain was first isolated from a patient in Hong Kong last year, like the old A-2 Hong Kong virus that struck the country five years ago. It also is similar to the earlier strain in that it represents an antigenic shift which makes the general population susceptible to it.

Unlike 1968 when a protective vaccine did not become available until late in the flu season, pharmaceutical houses do have a vaccine ready to combat the new Hong Kong flu. Rubin said six pharmaceutical houses are manufacturing the protective vaccine and the suppy appears suffiient.

"We have not received any reports of widespread shortages," he said.

In past years, only a single shot of bivalent vaccine was necessary, to protect people against the current strains of A and B influenza. This flu season, however, two injections will be necessary with one of the shots containing specific antibodies to combat the new virus.

CS Strike Privilege Assured

The B.C. government introduced legislation this afternoon which will give at least 36,000 civil servants their first collective bargaining rights.

The bill is substantially the same as Bill 182 introduced in the spring session but held over until fall to allow representations to be made.

Some modifications have been made in the area of what is exluded from collective bargaining and some points have been clarified, Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall told reporters.

The right to strike is continued. Hall said this right will go "a long way to eliminating illegal strikes such as the ferries."

Promotional policy, excluded in the first bill, is partly implemented in the new bill. Hall said the merits of promotional policy will be bargainable and seniority will be a consideration.

Pensions, however, remain excluded. The B.C. Government Employees Union had urged the government strongly to allow pensions to be bargainable, arguing that they are a form of deferred wages.

Procedures and methods of training and retraining, excluded in the first bill, are partly met in the new bill, Hall said. Specific training programs affecting one occupational group will be bargainable, he said.

Classification of positions will be bargainable as far as the dozen components of the three bargaining groups are concerned, he said.

The two-tier bargaining arrangement which Hall said has not been tried in other provinces will see three bargaining groups: nurses; all professional employees; all other employees.

A master contract will be negotiated covering those matters which are common to everyone in each group. Subsidiary agreements will be negotiated with employees of the components.

Hall said ferry employees have not been granted separate bargaining rights except as it applies to them being a component group of the main civil service bargaining unit.

The religious conscientious objection clause, modelled on the proposed new labor code, is included.

The new bill will apply to employees of the Workmen's Compensation Board, Manning Park Lodge, Lions Gate Tourist Court and B.C. Institute of Technology, but not to Crown corporations nor to Queen's Printer craftsmen, the Energy Commission, Insurance Corp. of B.C. and the B.C. Development Corp.

The Labor Relations Board being established under the labor code will be the board to administer the servants' bargaining legislation.

Hall also said bargaining will be possible on effects on employees of reductions in civil service establishments.

Specified court officials are excluded to permit courts to continue at all times, Hall said, rather than having the chief justice decide who is essential to the operations of the courts.

"The government is honoring its commitment to provide collective bargaining for the civil service," Hall said.

"It gives the employees a real voice in their wages and conditions."

CHEAPER MILK BUT . . .

Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich today confirmed the provincial government will adopt a milk subsidy program Nov. 1 which will roll back milk prices in the province by four cents a quart.

Stupich said that while he welcomes the assistance being granted to consumers, it must be understood that additional increases at the retail level may occur if the present costs of production for dairy products continue to increase.

"The public should also be warned that milk production is failing to meet requirements and supplies are seriously deficient," he said.

Liberals Oppose Ford

WASHINTON (UPI) — The first organized opposition to Gerald Ford's nomination as vice-president surfaced today. At the same time, Congress began a two-stage confirmation process which could take a month to complete.

The liberal group, Americans for Democratic Action, said its national board voted unanimously at a meeting here Sunday "to oppose confirmation of Congressman Gerald Ford as vice-president."

So far, the only question raised publicly about Ford's campaign finances concerns an $11,500 contribution to his 1970 campaign which he allegedly did not report to the clerk of the House.

Ford told reporters Saturday the incident could be "adequately explained."

He said the money exceeded the amount his personal campaign committee was allowed to receive, and that he signed it over to Republican national headquarters for use in behalf of other candidates.

He invited committees considering his confirmation to look "fully" into the incident.

Ammo Air-Drop Shot Up

Times News Services

PHNOM PENH — A Cambodian transport plane air dropping ammunition to government troops near Phnom Penh was hit by rebel ground fire today and crashed at the capital's Pochentong airport.

A farmer who witnessed the crash said he saw five men, their clothing and hair on fire, run from the burning plane just before it was wracked by a series of explosions.

However, a western diplomatic source said he was told by the pilot and crew there were no injuries.

Meanwhile South Vietnamese and Viet Cong spokesmen agreed today that the Communists captured the government's White Horse Mountain militia outpost Friday but disagreed on the reasons.

The outpost, midway between Hue and Da Nang, is about 385 miles north of Saigon.

The Viet Cong said that in seizing the outpost they were simply recovering what belonged to them in the first place.
